MCKEITHEN SENDS AIDE

Teachers Renew Demand For $1,000-A-Year Raises

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Louisiana teacher leaders voted anew Saturday their demands for an average $1,000-a-year pay raise.

The House of Delegates of the Louisiana Teachers Association, during a two and a half hour special meeting here, drew a promise from a spokesman for Gov. John J. McKeithen that a special legislature next month will be asked to approve the full salary schedule requested by the United School Committee.

And C. H. (Sammy) Downs, McKeithen's administrative assistant, said McKeithen would request that a substantial part of the schedule be financed by the legislature.

ESTIMATED COST

When a delegate demanded a definition of "substantial," Downs estimated that perhaps $20 to $30 million may be found to provide the pay raise. Fiscal experts have estimated the total cost of the full scale at $48.8 million.

The more than 300 delegates voted down stronger resolutions intending to spell out that teachers would stage a classroom walkout unless the legislature votes the full raise.

LTA President Frank Miller and the executive council won approval of their resolution making a new appeal to the governor and legislature for the full scale.

The resolution also laid groundwork for a new emergency meeting of the House of Delegates 30 days after the special legislature should the minimum salary scale for teachers and other school personnel fail.

After long discussion and reading of nine separate resolutions, the LTA leadership resolution won with only four voting against.

Mrs. Margaret Cowsar, first vice president of the LTA, indicated she will seek, instead, to recess the November convention of the LTA until after the legislature to give the full teacher membership a chance to act.

Mrs. Cowsar won a parliamentary ruling that a special convention could not be called, but there was no reason the full convention could not recess until a later date.

After passage of the executive council's resolution, several stronger resolutions were withdrawn.

Education Supt. William J. Dodd told the teacher delegates he had confidence Gov. McKeithen will try to get the pay raise. He urged them "let's give the public a picture of a group that is firmly united and seriously dedicated to the immediate and complete enactment of the United School Committee's recommended program for school personnel salary scales.

"Let's affirm . . . our insistence that pledges and commitments made to us must be kept. Whatever we do, let's leave . . . secure in the knowledge that our action has increased the public goodwill we already possess and solidified the support we have received from and then promised by our legislators and our governor."

Miller outlined the organization's efforts to push through the new salary scale and its setbacks in the last legislature. He insisted the LTA leaders had not compromised to a scale-bound pay raise.

"The governor only has the key role," Miller said. "Nobody else can call that legislature into special session. Only the governor can specify what's in the call."

Of McKeithen, Miller said, "I think he needs some help—let's give him help." He urged teachers to put pressure on the lawmakers and the governor.

The House of Delegates approved two Caddo Parish resolutions. One provided for naming a committee made up of teachers, principals and superintendents from each of the eight congressional districts to meet with McKeithen and present teacher-pay problems. A second resolution provided for an advertising campaign in daily newspapers to tell the teachers' story.

Reassigned

Army Sp5 Jack D. Butler, 44, whose wife, Audie, lives at 506 Crosley St., West Monroe, recently was assigned to the 421st Medical Company in Germany.

Specialist Butler, a medical aidman in the company near Stuttgart, entered the Army in March, 1963. He was last assigned at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

He is the son of Will Butler, who lives in Hodge.

Books Donated

Sandel Library at Northeast State College has received some 350 volumes from the personal collection of the late Guy Banister of New Orleans, longtime member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

His mother, Mrs. Aline Banister, presented the books to Mrs. Maud Bentrup, head librarian at the college. The Banister books are chiefly on political science, criminology and espionage.

HESITANTLY SIGNED

New Act Will Ease Losses To Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday he has signed, with some misgivings, a bill aimed at making it easier for Americans eventually to collect claims against the Cuban government for property seized by the Castro regime.

The new law authorizes the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission to determine the amount and validity of claims by Americans against the government of Cuba. At the same time, it vests in the federal government ownership of certain assets of the Cuban government now held in the United States and calls for the sale of these assets to help pay for administration of the new law.

Johnson said that the latter provision requires further study.

"The United States strongly adheres to the sanctity of property," he said. "The vesting of the property of foreign governments or nationals is not a step that we should undertake without careful consideration."

He said he has ordered Secretary of State Dean Rusk to determine the provision's implications, "for the conduct of our foreign relations." He also asked the Justice Department for an opinion on the precise scope and application of the proviso.

The vesting provision will not go into effect for six months and Johnson said he might ask Congress, during that waiting period, to amend the new law.

The assets which would be taken over by the federal government, said Johnson, "are already blocked and are thus of no further use to the Cuban government."

The President said Cuba has expropriated more than $1 billion of American-owned property through seizures that "violated every standard by which the nations of the free world conduct their affairs."

Cong Forces Loss Mounts To 300 Men

Khanh Takes Off To Make Peace With Tribesmen

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Oct. 17 (AP) — More than 300 Communist guerrillas were killed or captured in a series of battles that flamed from the far north to the deep south, government sources reported Saturday. Total Vietnamese casualties were given as 62 dead, wounded or captured.

Authorities described the fighting Friday as one of the worst days for the Communists in the long conflict.

FIGHTING SEVERE

After severe fighting, Premier Nguyen Khanh flew to Pleiku to try to make his peace with the U.S.-trained central mountain tribesmen, who staged a revolt last month and threatened to undermine the war effort. Reports from Pleiku, 240 air miles north of Saigon, said he offered concessions.

Before leaving, Khanh told reporters: "The United States has the means to win the war in Viet Nam if it really wants to." He did not amplify, but he has talked in the past of bombing bases in Communist North Viet Nam and to strike at the guerrilla supply lines there.

The heaviest of the series of engagements with the Viet Cong guerrillas was in Communist country in the southern Delta region near Bac Lieu, 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

Airborne troops in U.S. helicopters hit the area with rockets and machine gun fire and the Vietnamese Air Force dropped bombs on 200 guerrillas caught in the open in the rice paddies by a Vietnamese ground force.

The government reported 89 Viet Cong were killed and 17 others were captured in a battle lasting eight hours. The government reported it suffered 6 killed and 25 wounded, including a U.S. enlisted man grazed by a bullet. He returned to action after treatment.

In a second battle 25 miles from Saigon, more than 100 Viet Cong were reported killed or wounded when two government columns trying to clear north-south highway 13 struck a Communist battalion. Government losses were 16 killed and 4 others were missing. In this engagement, the Viet Cong destroyed a U.S.-made H24 tank and damaged two others.

Congolese Aim Of Arabs' Plot, Tshombe Says

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe charged Saturday the United Arab Republic, Algeria and Mali had plotted to kill leaders of the Congo.

"All Egyptian and Algerian citizens must leave the Congo as soon as possible," Tshombe shouted in a speech at the Leopoldville football stadium. The crowd roared its approval.

Tshombe told a crowd of more than 50,000 that President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and President Modibo Keita of the West African Republic of Mali had hatched the plot at Cairo last week.

The Congolese premier asserted the three leaders met after the Cairo conference of nonaligned states, from which Tshombe was barred and placed under house arrest in the Egyptian capital.

Tshombe charged that the three leaders had decided to send a large group of assassins across the Congo River from the neighboring Congo (Brazzaville) Republic.

"It will be a feast day for the fishes in the river if they ever try," Tshombe predicted amid loud cheers.

Tshombe, who returned in triumph from Cairo last Tuesday, made some exceptions in his expulsion statement.

Tshombe said U.A.R. and Algerian nationals who came here under the auspices of such international organizations as the United Nations would be accepted. More than 100 Egyptian teachers work in the Congo as part of the U.N. technical assistance program.

Car Industry Still Plagued By 2 Strikes

American Accord May Be At Hand; Worse With GM

DETROIT (AP) — Two major strikes continued to plague the nation's auto industry Saturday — with negotiations apparently near agreement at American Motors Corp. but barely half way there at General Motors.

The walkouts have idled more than 327,000 workers in the United States and Canada, 300,000 of them at GM plants and subsidiaries.

LOCALS STILL STALL

Although GM and the striking United Auto Workers Union have reached agreement on national contract terms, unresolved local plant demands have held up a return of workers to the assembly lines.

Latest reports show only 65 of 130 local bargaining units have settled their differences over such issues as company-furnished uniforms, parking lots, working conditions and grievance procedures.

GM workers went on strike Sept. 25, and the AMC walkout began last Thursday midnight.

With the major stumbling block of profit sharing out of the way, AMC and union sources indicated agreement might be forthcoming shortly on remaining issues involving so-called wage inequities, a seniority transfer clause and wage scales for some 3,000 workers in the company's Kelvinator Appliance Division at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Other problems still to be resolved include company-proposed cutbacks in the number of union stewards and daily relief time.

Details of a completely revised profit-sharing plan were disclosed Saturday in a joint news conference held by AMC and the union.

Under the simplified new formula — depending on the level of profits — AMC workers could receive an extra week's vacation pay above the additional week gained by the union last month in three-year contracts with the automotive Big Three — GM, Ford and Chrysler.

But sharing the risk, the union agreed to give up both extra weeks' vacation pay in any year the company's profits decline appreciably.

In a joint statement, AMC Vice President Edward Cushman and UAW chief negotiator Douglas Fraser explained: "The maximum share that employes could get from progress (profit) sharing is the equivalent of one week's vacation pay beyond the new automotive industry settlement provision, and the most the employes can lose is the one week's extra vacation payment provided in the settlement."

Unlike the historic profit-sharing agreement in effect the past three years, no provision is made this time for a distribution of AMC stock to the employes.

Mercury To Hit Low 80's Today

Skies over the Twin Cities will be clear to partly cloudy with warm weather conditions through tonight. The outlook for Monday calls for considerable cloudiness and cooler weather.

WARM

The weatherman said that the mercury will climb to 80 to 84 degrees today which compares with a high of 89 a year ago on this date. Last year on Oct. 18, the thermometer went to a low of 50, and today's low reading will be 48 - 52.

FAA at Selman Field recorded no rain Saturday.

PLAYMATES James McQueary (left) and Johnny Hundley, both 9, have been missing from their homes in Fairfax, Ohio, since Thursday afternoon. They were last seen when they returned home from school. Fairfax is the same community where a 60-hour search was conducted about two months ago for missing Debbie Dappen, 4. That search ended when Debbie's body was found under a neighbor boy's porch. The boy admitted killing the little girl and hiding her body. (AP Wirephoto)

POLICY STATEMENT

Laborites Decry Red China's Test

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor Government, in its first foreign policy statement, Saturday pronounced itself deeply disappointed by Red China's nuclear test and affirmed its faith in the power of the Western alliance to keep the peace.

As a member of the nuclear club — but only a reluctant member under the Laborites — the government said Red China could not yet be accepted to full membership because of "the vast difference between the first test of a crude device and the emergence of a country as a nuclear power."

Labor has indicated it will allow the nation's nuclear deterrent to run down and become obsolete. The Conservatives campaigned in the recent election on a platform of keeping the bomb.

FROM FOREIGN OFFICE

The statement was issued by the foreign office, taken over only in the past few hours by the new foreign secretary, Patrick Gordon Walker. He saw the text before it was issued, and for a time officials considered the possibility of releasing the statement through Prime Minister Harold Wilson's office at No. 10 Downing St. This was later rejected, apparently because Wilson is now too deeply involved in organizing his new government.

The statement emphasized continuity with foreign policy under the Conservative government, and informants said it probably would not have been much different if it had been issued when the Conservatives were still in office.

It said the test explosion will "not affect the military situation in Asia. Moreover, in view of the massive nuclear power and defense systems available to the Western alliance, no foreseeable development of nuclear capacity by the Chinese could significantly affect the balance of military power."

"Her Majesty's Government's attitude to the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty remains unchanged, as does their determination to meet their defense commitments in Southeast Asia," it added.

Britain is supporting Malaysia in its fight against Indonesian guerrilla warfare. The statement thus indicated that a Labor government would continue providing troops and equipment for the jungle war.

The key phrase giving the government's feelings about the explosion was: "the capacity of the Chinese to effect such an explosion has been known for some time. Her Majesty's Government are nevertheless deeply disappointed that the Chinese should have decided to do so in the face of world opinion and the hopes raised by the Test Ban Treaty."

Also Mention West Quitting Berlin Posts

MOSCOW (AP) — With the Red Chinese A-blast echoing in their ears, the top Soviet leaders Saturday called on all the people of the world to "struggle for the complete ending of nuclear weapons tests."

The Central Committee of the Communist party, which just ousted Nikita S. Khrushchev as its chief, set this as the theme for its Nov. 7 celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution.

RENEWS DEMAND

Another main subject, printed in Pravda Saturday as a call of the committee for Nov. 7, was a renewal of the demand that the Western powers get out of Berlin and permit the old German capital to be turned into a "free, demilitarized city."

However, the committee seemed more anxious to obtain the good will of the present three other nuclear powers besides the Soviet Union — the United States, Britain and France — than to berate them.

One of the calls, after the appeal to end all nuclear tests, said, "May friendship and cooperation of the peoples of Britain, the United States of America, France and the Soviet Union develop and gain in strength in the name of durable world peace!"

This was the most public and direct appeal of the new Soviet leadership for the friendship of the West since Khrushchev's ouster.

Observers here believed it would doubtless be answered by President Johnson in his scheduled address tonight to the American people.

Kremlin leaders already had let the word spread that they would not depart radically from Khrushchev's policies.

The new ruling group, headed by Communist Party First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, appeared to be firmly in the saddle.

Khrushchev's whereabouts since he was toppled from power at Wednesday's secret session of the party central committee remain a closely guarded secret. Unconfirmed rumors circulated that he was under house arrest somehwere in the capital. Other equally unsubstantiated reports said he would appear at Monday's Red Square homecoming reception for the Soviet Union's three newest cosmonauts.

Yet other reports said Brezhnev or Kosygin would use the cosmonaut celebration as a sounding board for a major policy statement, including the reasons for Khrushchev's downfall. Such a move would appear to exclude the possibility of Khrushchev's attending.

Future criticism of Khrushchev is expected to follow guidelines laid down Saturday by the party organ Pravda in a front page editorial.

In stinging terms, obviously aimed at Khrushchev, though not naming him, the new regime's first policy statement said:

"Hare-brained scheming, immature conclusions and hasty decisions and actions divorced from reality, bragging and phrase-mongering, commandism, unwillingness to take into account the achievements of science and practical experience are alien to the party."

THE SLEEK F111

U.S. Hurries Output Of Latest Warplane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acceleration of the F111 warplane program may be one of the outgrowths of the disturbing developments in Communist China and the Soviet Union.

While this government does not consider imminent any military dangers arising out of China's first test of an atomic explosive or the toppling of the Khrushchev regime in Moscow, it nevertheless is taking a look into the uncertain future.

To the National Security Council meeting summoned Saturday by President Johnson went his top military adviser, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The Pentagon has emphasized for more than two years that the United States has an abundance of nuclear warheads and delivery equipment — in the tens of thousands. But McNamara has plugged hard for ever-increasing variety in weapons of flexibility with which to fight wars ranging down from all-out nuclear strategic conflict to conventional-type wars.

Even when China has operational nuclear weapons she may not use them directly, but instead hold them as a deterrent while she seeks to expand domination of all Asia by other means.

McNamara hammered hard on the versatility of the F111 in his speech last week at the Fort Worth plant of General Dynamics Corp. in the rollout ceremony for the initial test plane.

"For the first time in aviation history," he said, "we have an airplane with the range of a transport, the carrying capacity and endurance of a bomber, and the agility of a fighter pursuit plane. Its performance is as versatile as its missions are varied."

Faced with the prospect of a nuclear-armed China and of uncertainty about the policies and plans of a new Moscow government, McNamara can argue the need for the versatile F111, in the hands of both the Air Force and Navy.

As it stands, the schedule now is for the first test flight of the plane before the end of this year, with production sufficient for deliveries of first planes to the tactical Air Force in the latter half of 1966.

Lyons Says Goldwater's Labor Friend

SHREVEPORT (Special) — At a labor rally here Saturday night, Republican State Chairman Charlton H. Lyons told the group that the GOP is the real friend of labor and that Barry Goldwater does not seek to stop social security, he seeks to strengthen it.

The former gubernatorial candidate said, "If you look at the record, it was Republicans who initiated the Landrum-Griffin Act which protects your pension funds from raids by the labor bosses who are supposed to be representing you.

"Many of the Democrat Party big shots and national labor leaders are trying to tell you that your best friends are the democrats. Nothing could be further from the truth. What these big shot labor leaders should tell you is that the Democratic Party is best for their personal interests, for their own personal gain.

"For the past few days Democrats have tried to plant the idea that Sen. Goldwater wants to get rid of social security.

"What Senator Goldwater wants to do is to make sure that you can keep on getting social security checks and that the dollars you receive will buy 100 cents worth of groceries in the future.

"No man who is eleced president and no Congress elected would ever vote to end social security."

After saying that the Democratic administration has mishandled social security reserve funds, Lyons assured the gathering that "what Sen. Goldwater wants to do is simply to take the money you pay in and put it in reserve so that you will be able to get your social security checks without everybody's taxes being raised."

Taking issue with economic proposals of the present administration, Lyons charged, "It is the working man who is hit hardest by rises in the cost of living. When food costs go up, when clothing costs go up, you are the loser.

"Yet in the face of the spiraling cost of living, President Johnson presumed to tell labor that they could not ask for more than a three per cent wage increase. At the same time, President Johnson asked for a 30 per cent raise for the big job holders in the Democratic administration.

"I see where the price of bread may go up two cents a loaf. That raise in cost is caused by the Johnson-Democratic administration. Figure it out for yourself. They are selling wheat to Russia for 62 cents a bushel. U. S. bakers are paying $1.25 per bushel or better. In practical effect, the Johnson administration is giving cheap bread to the communists while your cost of bread is going up."

Lyons summarized his quest for labor votes by noting, "In the first year of the Eisenhower Republican Administration, union membership exceeded 16 million workers for the first time in history. It remained above 17 million workers during seven of the eight years of Republican administration.

"The first year of the present Democratic administration, union membership fell below 17 million workers and has stayed there.

"No, my friends, labor has nothing to fear from the Republican Party of Sen. Goldwater. In fact, the Republican Party is labor's best real friend."

Crash Is Fatal For Jena Man; Final Rites Set

JENA (Special) — A car-truck crash on State Highway 107 Friday near Marksville took the life of a Jena man.

State police said Leonard Morris Manchester Jr., 26-year-old native and resident of Jena, was killed instantly when the car he was driving south collided with a northbound oil field truck driven by Robert L. Phillips, 62, of Shreveport.

Police said the accident apparently resulted when Manchester's car veered into the truck's lane, went under the side of the truck and collided with the truck's left rear wheel. The truck driver and a passenger in the car and truck each were uninjured, according to police.

No charges were filed.

Funeral services for the accident victim will be held today at 3 p.m. at the Molley Methodist Church of Jena with the Rev. Ed Baksdale officiating. Burial will be at the Molley Cemetery by Hixson Brothers Funeral Home of Jena.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. L. M. Manchester Jr.; three daughters, Doraine Manchester, Lauren Manchester, and Kim Manchester, all of Jena; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Manchester Sr. of Jena; one sister, Mrs. L. Gene Randall of Baker; and his maternal grandfather, Marvin Allen of Jena.

Pallbearers will be Allen Coleman, Jimmy Coleman, Don Taylor, Jofferee Brooks, Harlan Morgan, and Marvin Morgan.

Teachers Meet Slated Monday

The regular Ouachita Parish Teacher's Association meeting will be held at Ouachita Junior High School Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held to honor Reps. Lawrence Gibbs and George Woods for their work for teachers and education in the legislature.

The meeting will be open to the public.

OUACHITA FAIR ENDS

Winners In Horse Show Are Selected

The naming of 37 winners in Saturday's junior quarterhorse show and a dog show Saturday afternoon wrapped up the activities of the six-day Ouachita Valley Fair.

Large crowds milled around the midway on final day of the fair. Children's day was Saturday and the youngsters were treated to the rides and concession goods at lowered rates.

Canuda Miller, owned by Larry Russell of Franklin Parish, won the judges approval and walked away with the grand champion stallion honor. The reserve grand champion stallion was Ward's King Bob, owned by Margeann Laurence of Union.

Cooter Tooter, a mare owned by Margeann Laurence of Union, was named the grand champion mare. Connie Lively's Texas Joy was awarded the reserve grand champion mare ribbon.

Pegusus Pete, owned by Margie Godwin of Ouachita, received the champion gelding ribbon.

Jimmy Long of Union Parish was named the overall winner in the showmanship category.

Union Parish scored the most points to receive first place recognition to showmanship among parishes. Ouachita came in second.

Judges announced the following winners in the boys over 14 showmanship division: Jimmy Long of Union, Jerry Butler of Caldwell, Larry Russell of Franklin, Randy Johnson and Barry Lynn Whitehead, both of Ouachita.

No winners were announced in the boys under 14 group.

Margeann Laurence of Union placed first in the girls over 14 showmanship groups and was the only winner named.

Five winners were named in the girls under 14 group. They are Shonny E. Russell of Franklin, Margie Godwin of Ouachita, Connie Lively of Caldwell, Ann Oakley of Ouachita and Suzette Taylor of Union.

Here are the results as recorded by the judges of the other divisions of the show:

Halter class, stallions foaled in 1964—Margeann Laurence of Union, riding King Gold Bob; and Jimmy Long of Union, on Red Miller 2.

Halter class, stallions foaled in 1962—Larry Russell of Franklin, riding Canuda Miller.

Halter class, stallions foaled in 1960 or before — Margeann Laurence of Union won first place on Ward's King Bob and second place on Major's Meleo.

Mares, foaled in 1964—Margie Godwin of Ouachita, on Athena Bar's.

Mares, foaled in 1963—Connie Lively of Caldwell, on Texas Joy; Randy Johnson of Ouachita, Ginger Pawnee; Ann Day Oakley of Ouachita, Wilda Sue Bee; and Margeann Laurence of Union, Major's Marge.

Mares, foaled in 1962—Margeann Laurence of Union, Cooter Tooter; Margeann Laurence of Union, Major's Maria; and Barry Lynn Whitehead of Ouachita, Mamsie Duke.

Mares, foaled in 1961 —Suzette Taylor of Union, on James Prinecss.

Mares, foaled in 1960 or before—Leila Godwin of Ouachita, on Talley Book; Jimmy Long of Union, on Cleota's; and Margeann Laurence of Union, on Rondo Lady I.

Geldings, foaled 1962 or after — Margie Godwin of Ouachita, riding Pegasus Pete.

Geldings, foaled 1959 and before—Jerry Bulter of Caldwell, riding Poco Ski.

Produce of dam, two foals from the same dam—Margeann Laurence of Union, on Rondo Lady.

Get of Sire, three animals, either sex, owned by one or more exhibitors, not more than two have the same dam—Margeann Laurence of Union, on Major King.

Young Freedom Group To Meet Here Thursday

The Young Americans for Freedom will meet in the Louis Locke Room of the Ouachita Public Library at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, Miss Lyn Lueg, chairman of the local group, announced.

Principal speaker for the event will be Morley Hudson, one of the two Republican representatives to the Louisiana Legislature, Miss Lueg said. She added that he is also vice chairman for the public relations division of the Goldwater for President campaign.

Miss Lueg said that Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard will also be on hand to speak to the group. A film will be shown on Senator Goldwater and literature about the organization will be passed out at the meeting.

Tickets are being sold by members of the organization for 50 cents each or 75 cents a couple, or they may be purchased at the door, Miss Lueg stated.

The local chairman said that the purpose of the YAF is to "promote Constitutional government in America and to promote an understanding between adults and young people on political matters."

The club is bi-partisan, Miss Lueg explained, and she said that it "gives young people a chance to actively participate in government."

41 Amendments Cover Many Topics

(EDITOR'S NOTES: This is the sixth in a series of articles on the 41 constitutional amendments to be voted on November 3rd. Today's article covers amendments 18 through 20.)

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

Louisiana voters will have a tough job on November 3rd when they vote for a President, because the ballot also will include 41 proposed constitutional amendments.

The amendments include a wide range of topics, including proposals pertaining to visitation rights in neglect of family cases, restrictions on candidates during elections and voting by tuberculosis patients.

Amendment No. 18 would authorize the courts to grant visitation rights in criminal neglect cases while at present visitation rights can only be set in separation suits or divorce suits.

Supporters of the amendment contend that in some cases it is unjust to require alimony payments without assuring the individual making the payments the right to visit the family.

No. 18 would permit the judge to use his discretion in determining the cases in which such visitation rights are justified. But there also is a question on the proposed amendment.

It is felt in some circles that the purpose of the amendment could be obtained through a regular act.

Amendment No. 19, however, would prohibit persons, other than members of the board of election supervisors or of a parish election committee, from serving as an election commissioner, alternate, watcher, or deputy in any election in which he is also a candidate for office.

The intent of this proposal is to prevent an obvious violation of the spirit of the law, which dictates that a candidate for election should not participate in the electoral process other than to cast his ballot.

A similar proposal was offered in 1962, but was erroneously amended in the Legislature and the author asked for its defeat, which followed.

Meantime, the Public Affairs Research Council has challenged provisions in No. 20, which would specifically authorize persons in state-owned tuberculosis hospitals to vote.

PAR points out that inmates in TB hospitals are now permitted to vote in their home parishes, adding, "This proposal would therefore accomplish nothing that is not now being done."

At present the law provides that patients at Carville, an institution for Hansen's disease, can vote. But PAR says because of the omission of certain words, No. 20 might be construed to prohibit Carville patients from voting.

Commenting on the proposal, PAR stated, "There seems to be no apparent reason why the constitution should be amended to specifically authorize tubercular patients to vote in view of the fact that they have been voting in their home parishes in the past."

Area Centenary Solicitations Set For Today

The final stage of Centenary College's 1964 "Campaign for Excellence" opens in the Monroe area at 2 p.m., today as district Methodist churches begin an every-member solicitation designed to produce their "fair share" of the drive's $1,125,000 goal.

Rev. Edward R. Haug, Monroe District Superintendent who is serving as district chairman of the campaign, announced that meetings will be held at each church preparatory to beginning solicitation at 2 p.m. After the afternoon's effort, a report meeting will be held in each church at 7 p.m.

Although most of the solicitation is expected to be completed this afternoon, further report meetings are scheduled for Oct. 21, 25, and 26, Nov. 1 and 4, after which the campaign will officially be at an end.

Assisting the Rev. Mr. Haug in the Monroe District will be W. D. Cotton, lay co-chairman, and the Rev. George W. Harbuck, clergy co-chairman.

Of the $1,125,000 sought in the drive, $1,000,000 will go to Centenary and $125,000 to the Wesley Foundations of the LSU system.

Red Chinese Celebrate While World Ponders

TOKYO (AP) — Red China celebrated Saturday its acquisition of the atom bomb while the world pondered the grave political and human consequences which might follow.

"An important achievement in strengthening national defense of world peace," trumpeted the official Peking People's Daily in a special edition.

"A victory of the Chinese Communist Party's general line. . . a victory of the Chinese people. . . in relying on their own strength" said Premier Chou En-Lai and members of the standing committee of the National People's Congress called into special session.

"Nuclear Test Success" read signs posted at bus stops, factories and government offices in the Chinese capital.

"A victory of Mao Tze-Tung's thinking" blared the Communist Hong Kong newspaper Wen Wei Pao, boasting that "American imperialism and Russian revisionist Nikita Khrushchev" had looked down on China as an underdeveloped country incapable of manufacturing nuclear weapons.

The Chinese announcement late Friday gave only the barest information that the bomb had been exploded in western China. Likeliest spots were presumed to be either the Gobi Desert of Mongolia or in uranium-rich Sinkiang Province, both of which have vast uninhabited areas.

Intelligence sources in Hong Kong said the site was probably in Sinkiang, near the nuclear research center in the Urumchi area, next to Tibet. The center has 10,000 and 15,000 kilowatt Russian-built nuclear reactors and 3,000 scientists and technicians, the sources said.

"It's also an area where there are large deposits of uranium and thorium sand, necessary ingredients for the manufacture of fissionable materials," the sources added. "Bits and pieces of information have been filtering through to Hong Kong in the last few years and they have always told of intense scientific activity in Sinkiang."

Only a few nations shared the Chinese communist mood of elation, chiefly those who support the Chinese line of violence and revolution. Initial reaction was favorable in North Vietnam, North Korea, Albania and from the Communist parties of Indonesia and Japan.

But the majority of the world's nations, more than 100 of which have adhered to the Partial Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, gloomily considered whether Wen Wei Pao's claim in Hong Kong that the test had "shattered the monopoly of nuclear bombs into pieces" might not be at least partly true.

In the eyes of the many persons the Chinese bomb could produce three immediately important by-products:

1. The spread, or proliferation, of nuclear weapons, a development which the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union sought to head off by agreeing to halt their testing programs.

2. The entry, if not this year, at least sometime in 1965, of the Chinese people's Republic into the United Nations.

3. Efforts by the Peking regime to impose its will, through nuclear blackmail, on its weaker and less well-armed neighbors.

Reports from diplomats at the United Nations suggest that if China hoped to shoot her way into the international organization with the bomb she will not succeed this year.

Soviet Newsman Finds New Man As TV Director

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail Kharlamov arrived in Moscow Saturday night to find his job as Soviet radio and television boss occupied by Nikolai N. Mesyatsev, a fast-rising leader of the Young Communist League.

Kharlamov, former Soviet Foreign Ministry press chief, was part of a circle of key propaganda officials dismissed in Nikita S. Khrushchev's fall from power this week.

The former chairman of the State Committee for Radio and Television returned to Moscow from Copenhagen. Before he left Denmark, he ridiculed Western press reports of his dismissal as "just foolish."

Mesyatsev's appointment was disclosed Saturday night by officials of Moscow Radio in a telephone interview.

A Red army veteran of World War II, he graduated in 1951 from Moscow University, where he began his Young Communist League (Komsomol) career as a student leader. He rose steadily in the Komsomol organization while working for youth newspapers and magazines. He traveled abroad frequently as a leader of Soviet delegations to Communist-sponsored youth conferences and festivals.

In 1960 he became first deputy chairman of the All-Union Society for the Dissemination of Scientific and Political Knowledge, an organization mainly devoted to spreading atheist propaganda.

JENKINS AFFAIR

Dillon Reveals FBI's Role In Aide Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said Saturday a 1961 FBI arrest report on Walter W. Jenkins, was not brought to the attention of high Secret Service officers or to Lyndon B. Johnson, then vice president, or any members of his staff.

Dillon made this known in a letter to Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, acting attorney general, concerning the investigation into Jenkins, whose arrest twice on morals charges led to his resignation last week as a top White House aide.

The FBI report had not been evaluated by the head of one section of the Secret Service as involving a serious matter, Dillon said.

President Johnson has ordered Dillon to make an investigation as to why the Secret Service, part of the Treasury, failed to tell the White House about a 1959 arrest of Jenkins.

Dillon said in his letter to the attorney general:

"Since the President has assigned the Federal Bureau of Investigation the responsibility of conducting an investigation concerning Walter W. Jenkins, I want to inform you that on April 6, 1961, the U.S. Secret Service, in connection with a routine White House request for the issuance of a White House pass to Mr. Jenkins, requested criminal and subversive file checks from the FBI.

"On April 18, 1961, the Secret Service received a one-line form report from the FBI giving the results of its criminal file search. This report showed that on Jan. 16, 1959, the FBI received the fingerprints of Walter Wilson Jenkins from the District of Columbia police on a charge of "inv sup person" (investigation suspicious person.) No disposition of the charge was shown, and there was no further indication of the nature of the charge.

"On April 19, 1961, the FBI report on its subversive file check was received. It consisted of a 1958 FBI background investigation of Mr. Jenkins which disclosed no derogatory information. The Secret Service had also been informed by the White House that Mr. Jenkins had a current to-secret clearance."

Report Of Area Planes Mishap Causes Search

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — A report from a tugboat captain on the Mississippi River that he saw two planes collide about 10 miles south of Lake Providence stirred futile checks and searches Saturday.

A search by Louisiana State Police and two planes failed to spot any wreckage, and no planes were reported missing in the area.

The Associated Press reported the FAA at Shreveport confirmed there was an incident in the area, but stated it was part of an Air Force operation of a classified nature and not a crash.

Authorities at Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, said none of its aircraft was on maneuvers in the Lake Providence area at the time and none of its planes was missing.

The FAA southern coordinator at New Orleans said it had no further reports to indicate a collision had occurred. Efforts by FAA officials to contact the tugboat which made the original report were unsuccessful.

Speech, Square Dance Classes Set At YMCA

Informal classes in Effective Speaking and Square Dancing for beginners will be offered by the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A., 1809 Glenmar.

The speech class will meet on Monday, 7:30 p.m. for nine weeks, beginning October 26th. Square dancing will be held on Thursday, 7:30 p.m. beginning October 29th. for ten weeks.

J. W. Webster Jr. is the instructor for the speech course while T. A. Boutwell and Paul D. Wilhite will teach the square dance group.

Webster, a graduate of Northeast College in business administration, has served as graduate assistant in a Dale Carnegie course. He is currently president of the Monroe-West Monroe Real Estate Board.

Boutwell and Wilhite are active in the local square dance club known as Wheelers and Dealers. Square dancing is sponsored by most Y.M.C.A's in the nation and is especially popular among adults of all ages.

Those interested in enrolling should call Howard Morland, General secretary of the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A., FA 5-7391.

Johnson Cancels Trips; Sets Special Briefings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson Saturday cancelled plans for a Texas campaign trip and arranged to make a nationally broadcast report to the nation tonight on Communist China's first nuclear test and the change of government in the Soviet Union.

The White House announced that Johnson also would summon Republican and Democratic leaders of the House and Senate to a special briefing session on Monday and would meet Tuesday with his cabinet — all on the same subjects.

There was no immediate word on whether Johnson and his top diplomatic, military and intelligence advisors had concluded that developments in the Soviet Union and Communist China were more ominous than the President's initial comments Friday had indicated.

The broadcast was set for 8 p.m. Eastern Standard Time tonight.

The White House announcement said that the National Security Council, which met with Johnson for an hour Saturday, feels that "while there is no present cause for national alarm and no immediate emergency, it is advisable in the national interest to be certain that all the responsible officers of the government are fully and promptly informed."

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, also reported that it was the Security Council that recommended "the President himself give a report and assessment of the international situation to the American people."

Johnson will make his broadcast at 9 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time tonight. Reedy said he probably would speak for 15 to 30 minutes.

There was no plan to include Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, in the invitation to bipartisan congressional leaders to attend the Monday briefing session.

Whether Goldwater would be filled in through some other means was not clear. One White House source said Johnson's month-old offer to provide the GOP candidate with secret intelligence briefings still stands. Goldwater previously had rejected the offer.

The President had been expected to fly to his Texas ranch tonight and, on Monday, make campaign appearances in the Texas cities of San Antonio, Houston, Ft. Worth and Dallas. On Tuesday, Johnson had considered other campaign dates in thhe West and Midwest.

Reedy said that, as a result of Saturday's White House meetings, Johnson would remain in Washington through Wednesday.

Johnson earlier had canceled plans to fly to his ranch Friday night and to make campaign stops today in Laredo and Corpus Christi, Tex.

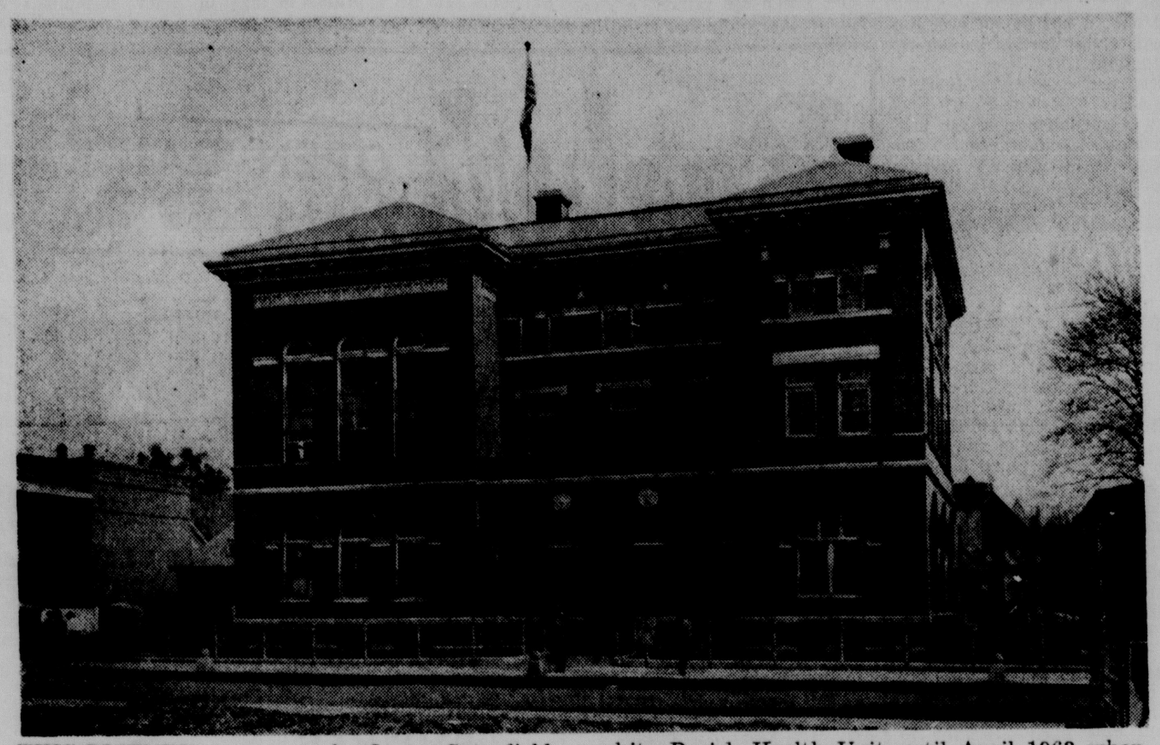
SCENES of YESTERYEAR

. . . in the Twin Cities



THIS PICTURE, sent to us by James Saterfield, Route 4, Box 101C, Monroe, is of the old post office building in Monroe. The picture was made around 1911. The old post office was located at Grammont and St. John Streets and was built around 1880 or 1881. It remained the post office until January 1934. The building was later sold to the City of Monroe and was used as the Ouachita Parish Health Unit until April 1963 when the new health building was finished on DeSiard Street. After that the old building, as pictured above, was converted into a museum. If you have old pictures showing Twin Cities scenes bring them in to us or mail them, along with all of the available information.

Goldwater Defends Right To Striking

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater promised labor Saturday he'd fight to defend its right to strike and blasted the idea of "one-man, one-thumb government."

"We don't want just one man's thumb on the government," he declared. "We want all the peoples' thumbs."

"I'll tell you union men one thing," he said at Akron. "I'll fight to defend your right to strike and bargain collectively."

The Republican presidential candidate barnstormed industrial northeast Ohio Saturday, speaking out against centralized government, beaming to enthusiastic reception, and even autographing a tennis shoe.

He told the voters in a speech that they had a choice: "Take a path that leads to socialism or get back on the road to individual freedom."

In Mansfield, Akron, Canton and here, Goldwater wooed the vote of the working man.

The senator assured listeners that Red China's explosion of a nuclear device did not mean it had the capability to deliver warheads. He said he believes that capability is years away "unless they get help."

Two teen-age girls who kept chanting "We want Barry," Goldwater quipped, "I'll give you a blue, girls, you have him."

At Mansfield, where he spoke in the City Square, the senator shook hands and signed placards. When one teen-ager held up a sneaker because it was the only thing she had; he autographed that.

In his speech here Saturday night Goldwater said the Johnson administration can't represent national interests because "it is dominated by special interests."

"Its policies are written by and for pressure groups," he declared. "And its votes dependably come from them."

He said effective leadership for law and order can't be expected because "it is common assumption the length and breadth of the land that the White House itself is involved with questionable activities."

Goldwater cited the Bobby Baker case as an example.

He contended "the people of this country have not decided that federal government controls and federal government programs are the only answers to our problems."

In Canton Goldwater several times raised his voice to speak over noisy cries of support for President Johnson. And to youngsters who booed the mention of his opponent, Goldwater interrupted to say: "Please, do not boo the President. It is not lady-like or gentlemanly-like."

He stuck to the one-man, one-thumb, theme throughout the day.

"Nobody can be trusted with that much power," the Republican presidential candidate told a cheering crowd at Mansfield. "If we ever have that, I'll tell you union members what is going to come next — compulsory arbitration. This will be the end of free bargaining and labor's right to strike."

Goldwater dwelt on his favorite theme of centralized government as he swept through the labor centers of Akron, Canton and Youngstown. The Arizona senator's side quips were showing up more and more with audience reaction getting better and better.

"Before we start talking about whose finger is on the trigger," he said, "I want to talk about whose finger ought to be on the country, whose thumb.

"Do you want one man's thumb on your country instead of yours?

"I'll defend your right to strike," he told labor. "There's nothing good about compulsion."

Too many people think there is something magic about the federal government, he claimed, but the government can't "create productive jobs."

Free enterprise will have to produce the five million jobs a year that are going to be needed "to take care of these young people out there." He said this on the University of Akron campus.

Goldwater said he was not "overly impressed" with China's explosion of a nuclear device.

Papal Report Expected

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reports circulated at the Vatican Saturday that Pope Paul VI will make a major announcement Sunday in a ceremony proclaiming the sainthood of 22 martyred Africans.

Reports varied on what the pope might say and no official Vatican comment was available.

Some said the pontiff would announce that he is going to India for the International Eucharistic Congress Nov. 28-Dec. 6 in Bombay.

Another report said he would announce that he is preparing an encyclical letter on racial discrimination.

Still others said he would announce a trip to places in Uganda connected with the martyrdom of the first black Africans of modern times to be canonized.

Canonization of the 22 Africans emphasizes the general Roman Catholic church policy of opposing racial discrimination. The 22, martyred during the late 1800s for their faith, are the first saints canonized by Pope Paul VI since he became pontiff 16 months ago.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul already had prepared his speech, and sent all but the last page to Vatican printing offices. The informants said this page would not be available until the last minute. This was the basis of the rumors that a major pronouncement was possible.

Pope Paul is known to be considering a trip to India and has promised to say a few weeks in advance whether he will go. There had been no previous reports he might visit Africa.

World May Get Opera On Space

MOSCOW (AP) — British composer Benjamin Britten said Saturday he may eventually write an opera about man's conquest of space.

Britten was asked at a news conference whether he would write such an opera. He replied he thought of the idea before the first manned space flight, but gave it up because "I had no idea what the cosmonauts would do" after they orbited. He said now that the Russians have sent a three-man crew into space "my task is much easier."

Britten and an English opera company have been touring the Soviet Union for a month. They return to London Monday.

FIRST ONE GOOD BUT—

New Tax Cut Should Come Slowly

HOT SPRING, Va. (AP) — The nation's foremost industrialists were told Saturday the $11.5-billion tax cut has produced all the benefits and none of the ill effects predicted, but should not be followed immediately by further income tax reductions.

Railroad executive Stuart T. Saunders, who with Henry Ford II was cochairman of the businessmen's committee supporting the tax-cut bill, told the Business Council at its fall meeting that the impact of the reduction that went into effect eight months ago should be tested longer before rates are lowered again.

Although this is the Johnson administration's position and was in effect a rejection of Sen. Barry Goldwater's plan for a five-year program of successive five per cent tax cuts, Saunders emphasized to reporters that his statements were completely divorced from political implications.

On the elimination of some excise taxes, he took the view of both the Republican and Democratic platforms. Saunders, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., Philadelphia, told the meeting of heads of about 100 of the country's biggest corporations: "The time is ripe, and overdue in fact, for changes in the excise taxes. Congress should give early attention to the removal or adjustment of all excise taxes."

Saunders delivered his rosy account of the economic benefits of the new tax law at a closed meeting of the council, but briefed newsmen later. The reduction began to exert its effects at least five months before it actually became law, he said, and all the economic evidence of the following months indicates it has been "definitely a success — the good things are happening and the bad things are not."

There has been neither price inflation nor a rise in the federal deficit, Saunders said, and consumers have not indulged in a buying binge even though their spending in the first half of this year was $15 billion greater than in first-half 1963.

He recited other benefits which he attributed at least in large part to the stimulus of the tax law:

— Industry's spending on plant and equipment, rated at $44.2 billion this year, is 13 per cent higher than in 1963.

— Tax reduction apparently is entitled to some credit for the improvement in unemployment. The rate of joblessness was 5.7 per cent in 1963, but by July had dropped to 4.9 per cent, reaching below the 5 per cent level for the first time in 4½ years. It has moved upward slightly since then.

— Factory employment, at 17.8 million, is now at its peak since 1953 and almost matches the World War II period when industry was producing at full blast.

— National output has shown much larger quarter-by-quarter gains than in 1963, and corporation profits — at an estimated $31.5 billion after taxes this year — are about 18 per cent higher than a year ago.

— Before-tax profits have exceeded the goal fixed by the administration in planning the tax reduction. It was hoped they would reach $56 billion, a rise of more than $5 billion from the previous year. Actually the rate already exceeds $56 billion, Saunders said, and the year's total should touch $57 billion.

Saunders said his appraisal of the benefits of tax reduction was based in part on findings of the Business Council's panel of about 24 professional consultants as well as upon the findings of other economists and official sources.

Annual Beauty Event Is Slated For Northeast

The annual Chacahoula Beauty reception at Northeast Louisiana State College will be held Saturday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. in the lounge of the College Union Building.

Judges for the event have been chosen from Monroe, Bastrop and Alexandria, announced Suehanna Richmond of Rayville, editor of the college yearbook which sponsors the event.

"We have attempted to select judges whose occupations and activities bring them in constant contact with numerous people and who have had experience in the publications and entertainment fields," Miss Richmond said.

Among those invited to the event are Cherie Martin of Pineville, the reigning Miss Louisiana and 1964 Miss Chacahoula, and other Northeast beauty title holders.

Also invited to attend are Northeast President and Mrs. George T. Walker, deans of the College's five schools, other college officials, presidents and sponors of organizations entering contestants and the contestants' parents.

Entrants will be presented by the master of ceremonies and judged on the basis of beauty, poise and personality. Miss Chacahoula and four beauties will be selected and represented in the beauty section of the 1965 NLSC yearbook.

Africans Violate Anti-Red Section

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa AP) — Fifty-one Africans were sentenced to five years in jail each by a magistrate Friday after being convicted of violating the Supression of Communism Act. They were found guilty of being members and furthering the aims of the banned African National Congress. The trial was held in Graaffreinet, 200 miles north of here, for security reasons.

THE REALM OF COIN

Area Collectors Most Fortunate

By JOHN BLUCK

Monroe area coin collectors are fortunate to have readily available in the Ouachita Parish Library a small but comprehensive collection of reference material which will answer many of their questions and introduce them to new and varied collecting specialties.

The parish library has for a number of years had available several numismatic reference works. It was not until recently, however, that the reference material was extensive enough to encompass the fields of interest of almost any collector. This came about through the donation of approximately two dozen volumes to the library by the Monroe Area Coin Club.

In making its selections, the club's library committee kept in mind the collecting interests of the great majority of local collectors who would benefit from the books. Naturally, this resulted in the purchase of more titles devoted to some phase of United States coinage. At the same time, the committee wished to make available works which would widen the collector's range of interests and expand his overall view of the entire field of coin collecting.

REFERENCE WORK

The gift of reference works includes titles dealing with ancient coins, foreign coins, currency, grading of coins, Confederate States paper money, military currency, odd and curious money, varieties and such off-beat specialties as Indian and post trader tokens.

Any collector who takes the time to examine and read the library's entire catalog of numismatic work will find that his knowledge of United States coinage is vastly increased and that there are many interesting specialties within the hobby about which he may be completely unfamiliar. This was one of the reasons the club decided to supplement the library's numismatic reference section. It also carries out the intent of the club charter to encourage and expand general knowledge of numismatics.

Following is a list of titles included in the club's gift collection. The books are now available in the reserve section of the main library on 18th street. Since they are on reserve, the books may not be checked out, but they are available to anyone who cares to read and study them in the library.

UNITED STATES: Guide to Civil War Store Cards, by George and Melvin Fuld; Counterfeit, Mis-Struck and Unofficial U. S. Coins, by Don Taxay; Indian and Post Trader Tokens, by James J. Curto; Major Variety and Oddity Guide, by F. G. Spadore; How U. S. Coins Are Made, by Walter Thompson; Getting Started in Coin Collecting, by Burton Hobson; How To Build A Coin Collection, by Fred Reinfeld; Coins Through The Ages, by Laurence Brown; Selections From The Numismatic: Vol. I, United States Coins; Vol. II, U. S. Tokens, Medals and Paper Money; 1963 U. S. Mint Report; Appraising and Selling Your Coins; and, a Guide To The Grading of United States Coins, by Brown and Dunn.

WORLD COINS: Pageant of World Commemorative Coins, by Thomas W. Becker; A Catalogue of the World's Most Popular Coins, by Fred Reinfeld; Odd and Curious, by Mort Reed; A Catalog of Modern World Coins, by R. S. Yeoman; Selections From the Numismatic, Vol. IV, Modern Foreign Coins and Currency.

ANCIENT: Selections From The Numismatist, Vol. III, Ancient and Medieval Coins; Coins of Bible Days, by Florence Aiken Banks; Reading and Dating Roman Imperial Coins, by Zander H. Klawans; An Outline of Ancient Greek Coins, by Zander H. Klawans; and, Moneys of the Bible, by R. S. Yeoman.

PAPER MONEY: Confederate States Paper Money, by Arlie R. Slabaugh; Guide Book of U. S. Fractional Currency, by Matt H. Rothert; World War II Military Currency by Raymond S. Toy; and Catalogue of U. S. Currency, by Robert Werlich.

Few libraries the size of the Ouachita Parish Library can boast of such an extensive collection of reference material made available by a group of dedicated collectors. When the club's book collection was authorized it was with the intention of giving additional volumes to the library each year until the Numismatic reference material was as complete as funds would allow. If this commendable project is continued, the parish library could become the reference center for collectors throughout North Louisiana.

Before leaving the subject, it should be pointed out that the library has other excellent reference material for collectors, including periodicals. One source of numismatic information which might not occur immediately to the collector is The Encyclopaedia Britannica. The Britannica article runs for many pages and covers coinage in some detail from the beginning of money as we know it in about 700 B. C. to coins and currency being produced today throughout the world.

The next time you are in the main library ask to be directed to the numismatic reference works. You may be pleasantly surprised by the amount of information available.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Wide Variety Of Mystery Stories

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Readers of mystery and suspense stories will find a wide variety of new titles offered this week in the fiction department at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. "The Devil Within Us" by Donald Basinger is his first mystery and he has written a real chiller. "Question of Loyalty" by Nicolas Freeling is a tight well - developed fast chace concerned with the Amsterdam Police and ranging all over Europe. Other mysteries are "The Duplicate" by H. Baldwin Taylor, "The Unprofessional Spy" by Micheal Underwood, "Hang The Little man" by John Creasey, "A Desert of Salt" by K. R. Butler and "The Woman With the Portugese Basket" by Eva-Lis Wuorio, which is another exciting tale of international intrigue. There is a new Asey Mayo Mystery, by Phoebe Atwood Tayler, "Figure Away". Two other mysteries are "The Eyes Around Me" by Gavin Black and "Friday the Rabbi Slept Late" by Harry Kemelman.

"The Trespassers" by Charles Mercer is a mediocre sort of book, which does not come up to his usual standard. "The Third Day" by Joseph Hayes will not be as popular as his "Desperate Hours" but it is an exciting book.

There are many fine books of non-fiction available this week. "Children and the Threat of Nuclear War" published by the Child Study Association of America is a book to make one do some serious thinking. "Shared Fate" by H. David Kirk is an interesting study of the effects of adoption on parents and child. "Social Studies For Children In A Democracy" by John U. Michaelis discusses recent trends and developments in this field.

"Thirty-Eight Witnesses" by A. M. Rosenthal is a discussion of the murder witnessed by 38 people who made no effort to help the victim. In addition to the facts, the author discusses the psychology of the witnesses. "Branded Child" by J. Edward Van Allen was written in opposition to the testing programs carried on by some schools. Another book in the field of education is "The Shaping of the American High School" by Edward A. Krug and should be read by everyone interested in secondary education. "Teaching the Retarded Child to Talk" by Julia S. Molloy will be useful to parents and teachers of retarded children. "Nine to Five and After" by Irene Silverman is a book of advice for girls who are living and working in a big city.

There are a number of new books in the scientific field, which should be useful. "Theory of Arithmetic" by John A. Peterson is a very fine book. "Space Physics and Radio Astronomy" by H. Messel is another useful volume. The same authors have also done a book on "The Universe and its Origin". A new book in the field of astronomy is "William Herschel and the Construction of the Heavens" by Michael A Hoskin. "An Introduction to Modern Physics" edited by H. Messel and S. T. Butler is a fine introductory book. "Revolution in Biology" by John Maddox deals with the new developments in the field of science. "College Zoology" by Robert W. Hegner is a new edition of a standard work. "Abyss" by C. P. Idyll is a discussion of the deep sea and the creatures that live in it. A perfectly beautiful book is "Wild Flowers of North America in Full Color" by Robert S. Lemon. Sports enthusiasts will be interested in three books published by Sports Illustrated Magazine. They are "Book of Better Boating", "Book of Swimming" and "Book of Basketball."

The field of literature has been enriched by the addition of several new titles. "The Discarded Image" by Clive Staples Lewis is an introduction to medieval and Renaissance Literature. "Collected Plays" of Arthur Miller is an addition to the modern drama collection. "Kipling's Mind and Art" by Andrew Rutherford is a selection of critical essays dealing with the work of this English writer. "Approaching Shakespeare" by William J. Grace is a fine interpretation of the works of Shakespeare. "Selected Poems" of Leopold Sedar Sengher is a book of modern French poetry.

There a also books of history. Arthur Bryan is the author of a set of history books of which only volume 1 has now appeared. The set is called "The Atlantic Sage and Volume 1 deals with "The Makers of England." Another book of English history is "The Stuarts in Love" by Maurice Ashley. "The Desert King" by David Howarth is an account of the career of Ibn Saude of Arabia.

The reference collection of the Library is a very fine one and it is continually being enriched by the addition of new volumes. "Harper's Bible Dictionary" by Madeliene S. Miller will be most useful to students of the Bible. "Contemporary Quotations" by James B. Simpson is another dictionary of quotations "Poisonous Plants of the United States and Canada by John M. Kingsbury fills a definite gap in the collection. "The Architecture of England" by Doreen Yarwood is a very fine book in it's field. There are two new books in the genealogy collection; "A Guide to Irish Surnames" by Edward MacLysaght and "Norfolk County, Virginia Pension records of the War of 1812 and The Revolutionary War" by Elizabeth Wingo. Your Library has books of many types and there is something waiting for each reader.

Preferential Election Held In Catahoula

JONESVILLE (Special) — A special preferential election was held Saturday in Ward 6 of Catahoula Parish for an additional member of the police jury and school board.

George Hudson received the highest number of votes in the police jury post race with 466 votes followed by Douglas McClure, 281; Luther Sansom, 219; and W. A. Grant, 113.

In the race for the school board post, George Griffing had 380 votes; Charles Ford, 331; Bobby Ewing, 213; and Charles Wilson, 150.

The election was held because a recent census in the parish showed an increase in population which necessitated the two additional members. The special census was authorized by the Catahoula Parish police jury and was sponsored by the Jonesville Lions Club.

Gov. John J. McKeithen ordered the special election following a request made by the police jury and the local Lions Club for one. The governor is expected to appoint the man in each race with the largest amount of votes, but it is possible he will appoint someone of his own choosing, according to Morning World correspondent, Ted Husser.

Colored Slides Exhibit Today

Some 350 colored slides of photographs taking by ranking photographers around the nation and from several foreign countries will be shown at 2:30 p.m. today in Room 100 of Stubbs Hall, Northeast State College.

The event is sponsored by Kappa Pi national art fraternity's Northeast State chapter with the cooperation of the North Louisiana Camera Club of Monroe, and the Shreveport Photographic Society.

The slides are from the International Salon Photographers exhibit of the State Fair in Shreveport, and cover a broad range of subjects.

The showing is open to the public without charge.

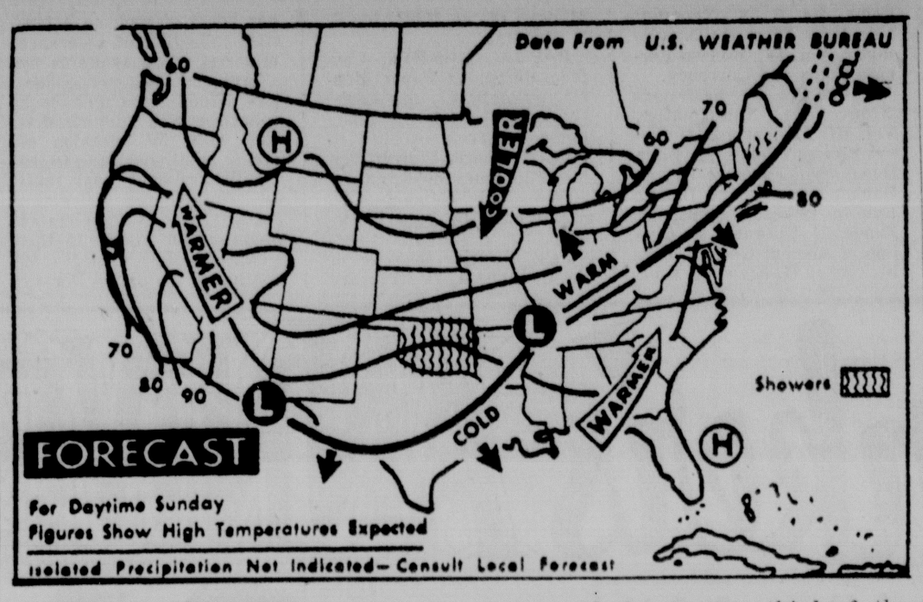
Indiana Journal Says LBJ Leads

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Star in this morning's editions reported major Democratic candidates had substantial leads in a statewide poll taken Monday.

The poll of 4,560 voters showed President Johnson with 51.5 per cent, Sen. Barry Goldwater 38.1 and 10.4 undecided.

The President had toured Indiana shortly before the poll and Sen. Goldwater also had campaigned in the state.

Indiana in 1960 gave Republican Richard Nixon 1,175,120 votes and Democratic John F. Kennedy 952,358.



SCATTERED SHOWERS are forecast today for the coastal area of Maine and scattered thundershowers for the Oklahoma area. Temperatures are expected to be warmer over the Atlantic coast states and the western third of the nation. It will be cooler from the upper Great Lakes to the southern great plains. LIKE KHRUSHCHEV

Continental Parties Ired With Moscow

LONDON (UPI) — European Communists were still shocked, confused and even angered Saturday at Nikita S. Khrushchev's sudden fall from supreme power in Moscow.

In a striking demonstration that foreign parties no longer dance unquestioningly to the Kremlin's changing tune, Communist newspapers made it clear they want no - nonsense answers about the Moscow upheaval.

The effects were profound on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

In Budapest, the Hungarian Communist party newspaper Nepszabadsag pledged to continue with Moscow along the "Leninist road," following guidelines for which, it said pointedly, "comrade Nikita Khrushchev, too, deserved great credit."

East European radio stations and newspapers, clearly caught unprepared by the switch of Soviet regimes, responded slowly. Early reports to the public were generally confined to repetition of the official Moscow pronouncements. By late Saturday no "satellite" commentator had tried to dispute or confirm outcast Albania's brash declaration that Khrushchev was ousted because of his anti-China policies.

Diplomatic sources said officials in Yugoslavia, Hungary and Poland were known to be particularly upset and seeking urgent clarification of the intentions of new Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

In Western Europe, there were direct Communist jabs at Moscow, searching questions, and praise for Khrushchev.

The Communist - line Italian newspaper Paese sera said in a frontpage article, "Among all the uncertainties, one thing is 100 per cent certain: The people will always remember Nikita Khrushchev with warm feelings—his popular and unpredictable ways, his common sense and optimism, his frankness, his energy."

Lake Providence Group Supports Amendment 29

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — The Lake Providence Port Commission is urging support of Constitutional Amendment No. 29 proposing to increase the limitation on the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission from $50 million to $80 million.

President C. Rupert Evans, Lake Providence, disclosed Saturday that the local Commission unanimously approved this action at its regular meeting on October 15th.

"Not only the immediate Baton Rouge area but the entire state will benefit from voter approval of Constitutional Amendment proposal No. 29 on November 3rd," Evans predicted.

"This approval would enable the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission to really assist in implementing Governor John McKeithen's efforts to make our state more attractive and more profitable for industrial development."

Evans said that the only state-wide significance of the proposed amendment is that the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission bonds are secured by the full faith and credit of the state as well as the revenues and properties of the Commission and the full faith and credit of the parishes of East Baton Rouge, West Baton Rouge, Iberville and Ascension which comprise the port area.

He pointed out that the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission was created in 1952 by a constitutional amendment which authorized the port to have no more than $15 million in revenue bonds outstanding at any one time. Subsequently this limitation was increased by constitutional amendment to $50 million in 1956.

The current bonded indebtedness of the Baton Rouge port is $43.4 million.

Executive Director, C. W. Herbert, Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission, states that the ceiling on oustanding bonded indebtedness should be raised now in order to provide funds for future expansion.

Herbert explained the Commission wants to insure that necessary additional funds would be available without having to delay possible expansion until such time as an amendment could be submitted to the voters.

Herbert said the port at Baton Rouge has grown rapidly and to date has constructed facilities costing approximately $47 million. He also noted their grain elevator has triplde in size and by next spring a new general cargo dock, doubling present capacity, will be completed.

JEWEL ROBBERY

LONDON (UPI)—Four men, one disguised as a policeman, robed a jewelry shop in the fashionable Mayfair district of an estimated $84,000 - $112,000 worth of gems Saturday. Owner Arthur Berman opened the shop when the thief dressed as a policeman came to the door.

IN PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

Pupils Unable To Tell Time After Absence Of Classes

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — There were Negro teen-agers unable to tell time and grade school students who had forgotten how to read after a fight over integration closed schools for four years in Prince Edward County, Va.

Two Michigan State University educators reported this to the U.S. Office of Education in a 290-page paper after a study among the country's 1,700 school-age Negro children.

Dr. Robert E. Green and Louis Hoffman said one group of more than 1,000 youngsters had an average IQ of only 69.4 — "borderline defective" — after the four years without classes.

The two men now are studying whether the youngsters can recover, and Green expresses hope that they can.

When nationwide attention focused on the county, he said, the children became more concerned than ever about getting an education.

Green and Hoffman administered questionnaires and interviewed Negro parents and children in the fall of 1963, just before privately supported free schools provided classes for the youngsters for the first time since 1959.

County officials had closed the public schools, rather than integrate them, and white children attended private schools.

Negroes now are back in public schools, though, following an order by the U.S. Supreme Court reopening the schools.

Green and Hoffman said during the four years when schools were closed, 575 Negroes attended classes outside the county, only 35 of them on a full-time basis.

Because of difficulty in securing teachers and supplies, attendance in schools outside the county and declining motivation caused by the long school closing, less than 40 per cent of the children attended "summer crash programs," the two MSU men reported.

Only 6 per cent attended all three programs, they said.

Lack of schooling apparently depressed intelligence levels as age increased, the educators reported.

They said 7-year-olds with no education measured 17 points lower in IQ than those with some schooling, and at age 9 the difference was 32 points.

Those 9-year-olds with some schooling, Green and Hoffman said, had a mean IQ of more than 100, well within the normal range of intelligence.

While many parents attempted to teach their children at home, the educators said, most of this instruction was confined to basics such as reading and writing. They said the parents felt "too inadequate" to handle the more formal aspects of the school's role.

They said during the closed schools period, communication between Negroes and whites decreased sharply.

Each race, they said, "tended to become psychologically deaf and blind to the actual feelings, opinions, needs and desires of the other group."

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

We have enjoyed serving the public and each of our customers will be missed, not only as customers but as personal friends. We have served you as a baby, mother, and now a grandmother. Business has always been good and you, the public has made it so. We had to make the decision of going out of the children's wear business to devote our full time to an already prosperous business. "Tidy Ties," which are children's shoe ties. They are being shipped all over the United States. Again we say we will miss you . . . Thanks.

SPOTLIGHTING THE AREA

With Jimmy Hatten

One of the youngest civic clubs in our area—the one that is the newest in Franklin Parish — also appears to be one of the most progressive.

The Civitan International chapter at Winnsboro, chartered in 1962, has 28 members. But take a look at their achievements:

Bought materials and supplies in cooperation with a garden club for a mentally-retarded school class; cleared and fixed up a 15-acre park; built a two-acre lake in the park and stocked it with fish; set up a Salk polio vaccination clinic, worked, and got other people to help out.

Took a census of Winnsboro this year, and as a result, the town will receive more tobacco tax monies because of increased population. The club received pay for this work, and it donated the money to the Winnsboro Christmas lighting fund.

For two years, the club has assisted with the annual Deep South Rodeo parade and members work the gates at the event. When Oct. 27 rolls around, they'll be selling Halloween candy as a money - raising project. They've secured the American Legion Hall in Winnsboro and are putting it into shape for a youth center. And, in November, they'll be host to the Northwest Civitan International Council meeting.

Says one observer, "They really work, and they have the knack of getting other people to work." Quite a list of accomplishments for a two-year-old club with a membership of 28. The first president was Shirley Evans, with A. J. Franklin, who is now lieutenant governor of the Louisiana Northwest District, as the second president. Current president is James Holmes. Other officers are William Sikes, vice president; Tommy McMurray, secretary; Mark Butler, treasurer; Shirley Evans, sergeant-at - arms; William Wade House, chaplain, and these board of directors: Joe Gravelle, Jack Givins, Bill Walker and Robert McCaleb.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

For its size, Lake Providence, population 5,781, produces as much excitement as any town we know of.

This past week was no exception. There had been comparative quiet in the Mississippi Delta town for a pretty good while, but at about dawn, the captain of a tugboat on the Mississippi radioed to his Memphis, Tenn. river station that he had seen two airplanes collide in the air near the river.

Memphis called the Monroe Flight Service at Selman Field. It wasn't long before the farmer - pilots of Lake Providence were in the air, searching for the wreckage. Among them: Charles Davis, Johnny Edwards, W. P. Thomlinson and Marvin Ragland.

The first item of news that indicated there actually had not been a collision came from a Lake Providence woman who told the Morning World correspondent there, Mrs. W. P. Rushing, that she had seen a weather balloon in the sky at about dawn.

Sure enough, the Monroe Flight Service verified that a weather balloon had been in that vicinity. Later, the East Carroll Parish sheriff's department announced that military aircraft had gone over the area, dispatching balloons.

Luckily, there apparently wasn't a tragedy. But the point here is that the citizen-pilots of Lake Providence should have been given a lot of credit for their immediate cooperation in taking to the air on the hunt. Their alertness could have meant the difference between the life and death of a wounded man in a crashed plane.

According to the latest population figures we can find, Mound is the smallest town in the Fifth District, with a total of 107 inhabitants, closely followed by Delta, with 111. Both towns are near Tallulah.

But, they're not the smallest in the state. Bryceland, in the Fifth District, qualifies as the tiniest. It has a population of 86.

Police Probing Burglary Here

Monroe police Saturday were investigating the burglary of College Place Baptist Church at 301 Sherrouse Ave.

Police said the Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of the church, reported that a filing cabinet had been broken into and about $40 in cash was missing from his desk. Police said the pastor stated the burglary had taken place sometime after 5:30 p.m. Friday.

In other activity Saturday Monroe officers booked Troy Lee Reed, 27, of Farmerville on charges of reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. Reed was arrested about 1 a.m. at Louisville Avenue and Riverside Street. Bond was set at $435.

Early Saturday West Monroe authorities booked two men on charges of DWI. L. D. Land, 56-year-old Negro of Grambling, was arrested on North Seventh Street and booked about 1 a.m. Donald L. Roberts, 30, of 503 N. 6th St., West Monroe, was booked for DWI and driving without a driver's license shortly before 1 a.m. after his arrest on Cypress Street.

About 2 a.m. West Monroe police arrested J. R. Mayo, 35, of 304 N. 7th St., West Monroe, at the Copa Club on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages after hours.

Police arrested a 27-year-old Negro, Willie Lewis of 116 N. 8th St., West Monroe, about 8:15 p.m. and booked him on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile. Lewis was arrested at 725 Coleman Ave.

Another Negro, Osha Hamilton, 43, of 413 S. 9th St., West Monroe was booked on a DWI charge about 8:15 p.m. after his arrest on Coleman Street.

In other Monroe activity Saturday police booked Mattie Lee Barber, 46, of P.O. Box 4642, Monroe, on a DWI charge, after her arrest at 300 Louisville Ave.

Late Saturday police were looking for a young Negro man suspected of aggravated battery in connection with a hotel incident reported about 7:56 p.m. by the owner of a local Negro hotel. Jim Bennett told police that James Stark, 65, Negro hotel clerk, had been hit several times by a young Negro man as the clerk was showing him to a room.

Police said Stark's condition was not serious.

BISHOP OF TEXAS

Dynamic Prelate Heads Anglicans

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The Rt. Rev. John Elbridge Hines, the dynamic Episcopal bishop of Texas, was elected Saturday presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

In that office he becomes the top administrator and chief spiritual guide of a church of 3.5 million members across the country.

His election at the denomination's triennial General Convention touched off a prolonged ovation and the singing of "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow."

The prelate, 54, a quick-minded and articulate man, is known for his powerful preaching and his concern with contemporary social problems and the movement for Christian unity.

Presented to the convention after the dramatic election process behind locked doors, he asked the "help, support and prayers not only of every one present here, but over everyone throughout the church."

Bishop Hines became the 22nd presiding bishop in the church's 180-year history and is eligible to hold the office until his retirement in 15 years.

CHARACTER VS. CORRUPTION

Miller Stays With Jenkins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller pounded away at the Walter Jenkins incident and the Bobby Baker case Saturday, declaring that "the outstanding issue of this campaign is character versus corruption" in government.

The Republican vice presidential nominee said the revelation this week that Jenkins had been arrested twice on morals charges "raises another question about President Johnson's judgment in the selection of his friends and associates."

He told a cheering, foot-stomping crowd of more than 1,000 in San Bernardino that the FBI and the Secret Service had been aware since 1961 that Jenkins, a close associate of Johnson, had been arrested on a morals charge in 1959.

"Yes, he was sitting in the highest councils of government," Miller said, "when this was a matter of public record available to any Soviet agent.

"Can you imagine what could have happened? Can we take a chance like this for four more years?"

The crowd roared "No!!"

Miller hit at the Jenkins incident also in a statement issued as he returned to California for campaign appearances in the Los Angeles area Saturday and a speech Saturday night at San Diego.

He plans to spend today and most of Monday resting at a hotel in San Diego and is scheduled to return to the campaign trail Monday night with an appearance at San Mateo. He will speak at San Jose and Oakland Tuesday, then head east.

Miller linked the Jenkins case with the controversy over Baker, who resigned as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority during an uproar over his multi-million dollar financial dealings. Johnson had been majority leader during past of Baker's tenure.

He told the San Bernardino rally that the American people will never get the full facts in the case unless Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, is elected.

The New York congressman said in his statement that the "tragic revelation" involving Jenkins "is another clear indication of the need for a change of administrations" in Washington.

"While our sympathies go out to both Jenkins and his family," Miller said, "nevertheless, this raises another question about President Johnson's judgment in the selection of his friends and associates.

Baby Girl Killed, Located In Box

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 21-month-old girl was beaten to death last night and left in a cardboard box in a neighbor's yard.

Lexington police said little Stella Denise Ficklen was missing nearly three hours before detectives found her body covered with trash.

Capt. Lloyd Lindsey, director of the juvenile division of Lexington Police, said a 10-year-old boy was charged with murder under juvenile law.

Lindsey said the boy admitted orally that he took the girl to his house, struck her with a belt and later threw her against the concrete block wall of a nearby church.

The officer added, however, police would not take a written statement from the boy until he obtained counsel.

The coroner's office said the girl suffered a skull fracture, lacerations and burns and a stab wound.

POPULAR RECORDS

The first group of recordings for the 1964 Christmas season has a refreshing international touch.

"Round the World Christmas" (Capital T 10379) persents Christmas favorites recorded in 16 nations, including Communist-governed Poland. Outstanding groups are represented. Of special interest is the Philippine number which is sung in Tagalog.

"Christmas in Norway" (Capitol T 10377) features music by Olav Werner and The Soelvguttene. This is a mixture of carols and holiday music sung by Werner and an excellent boy's choir.

"The Favorite Songs of Christmas" (Capitol ST 2176) coasts Bing Crosby, Nat King Cole, Nancy Wilson, Peggy Lee, The Kingston Trio, Guy Lombardo and many others in all-star concert of holiday music.

"It's Christmas Time" with Hank Thompson and The Brazos Valley Boys (Capitol ST 2154) has a distinctly country - western flavor. All the songs are pop tunes. But four carols are included in "The Joyful Season" by Jo Stafford (Capitol ST 2166).

All these records are recommended to those who wish to acquire Christmas music before the big rush.

"Boss Beat" by Pat Boone (Dot DLP 3594) is one of this capable singer's most unusual records in that he is able to prove that "I Want to Hold Your Hand" is not a piece of musical junk. Those who think Pat can't sing anything but "sweet music" will be startled by this record.

"Big Harmonica Special" (Mercury MG 20965) establishes Billy Lee Riley as a virtuoso on his instrument. Riley's selections are aimed at the folk music audience.

Selected Singles — "Hello Dolly" by The Arthur Lyman Group (HiFi Record H-5091), "Mickey's Tune" by Boots Randolph (Moument 45-852), "Don't Let Me Down" by Otis Leavill (Limelight Y-3037), "Hi Mary" by Eddie & Mary (Pastel 45-505), "Endless Sleep" by Hank Williams Jr. (M-G-M K13278).

LP's of the Week — "Now's the Time!" by Sonny Rollins (RCA Victor LSP-2927) and "Command Performance!" by Les and Larry Elgart (Columbia CS 9021). Rollins is considered one of the most sensational tenor sax men on the modern jazz scene and this performance of eight numbers on the two sides is a masterful one, especially on a composition called "Four." The Elgarts team to play a dozen dance tunes most of them identified with such greats as Woody Herman, Duke Ellington, Glenn Miller and Larry Clinton.

Company, Union Reach Accord; Strike Is Ended

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special)—A tentative agreement on all issues between the Armstrong Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers has been reached.

A strike, which had closed the Natchez plant of Armstrong, along with plants in New Haven, Conn., Des Moines, Iowa, and one in California, has been halted.

M. M. Hedglin, vice president of Local 303, United Rubber Workers, of Natchez, said Saturday he had received a telephone call from Robert Fly, president of Local 303, who was in Kansas City, Mo. attending a conference, advising him that a tentative agreement halting the strike had been reached.

Hedgin immediately ordered removal of a picket line from in front of the plant here and announced that all union workers would return to their jobs effective with the midnight shift on Sunday night.

Hedglin also announced a meeting of Local 303 has been called for 2 p.m. today to report details of the agreement to union members.

The Union members had been on strike for a week.

Locked in a hotel suite, a prisoner of the clock, booked solid for a year, Vonda Kay van Dyke begins to learn what it means to be Miss America. It began in tears, but laughter followed, and there are, after all, rewards.

By MAGGIE SAVOY

NEW YORK (AP) — Just before midnight on the night of Sept. 12 in Atlantic City, N.J., before the eyes of millions, Vonda Kay van Dyke, a vivacious 21-year-old Arizona coed, was crowned Miss America 1965.

She cried.

She cried while most other contestants came up and hugged her. She cried when her father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. van Dyke of Phoenix, kissed her.

KEPT CRYING

She kept crying while dozens of photographers took pictures of America's new queen.

She cried herself to sleep.

And so began her reign — a reign that will last exactly one year, when she takes off her crown and places it upon the head of another pretty girl to continue the cycle of dream and reality; a year in which she will trade in her private life for a public existence; a year in which she will enter the realm of American myth and legend.

"It was the shock," she later told her first big news conference, explaining the tears.

"I had all my clothes for college, my roommate picked out, all these plans to see New York with my folks.

"Then suddenly I was Miss America — and everything was changed."

Her reign as Miss America really began at 8 a.m. Monday, Sept. 14, when she sat down to a breakfast of scrambled eggs and a bran muffin and shuffled through a wastebasket full of telegrams which had been delivered to her official Miss America suite at the Park Lane Hotel, on Park Avenue, in New York City.

FIRST TWO WEEKS

In these high ceilinged, old elegant rooms she was to spend the first two weeks of her year as America's reigning beauty, the title for which 70,000 other girls had completed in local and state contests in hundreds of cities.

Thereafter, the pert faced — and her lithe, classically proportioned figure — will look down from billboards, look out from the pages of newspapers, magazines, programs, in every city and hamlet. Her smile will grace thousands of stages and banquet halls.

She will travel days and nights, on a schedule blanked out only on Sunday mornings — time for church — and the Christmas holidays, which she will enjoy with her parents in the old adobe desert home which they are restoring in Phoenix.

She'll have most everything dreams are made of; a fabulous, high fashion wardrobe, designed especially for her; a late model limousine to meet her every time she steps off a plane; $12,000 in scholarships to use at the end of her year to launch her on any career she chooses; and something like $80,000 in contracts for the use of her bright young smile in personal appearances, advertising and television.

She will have everything except the freedom to have a date with a boy, and the fun of slipping into a pair of old jeans and ducking out for a coke at a drive in, and all the thousands of little things that real life is made of.

For everywhere that Miss America goes, her title goes with her. And this title is zealously groomed and chaperoned by a day and night companion, manager and schedule maker.

At breakfast with her that first Monday morning were her parents. They were on her schedule from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Vonda wasn't hungry, and her father, an osteopathic physician, was fussing a bit. On the other side of the closed door, in the big parlor, the phone buzzed once a minute. Each time, Vonda jumped. The telephone is her favorite toy — except for Kurley Q, her red haired, wisecracking ventriloquist's dummy — and her alter ego.

SITTING ON DESK

Peg O'Neill, an official of the Miss America Pageant, was sitting at the desk, tapping her pencil as she answered the phone calls. Vonda could hear, "No, she's not available yet," "Yes, we can book you at 6:15 for 15 minutes," "No, she has fittings at that hour," "Yes, she rested well; she's in fine spirits," "No, we will positively not let anyone photograph Miss America in her room."

Down the hall, in another big suite jungled with wires, cameras, control boxes, lights, microphones, waiters, two dozen newsmen were drinking coffee and jockeying for seats, eyeing the platform and the empty brocaded chair on which Miss America of 1965 would sit to answer questions.

Finally Miss O'Neill started at the clock, walked over to rap on Vonda's door.

"We're late."

TO MEET PRESS

Vonda dabbed powder under her eyes, lifted Kurley Q out of his suitcase, smoothed the collar of his seersucker suit, checked her hair in the mirror — and went out to meet the press.

She was shivering as she walked through the door. "It's cold," she whispered to her mother. Once on the dais, she sat down, arranging her legs in the best model school manner, a mannikin's smile on her face.

She must have been waiting for the first question, because she tensed when it hit.

"What about your boy friend?"

Duane Kapp, Arizona law student whom she'd met years ago at Phoenix Christian High School, had been quoted as saying, "I feel unhappy for myself. This may affect her life, and if this happens, she won't be the girl I knew and the girl I loved."

Vonda hesitated. Then Kurley Q spoke. "Let's get this straight. I'm her boy friend. I've known her longer than that other fellow. He's a nice fellow, all right, but I'm the one."

"Will being Miss America change you?"

LAUGHTER

Kurley laughed, "That's a dummy question, so I'll answer. Why should she get a big head? All she does is talk for me. I have the personality. And I will keep her humble."

Questions, more questions. Down to Park Avenue, five floors below, for a picture. Up on the roof, for a shot against New York's skyline. Lights in her face, microphones in her face. Same questions again, for another Television channel.

Equipment comes down; new sets go up. One corps of interviewers, soundmen, camera men, directors leaves; another arrives, lugging more equipment.

By dark that night, Vonda was beginning to learn what Peg O'Neill meant when she had told her 12 hours earlier, "Being Miss America is a job. You're going to have to learn how to use every minute. You'll have to live day by day — there is no such things as wash day, letterwriting day. You can't leave anything to the next morning, for next morning has its own schedule.

"You'll need your sleep, your sense of humor, and you'll wish you had two heads when one of them aches."

It was 8 p.m. when Vonda slipped into stretch pants and purple fleecy sweater — "It feels good to be warm" — and called for room service.

There'd been a hasty cheeseburger for lunch at 1 p.m., hours fittings, bolts of fabric to see and choose from. A moment for combing hair, then a magazine interview at 6 p.m., U.S. savings bonds photos at 6:15 p.m., cancer recording at 6:30 p.m., a telephone interview at 6:45 p.m., and photographers again at 7 p.m. and another basketful of mail delivered to her room.

Vonda pushed her steak aside, kissed her parents goodnight.

Dr. and Mrs. van Dyke went on to Greenwich Village. Vonda shampooed her hair, smoothed over two nails with polish, fell asleep before it dried.

"I'm seeing New York second hand," she said ruefully, nine hours later.

But breakfast tasted good at 8 a.m. Tuesday, the second day in Miss America's two week training to be a queen schedule, was an easier day. When the mailman arrived, though, it wasn't such fun. "When will I ever answer them?" she asked her mentor.

"Minutes in between."

"What minutes in between?"

One letter brought a shout:

"A baby — named for me!" Vonda Kay II had been born, 3 pounds 8 ounces, in San Diego the night Vonda Kay got her new name, "Miss America."

Shopping — by phone: travel iron, light canvas luggage, handkerchiefs, pink lipstick.

Evangelist Billy Graham knocked on the door. "You have been given a great honor, Vonda. Every great honor is a job. You have a tremendous responsibility to all young people to do your job well. You'll have one adjustment to make now; another at the end of the year. Prepare for that second one now."

Noon — a chicken sandwich and a glass of milk. Then the hair stylist dragged in a portable dryer, followed by Charlotte Mueller of a hair preparations firm and Lenore Slaughter, long time head of the pageant, both dressed in muumuus and ready for "hair day."

The home permanent took just half an hour. An easy hair style that Vonda can set herself was decided on — a few soft bangs over one side of her forehead, the rest brushed back lightly to sweep up at the nape of her neck.

SKIMMED BY

The afternoon skimmed by with the usual light chatter of three women in a beauty parlor. Then Miss America brushed out her new coif, went out to meet more reporters, more photographers.

"Sure, I'm tired at the end of the day. Isn't everybody?"

"What will I do with the money. Well, I won't travel — 'I'll have had enough of that."

"No, I won't mind not dating. If a boy asked me for a date today I wouldn't know, and neither would he, whether he was asking Miss America or Vonda van Dyke."

"Sure, I'm dazed. One day I'm just an ordinary girl walking down the street. The next I'm a Big Title. Wouldn't you be bewildered?"

GLAMOUR

When the room service man arrived at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Vonda felt adventurous. "I'll take duck. There ought to be some glamour with this title."

She talked an hour or so with her parents — their first real talk since it all had happened. They left, and Vonda yawned as she scribbled a dozen postcards. Then she picked up the new red Bible the Bible Society representatives had given her during their 6:15-6:30 p.m. appointment. She dropped off to sleep with the light on.

Wednesday morning, Sept. 16, homesickness hit, and hard. She looked out of the window when the waiter wheeled in her scrambled eggs, and the sun wasn't there.

Dr. van Dyke picked up the phone and canceled tickets to Chicago, where he had planned to attend a siminar. "I'm playing hookey," he told his daughter. "Who can study with all this going on?"

She hugged him as she looked at her watch, from the Veterans of Foreign Wars back home, inscribed, "To Our Miss America."

She let the fitter in.

When the fitter folded up the glistening samples of gold and silver brocade, packed away tape measure and sketches and said good bye at 5:30 p.m. Vonda ached. "I'm not used to standing still."

An hour later when the van Dykes knocked on her door to tell her all about their day at the World's Fair, Vonda sighed, "Gee, I don't feel like Miss America."

"Then dress up like her, and we'll all go to the Colony restaurant."

Vonda was like a little girl, excited that evening. First time out of the hotel in three days, and pigeon and chocolate mousse on the menu.

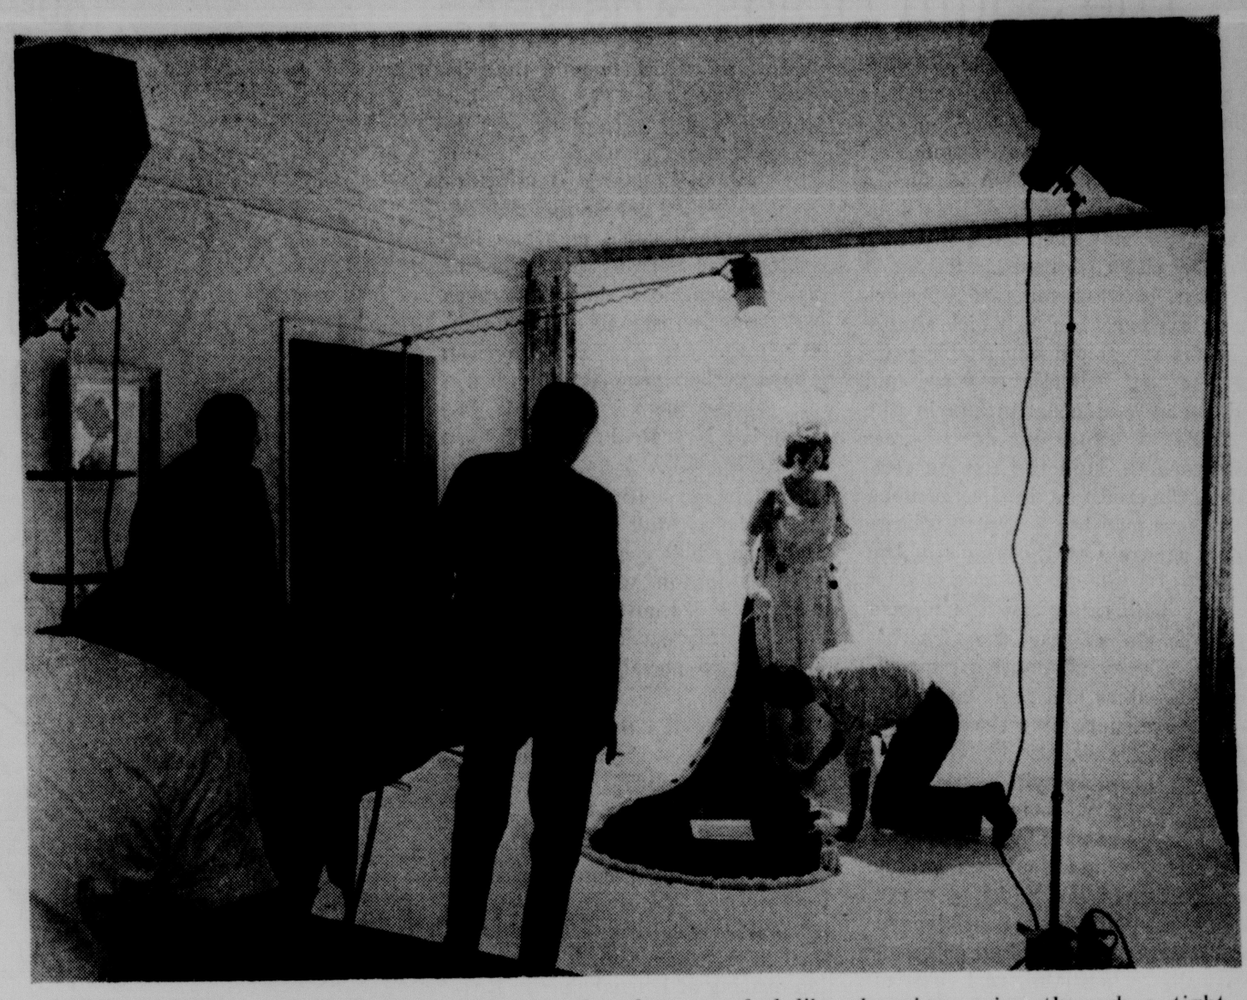
And salmon with a wonderful mustard sauce. And the waiter recognized her from television.

Thursday Sept. 17 was set aside for a soft drink firm and that meant a day of posing in the next door suite. The room was ready by 9:30 a.m. — a white carpet of heavy paper unrolled from the ceiling and across the floor, half a dozen lights on tall stands, topped by white lined umbrellas. Edging the papers, wires and cables snaking around, three cameras, center and sides.

Only 18 people milling about the room when Vonda came in, walking tall as possible in her long white fitted gown, hitching the skirt off the floor. She kicked off her shoes, walked across the paper, posed in the center. She was anxious to get to work this morning. "Mom's favorite prescription for anything that ails you: work," she explained.

School began at home, this day, and she didn't want time to think about it.

Photographer Raymond Martin bounced like a table tennis ball, straightening the skirt, adjusting the red velvet ermine trimmed train, scolding, "You're a queen. Stand like one. Don't relax; it creases your skirt."



SMILING WHEN your feet hurt, standing straight when you feel like slumping, going through a tight schedule when you want only to go to sleep — these are a few of the lessons a queen must learn. Vonda Kay van Dyke of Phoenix, Ariz., started learning them right after her crowning as Miss America, 1965. Here she stands — and stands and stands — in her robes during hours of photographing in New York. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

A FACE ALREADY becoming familiar around the country and the world is reflected in the mirror as Vonda Kay van Dyke makes up for one of many long photography sessions. It's the face of the new Miss America, 21-year-old coed from Phoenix, Ariz., undergoing rigorous training for her year's reign, in New York during the first two weeks after she won the title Sept. 12. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

LATER THERE'LL be banquets, and travels and excitement and dreams-come-true for Vonda Kay van Dyke, the new Miss America. But as she prepared for her year's reign, a quick sandwich lunch was all she had time for most days in two weeks of interviews, picture-taking, clothes-fitting, etc., in New York. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

HER ALTER EGO, Kurley Q, promises "I will keep her humble" as he snuggles up to Vonda Kay van Dyke, the new Miss America, during an interview in New York. The red-headed ventriloquist's dummy, Vonda's constant companion, showed a sense of humor when he discussed her new life in the spotlight. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

The South Holds Answer

The Johnson - Humphrey extremist liberals, leftists and socialists now are proclaiming that on election day they will "disembowel" American conservatism in such a manner that it never again will be a factor in American politics.

The claim is absurd.

But, to whatever extent American conservatism — which simply means the sound and simple principles of Americanism as laid down in our constitution in the 1700's — either recedes or goes forward through the coming election, the credit or the discredit (as the case may be) will rest in large part squarely on the people of the South.

We deliberately use the phrase the people of the South because almost all southern governors, senators and representatives either are supporting the Johnson-Humphrey socialistic ticket or are doing nothing to help Barry Goldwater — the one bright and shining symbol of true American conservatism which southern people love so dearly, and which so many southern politicians proclaim so loudly in words and shun so hypocritically when the real battles come. For example:

1. There is not one single southern governor endorsing Senator Goldwater, although Alabama's Governor Wallace certainly has helped him.

2. Governor Paul Johnson of Mississippi, after presumably being strongly for Senator Goldwater, cut loose with an attack on him — based on falsities in the sense of the impression the governor's words undoubtedly presented to the nation. The Mississippi governor used the annual conference of southern governors at San Antonio as a sounding board for his attack, thus assuring nationwide publicity for his remarks.

3. A few southern members of the House of Representatives — especially Otto Passman of Louisiana's Fifth District — are boldly and courageously doing everything they can to further true conservatism by furthering the candidacy of the Goldwater - Miller ticket.

4. Only two southern senators openly support Mr. Goldwater, both Republicans, Tower of Texas and Thurmond of South Carolina.

In the past the South, in general, has followed its elected political leaders in presidential voting. If that is the course of southern people on November 3, it may well be that American conservatism will have been disemboweled, as Lyndon, Hubert and their left wing extremists threaten. And the South will have been the major culprit.

It's up to the people of the South as to whether they want to move massively toward return to clean, honest, conservative American government or carry on with an administration that now is spotted in many directions with marks of political immorality or worse.

And let's remember that neither the Bobby Baker case nor the Billie Sol Estes case could have been whitewashed in Congress — Baker's twice — without approval of Lyndon Baines Johnson whose political desires in such matters usually were communicated to his party leaders by his No. 1 aide, Walter Jenkins.

If the South, stands behind him, there are still many reasons to believe Senator Goldwater can win.

For Example:

While The Monroe Morning World has repeatedly stated that every professional poll taken in the primaries this year was far off the beam, those who like to study such figures might consider the following.

1. Two of the nation's largest professional pollsters publicly have expressed skepticism over their own poll results. Both have said that they find people in large quantities refusing to answer poll questions. This number is so great that if a sizable majority of it should be Goldwater people the election virtually could put some pollsters out of business.

2. Averaging current results of the nation's three leading professional pollsters during the past weeks brings the perhaps surprising mathematical result that between July 10 and Oct. 4 President Johnson's poll rating dropped by 14 percentage points from its July 10 total and Senator Goldwater's went up by 12 percentage points.

This trend could continue into victory for Senator Goldwater or into a race close enough — even with the Johnson-Humphrey ticket winning—to give true American Conservatism, true Americanism—the bigest push forward it has since the New Deal first took over in the 1930s.

A Johnson - Humphrey victory would be so dull in a close race that the whole socialistic program in Washington would be slowed down to less than a walk. A Goldwater victory would, of course, give Washington socialism a devastating blow.

So, again, it's up to the people of the South — the true conservatives of the South.

Events of the past few days emphasize in almost fearsome manner the necessity for getting rid of the present Washington administration—the setting off a atomic weapon by Red China, the sudden ousting of Khrushchev in Russia; the socialist victory in Britain — and, in the background, "the big black cloud that hangs over the White House" in the form first of the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes scandals, and now in the Walter Jenkins case.

These purely domestic scandals, no matter how revolting and disgusting, are overshadowed by the importance of the events overseas.

Harold Wilson, who will be British prime minister, says that one of his first steps will be to get Red China into the United Nations. He will find the going easier and easier with Mr. Johnson in the White House and Hubert Humphrey is the man to succeed him if fate should so will.

The Russians, of course, will pretend to be seeking peace at the start. When the Russians oust their top leader there is something afoot entirely beyond any shortage in agricultural production. There is, in all probability, an intent to line up with Red China and its policies of destroying the free enterprise system by war if necessary and not by any real or pretended co-existance.

America needs a man in the White House who is not afraid.

It needs an administration of moral integrity — not one where "covering up" by committee whitewash too often is the order of the day.

It needs leadership unblemished in character and which tells the people the whole truth.

President Johnson hand picked Hubert Humphrey as his running mate, saying that "he is the man who should be president" if anything happened to the president-meaning himself.

Congressman Otto Passman of Louisiana's Fifth District said only a few weeks ago in a speech in Dallas:

> "Hubert Humphrey is a socialist if I ever saw one. America is not creeping, but running toward socialism."

Senator Humphrey is a founder, past national chairman and present national vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, the most extremist left wing group in this nation today short of actual communism. The words "Americans for Democratic Action" have, the Louisville Courier - Journal — a thoroughly liberal paper stated:". . . become a synonym for fellow traveler, communist sympathizer, for advocates of soft policies toward Russia."

ADA advocates various forms of domestic socialism, it calls for endless increases in federal spending; for socialization of some industry; for one - world government; for turning the Panama Canal over to the United Nations; for abolition of the House Committee on un - American activities, for abolition of the attorney general's list of subversive organizations; for repeal of various federal laws against communist overthrow of the American government by force; for federal controls over just about every phase of the average business life.

When Lyndon Johnson took to his political bosom the man who leads the way in such causes, and said "he should be president," he also took those causes to his bosom.

Is this the team the South want in Washington?

Well?

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The most important time in our present history is Nov. 3rd. 1964. A day of Triumph, or Failure for the American people which will effect the entire world.

It should be looked upon by all God fearing as the last opportunity to choose the leadership, necessary to re-establish and preserve the constitutional rights and traditions of this once great nation.

It should be the prayer of every civilized country, to humble their citizens in petition, for special request that if it is the will of our Creator, America, will defend the virtues of the principles upon which She has stood, since 1776.

We should all be of the Spiritual Inspiratoin as was Patrick Henry, he so well expressed, in his plea, for liberty.

May every individual respond to the challange America is faced, with the courage America was founded upon, and advanced in civilization to pass the rest of the world in her achievements.

Senator Goldwater, has proven himself in the face of all the traducements used against any other course than straightforwardness in his attempt to show the American people the true picture of the debased, degenerated, conditioned, as results of an impious political gang, developed in Washington D.C.

For Sen. Fulbright

Monroe, Louisiana

To the Editor:

After reading the evening editorial of last Thursday, October 8, concerning Arkansas' Senator J. William Fulbright, I must lodge a protest. It hardly seems responsible journalism to question the loyalty and integrity of a man of Senator Fulbright's statue simply because you disagree with some or even many of his views. I think you are justified in complaining if he did compare Senator Barry Goldwater with Stalin. But this is not the first time that you have singled out Senator Fulbright for ridicule.

You were apparently disturbed when Senator Fulbright suggested the United States might profit by rethinking its position on Red China. Were you equally disturbed when Senator Barry Goldwater told a group of newsmen on board the yacht Sundance that he had been considering the same thing?

You have repeatedly complained that Senator Fulbright had somehow committed a subversive act by requesting the Pentagon to halt military interference in politics and diplomacy. Yet surely this suspicion of the military, this mania to keep the military subordinate to the civilian authority is and has been one of the most traditional characteristics of the American democratic - republican system.

Next to the late George C. Marshall, Senator Fulbright has probably done more to improve the American image abroad than anyone. Since 1947, more than fifty three thousand students have studied on Fulbright Scholarships and although not all of them have left our shores with an equal degree of admiration for our way of life I think the majority have.

I respect your right to support or oppose any man. I only ask that you exercise the same fairness in your editorial remarks that you expect from others. Who really is served by suggesting that Senator Fulbright is playing into the hands of the Communists? I was offended, as I know you were, when someone else accused Senator Goldwater of being a fascist.

Tidelands Issue

Metairie,La.

To the Editor:

J. Marshall Brown, Democratic National Committeeman from Louisiana, on a recent TV appearance, was highly critical of Barry Goldwater's position on the important Tidelands issue because, as Brown himself said, he (Brown) didn't know if the Senator had any stand at all on this problem.

You would think that, in Mr. Brown's position of opposition, he would make some effort to determine just what Senator Goldwater's beliefs are on an issue of such prime concern to us here in Louisiana. Evidently, though, he made no such effort or he would have learned that, in 1953, Senator Goldwater very convincingly stated his position of States Rights and Constitutional Government during a month-long filibuster in support of the Holland Bill, which he co-sponsored, which granted coastal States title to offshore submerged lands.

Senator Goldwater stated;

"I feel that this filibuster has pointed up the real domestic issue of the present day. It has clearly placed on the one side the advocates of the New and Fair Deals of the past 20 years, who say that only the Federal Government can give us what freedom has always provided, and, on the other side, where I stand, the advocates of States Rights with a minimum of Federal interference. As I stated in my campaign, I was for the States having the title to these lands, titles that through the years have been recognized as belonging to them. I am co-sponsor of the Holland Bill to recognize these titles.

"Nothing that has transpired, in the course of a month of filibuster and hundreds and thousands of words, has changed my mind on this matter. My vote was for this bill, just as it always will be for those measures intended to protect our freedoms as states and individuals and against those who would tamper with the freedoms that have made us the great nation we are."

This is the stand of Senator Goldwater. Let us hope Mr. Brown is able to determine as clearly the policy of the present Administration.

Reckless Spending

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

On the subject of spending tax dollars, I hope you will be privileged to read or hear some of the masterful addresses Congressman Otto Passman has been delivering over the country pointing up the reckless, unbridled spending and giving away of our tax money by the present Washington regime.

Recently, I called public attention to the ever-increasing national indebtedness, rapidly approaching 330 billions, and emphasized the enormity of this sum by focusing attention on the fact that this number of one dollar bills laid out end on end would encircle the earth at its greatest circumference no less than 1242 times. But after reviewing material made available by Congressman Passman, I have discovered my figures grossly undershot reality for, according to Otto, the total should include the additional statutory indebtedness of our nation, the grand total of which, according to the learned Congressman, is one trillion and fifty-six billions of dollars. If your slide rule encompasses such massive numerals, slide out the result to see if you agree that there are enough one dollar bills in this outlay, end on end, to reach THE MOON not just once but 403 TIMES! Unbelievable? Then start calculating. Convinced? By the same reckoning determine how many centuries are necessary for our future generations, many times displaced, to liquidate an indebtedness their foolish forebears have harnessed upon their unborn shoulders, provided immediate and perpetual annual budgets not only are balanced but also provide substantial sums for annual payments of both principal and interest for the amortized retirement of the public indebtedness.

Now, with this fantastic insight into a veritably unholy financial mess, do you share my amazement that, in face of these horrible facts, our flexuous leader, self-sworn to the most austere abnegation in public spending should be so heavy of hand in needless and wanton spending and giving away of our tax dollars, or that with the gaiety and nonchallance of a throne's heir apparent he squanders the public substance by the hundreds of millions on eve of the national election, or that in the shadow of this day of reckoning he should boost the pay of federal officialdom, numbering more than a thousand fatted lambs to outrageous proportions of from $7500 to $10,000 each per annum, or that from the larboard side of mouth proclaims national unbounded prosperity, but from the starboard tearfully bemoans a poverty so acute as to merit banishment instanter (meaning a cool billion by election day) by crossing the palms of all "destitute" voters of a land abounding in wealth with lagniappes of milk and honey, or that "non-political" tax paid, $2500 an hour speech-making daily jet flights now supersede the ear-pulling jaunts on the White House Lawns, with Him and Her now relegated to their kennels for the duration, or that, disregarding admonishment of friends and personal guards, casts discretion to the winds by imprudently volunterring himself an easy target for would-be assassins in his vote-hungry quest for political power, all to the sickening dismay of his viewers, friend and foe alike?

If you share my astonishment in this maze of realities, do all in your power to alleviate the situation before the fateful hour of high twelve.

In the words of Tiny Tim: "God help us every one."

Megalomania

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I wonder how many fellow Louisianians and Americans along with myself felt insulted and threatened by the President of the United States when he went before TV to address us last week while in New Orleans. It would seem to me that he would have had more to say to us, the people he so passionately wants to lead and govern — or is dictated to a better word — than to make Huey Long the subject of his speech. I had hoped we would be given some idea as to how this great man would resolve some of the terrible issues, they being, Viet Nam, Immorality in government, Crime and Riots, Bobby Baker, and Billie Sol Estes. Instead we were given a sob story on Huey. And we all know how that turned out! What about these other things, the things of now?

In these serious times I had hoped for more from my President who wants us to believe beyond the shadow of a doubt that he only is that perfectly gifted and deserving one to head our government. I had hoped, as I'm sure others had hoped, that this great white father of us all would have a message of confidence, inspiration, and hope for us, that he would come before us on TV that night and humbly, not arrogantly, and with some sense of the fitness of things, respectfully and humbly ask us for our vote, not demand it, expect it, and laugh up his sleeve at us.

I was prepared and willing to be fair and to give this man the benefit of the doubt, as, after all, he is my President of my country. This was not possible to do. His manner and speech that night smacked of the bully he is proving all the time to be. Too, the belligerant attitude of "you'd better vote for me, or else" was there for all to see. He was so the ruthless bully that night surrounded as he was by his court of McKeithen, Russell Long, Boggs, and Ellender. He came before us woefully ill-prepared, ill-equipped, and so undeserving of the great office he seeks and without a single quality of care, concern, or respect for any of us.

It looks like we are going to get a superb dictator instead of the superb leader our nation and our times so desperately need. The great philosopher - poet, Emerson, put it so well when he said, "what you are screams so loud, I cannot hear what you say."

We are being exposed to spectacles of megalomania as it has never before been practiced in the person of President Johnson. Were it anyone else we could laugh it off as not being too serious and consider the source. This, however, is not easily done when the offender happens to be Lyndon Baines Johnson, possibly the next 8-year President of the United States of America. I continue to hope in these closing weeks of the campaign that such will not be the case, for if it should be, Heaven help us all!

Sincerely,
Miss A. N. Barry

May Be Too Late

Monroe, Louisiana

To The Editor:

I am prompted to write this for two very good reasons. The first is that I am afraid of what is about to happen to us and our country, and the second is that I am fed up and angry to realize that the people who are apt to make reason number one happen consider the citizens and voters too ignorant and uninterested in our country to wake up and do anything about it. It is not usually good to be angry, but I think that all good Southerners should become indignant now.

Our lives and destinies are now being run and maneuvered by a group of "political parasites" who wear the clothes of the National Democratic Party, and who have a ring in their noses to which a string is tied and extends into Mr. L. B. Johnson's hands. These parasites have remained in positions of power for many years and for three main reasons. Number one is voter apathy; number two is voter ignorance; number three, and the worst of the three, is blind faith to a party that is not what our parents and ancestors made it and intended it to be, a party now run by a group of double - crossing, smooth-talking con men.

What can we do about the foregoing situation? We must begin immediately to teach all these parasites a severe lesson by using our most feared weapon, our vote, and remove from office each one who double crosses us and supports and votes against our way of life and well being. This includes all parasites at local, state and national levels. This all means that the only method we have of teaching the parasites a lesson severe enough to impress them is to replace each one in his position with someone who has the courage and sincerity to represent us honorably and truthfully.

We must make it clear that we, and not the Democratic Party or LBJ, are the boss of all elected officials. A good example of the problem is the voting record of the eight Congressmen from Louisiana regarding LBJ's poverty program. Mr. Boggs and Mr. Gillis Long voted for this bill, while Mr. Passman and Mr. Waggoner voted against it, and the other four didn't bother to represent us at all. Mr. Long has been defeated by the voters of Louisiana on two occasions in the past year and still hasn't learned a lesson. The bet from here is that Mr. Long will receive a political plum from LBJ if he is elected, so you see we cannot better ourselves by getting rid of one parasite, we must make a clean sweep.

I suggest that we Southerners and conservatives from all parts of the U. S. A., Democrats and Republicans alike, adopt the following slogan for Goldwater: "Sixty-eight may be too late!"

J. M. Bryce

ROBERT ALLEN & PAUL SCOTT

Johnson Regime Lags In Weapons

THE EISENHOWER administration initiated and developed more than seven times as many major weapons systems as the Kennedy - Johnson regime — 57 to 8.

Of the 57 new weapons systems under President Eisenhower, 30 were combat planes of various types and 27 air, ground and naval missiles, most of them capable of being armed with nuclear warheads. Of the 8 Kennedy - Johnson new weapons systems, 3 are planes and 5 missiles.

This scathing comparison is a highlight of a forthcoming study by the distinguished GOP Peace Through Preparedness Task Force appointed by Senator Goldwater to analyze key aspects of the hotly controversial defense issue.

In its first report a week ago, the seven-member group, headed by Neil McElroy, former defense secretary, and including two retired chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — Air General Nathan Twining and Admiral Arthur Radford — charged the Johnson administration with "dangerous reluctance" to maintain an adequate nuclear weapons testing program even to the extent permitted by the test ban treaty.

The latest Task Force survey presents the following highly critical detailed contrast of weapons systems development by the Republican and Democratic regimes:

PLANES

TYPE	Eisenhower '53-'60	Kennedy-Johnson '61-'64
Attack	2	1
Fighter	2	1
Reconnaissance	1	0
Cargo-Transport	7	1
ASW-Surveillance	4	0
Trainer	3	0
Utility	8	0
Bombers	3	0
	30	3

MISSILES

Surface-to-Surface Strategic & Tactical	8	0
Air-to-Surface	6	0
Air-to-Air	3	1
Surface-to-Air	4	2
Anti-Submarine	2	0
Battlefield Support-Guided Missiles	4	2
	27	5

"DESPITE OBVIOUS perils," the forthcoming study will hold, "the present administration has during the past four years neglected and stifled technical innovation. They have thwarted the origination of new systems. They have caused the cancellation of promising projects. They have stifled innovating ideas and new concepts.

"The present superiority of United States strategic military power is the product of the imaginative research and development efforts of prior administrations. The major weapons systems which now make up our strategic forces—B-47, B-58, las, Polaris and Minuteman missiles — were all originated and developed during prior administrations . . . The critical meaning for America in the Johnson administration's failure to originate new weapons systems becomes glaringly evident in the above tables, which relate only to two major areas — aircraft and missiles."

MORE PINPOINTED CASTIGATION — Without mentioning Defense Secretary McNamara by name, the Republican Task Force singles him out for caustic criticism on the ground of "over - centralization of defense functions" and the "summary rejection of new systems and improvements based on dogmatic cost - effectiveness tests."

The prominent GOP authorities vigorously contend that, "No initial proposal for a weapons system can be either accurately cost-estimated or cost-justified."

WORLD IN FOCUS

Uneasy Equilibrium Jolted

By John Cale

Crucial Day

DEVELOPMENTS IN current events can follow a pattern of "slim pickings" for months on end. Then suddenly one day, as if triggered by some force powerful enough to startle the world's uneasy equilibrium, a sequence of happenings can alter the whole spectrum of man's activities from the clash of arms to buying, selling, politics and recreation.

Thursday of the week immediately past dawned as a routine day. A new note had been injected into the U. S. presidential campaign with the resignation of President Johnson's aide, Walter W. Jenkins, following his arrest on a morals charge.

BUT SOMEHOW, this sort of thing doesn't capture the imagination of the public to the extent that it did in former years. Perhaps the heavy hand that has swept the cases of Billie Sol Estes and Bobby Baker under the rug has gained enough momentum to continue its broad strokes of expedient housecleaning.

Even GOP candidate Barry Goldwater said he had no comment on Jenkins' arrest. But the Republican wires were buzzing as Thursday October 15 entered its early hours over the U. S. A. This seemed to be the mood of Illinois Senator Everett Dirksen, although the particular photograph shown here deals with his introducing his cohort, Representative Charles Halleck, by way of telephone to a speaking engagement in Indianapolis.

DIRKSEN

However, the expression on Dirksen's face and the telephone in hand typified America's mood as the administration scandals grew, the Cardinals beat the Yankees, the Kremlin high command received a shakeup and the British elections tilted in favor of the Labor Party — all within a span of a few hours Thursday.

Continuation

ONE OF the most perplexing aspects of the communist system is its ability to survive a change in high command, though these changes reflect a crisis instead of an orderly elective process. Since 1920, Soviet Russia has witness transfers from Lenin to Stalin to Khrushchev and now to Kosygin and Brezhnev.

No one outside the limited attendance in the Kremlin last week really knows the process by which Khrushchev stepped down and his dual roles of premier and party secretary were filled by two younger men. It is obvious that the people of Russia had absolutely no say so in the matter, a fact that the western democracies find it all too easy to overlook these days.

KOSYGIN BREZHNEV

AS USUAL where people live in a condition of regimentation, rumors over the Soviet changeover are flying thick and fast and will probably do so for some time. The official announcement said Nikita S. Khrushchev retired because of his age (70) and his poor health.

But in recent public appearances he displayed as much zest and bounce as ever.

The last westerner to see Khrushchev was French Minister of State Gaston Palewsky who talked with him last week at Khrushchev's Black Sea vacation retreat. Palewsky said the former premier appeared to be in perfect health.

Khrushchev is known to have adhered to a careful diet to keep down his tendency to overweight and to drink alcoholic beverages sparingly. A liver ailment had given him trouble in the past but apparently had not bothered him of late.

THE USUALLY ebullient Khrushchev gave one of his best performances in June when he visited Scandinavia. He kept up a killing round of official engagements, receptions, speeches and public visits on a schedule that did in some of his younger followers.

Illness

In Oslo the newspaper Arbeiderbladet reported Thursday that during Khrushchev's visit Norwegian medical authorities learned that Khrushchev had had a "very serious" case of heart trouble. There was no confirmation and no indication when it might have occurred.

One of the few admissions Khrushchev ever made that he could not be around the Soviet scene indefinitely came when he spoke in general and philosophical terms. "I am not going to be party leader forever," he said.

ALTHOUGH his recent public appearances indicated tip top condition for a man of 70, it could not be ruled out he had suffered a downturn in health — or that appearances could be deceiving.

In 70 years Khrushchev has given the appearance that he never stopped running — from the time he went to work at the age of six as a shepherd boy and later in a coal mine.

Spotlight Red Glare

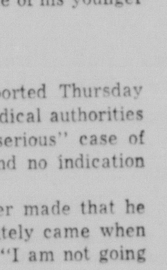
CLOSE ON the heels of Thursday's flurry of events, the Peking government announced the successful explosion of an atomic bomb Friday. For the second day in a row as a result the wires carrying stock market reports began to register minus signs. Although stocks rebounded towards the end of the day on Thursday, the general uneasiness caused the sharpest drop since the assassination of President Kennedy last November.

The Chinese bomb could be just the instrument to rock the western world out of its emphasis on peace and the general welfare. It's time for a bolder foreign policy, perhaps, even one that would enable us to join forces with the Russians with the very definite condition that nation would restore religious freedom and free elections within its own borders and within the European "iron curtain" countries.

Failing the fortitude to take this position, we may see our own system exit — quite literally — from the scene within a decade.

Britain

AS THE clock ran out from this vantage, the returns from Thursday's general elections in Britain revealed the Laborites led by Harold Wilson leading by a slim margin. But the Conservatives refused to concede. The last time such a government went into office, the small plurality support in the House of Commons caused it to fall in less than a year.



WILSON

As for possible changes in U. S.-Britain relations, however, it made little difference which party moved ahead in the final count.

Both the Conservative and Labor parties consider the American alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the United Nations as pillars of British foreign policy.

Both parties want relaxation of tensions between the capitalist and Communist countries.

THE CONSERVATIVES want Britain to keep its own nuclear warheads. The Laborites consider this wasteful. They would prefer greater NATO control of U. S. nuclear weapons.

The Conservatives want to keep pressing for membership in the European community. The Laborites say Britain's first responsibility is to the Commonwealth.

The Conservatives want step-by-step disarmament, the next steps to be an agreement with Russia against the spread of nuclear know-how, and observation posts against surprise attacks. The Laborites stress a geographic start, with creation of nuclear-free zones in Africa, Latin America and Central Europe.

The Conservatives want to keep buying Polaris missiles from the United States under the 1962 agreement between the then Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and the late President Kennedy at Nassau in 1962.

THE LABORITES want to "re-negotiate" the Nassau agreement and in effect, junk it, along with British nuclear weapons.

Unity Movements

WHILE THE Roman Catholic Church has dealt with several broad problems of religious unity at its ecumenical conference in Rome, the National Council of Churches—part of the Protestant unity movement in the United States — ran into opposition from the meeting of Episcopalian officials at St. Louis during the past week.

WITH SEVERAL moves afoot at the denomination's triennial general convention seeking withdrawal from the interchurch cooperative body, an open hearing was called Friday on the matter.

The council, claiming most of the nation's major Protestant and Orthodox churches with a total of 40 million members, carries on joint work in relief, publishing missions, Christian education and other fields.

Both critics and supporters of it marshalled their arguments before a special commission here. It subsequently will present its findings for action.

IT IS headed by Bishop J. Brooke Mosley of Delaware.

Authorized three years ago to inquire into the conduct and usefulness of the council, the commission already has drawn up a preliminary report urging "increased participation" in it.

However, a barrage of criticism of the council has continued with several proposals already introduced here either for the Episcopal Church to quit it or sharply censure it.

Laymen and clerical deputies, representing 3½-million Episcopalians across the country, also have been deluged with material accusing the council of "a philosophy at variance" with the church.

THE COMPLAINTS charge the council has entered into the political arena and reflected ideas that "appear in large part to be of the 'left' in their politics."

Campaign

HARRY S. TRUMAN, recovering from injuries suffered in a bath room fall, looked at newspaper headlines about Walter W. Jenkins and commented: "I see the President has got his troubles, too."

He was commenting about Jenkins a presidential aide who resigned from the White House staff after his arrest on a morals charge.

Truman, who suffered two broken ribs and a cut over his eye Tuesday, is recovering well, the hospital said.

He went to sleep Wednesday night without a sedative and had a good night.

A HUGE bouquet of mums and gladiolas was sent to Truman by President Johnson. Earlier Truman received a dozen carnations from the Republican presidential candidate, Senator Barry Goldwater.

Truman spends most of the day in a sitting position to ease congestion in his left lung, which doctors say is a secondary reaction to the broken ribs.

As for the more active campaigners, they probably envied senior political expert Truman, broken ribs and all. While the polls have moved the Goldwater-Miller ticket into a better position, it still appears to be an uphill fight right down to the wire. And the Jenkins arrest is only one of many Democratic problems.

Farm Vote

GOLDWATER SAID, "There just are no simple solutions to the mess in agriculture" and the present administration should be "honest enough to stop trying to patch up a worn-out program."

The Republican presidential nominee, added: "We must seek the best ways open to us to bridge the gap between the controlled agriculture we now have and the free agriculture we must move toward."

The speech came as Goldwater plunged back into the Midwest farm belt — where he campaigned Tuesday and Wednesday — after a quick swing into Texas. He stopped at Sioux City, Iowa, before coming to the corn picking contest.

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY, bidding for corn belt votes, charged that GOP presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater intends to get rid of the farm problem "by getting rid of the farmers." Humphrey followed Goldwater to the platform at the corn picking contest, a favorite forum for politicians in an election year.

The Minnesota senator also was to cross paths with Goldwater at the annual "Rivercade" celebration at Sioux City, Iowa, though it was not expected they would meet.

Lighter Side

QUEEN ELIZABETH II, along with the Beatles didn't vote in Britain's general election.

"We wanted to cast absentee votes, but the forms were mailed to us too late," said Beatle Paul McCartney.

He wouldn't say whether he and the other Beatles—John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr—would have voted —Conservative, Labor and Liberal.

THE QUEEN can't vote. Law bars lords, lunatics and felons from the polls.

Final Chord

GROUPS SUCH as the British Beatles have taken that last medium of musical communication — the popular song — to new levels of light-heartedness. In fact, the passing from the scene last week of U.S. songwriter Cole Porter, causes many of us to recall just how refined was his style by contrast.

Porter died Thursday in a Santa Monica, California, hospital at the age of 71. While he could present light moments in music through such tunes as "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," he followed through in the well thought our harmonies and melodic lines of the musical masters in such undertakings as "Begin the Beguine," and "It Was Just One of Those Things."

There could even come a day when Porter's handling of chord progressions in some of his better efforts will be ranked with those of Chopin, Schumann and Cesar Franck — three real masters in the art of tone-blending.

PORTER'S GAY, sophisticated lyrics and hauntingly beautiful melodies became his trademark in the Broadway era that saw the rise of such fellow composers as George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, Richard Rodgers, Larry Hart and Oscar Hammerstein.

Many of his gayest successes were written when he was in near - constant pain from the waist down. In 1938, both of his legs were fractured when he was thrown from a horse while riding on the bridle path of Long Island's Piping Rock Club. From then on, he suffered from chronic osteomylitis and underwent many operations — 21 between 1938 and 1948.

TWIN CITIES WEEK IN REVIEW

Teacher Pay Was The Major Issue

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

The teachers' pay raise to be or not to be.

That was the burning issue last week as ranks began to form in earnest for the November caravan to Baton Rouge.

Confucius once said, "If there's anything worse than having a monkey on your back, it's having a teacher there."

TYLER

Or maybe it wasn't Confucius. At any rate, Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen probably would share the sentiment.

Looking ahead to a special session of the Legislature sometime after the general election Nov. 3, Twin City and parish teachers were meeting, resolving and completing questionnaires to beat the band.

They, along with brethren throughout the state, were seeking to unite their stands on the pay raise denied them in the last Legislature and determine just how far they would go to get it.

A meeting in Alexandria Saturday of the Louisiana Teachers Association House of Delegates, in progress as we went to press, probably molded the solid front they sought.

Meantime last week, however, the air was electric. The Ouachita Parish Principals Association met and decided to back to the hilt whatever play the teachers make, presumably even a walkout, if it comes to that.

For their part, the teachers, in a special meeting Thursday of the Ouachita Teachers Association, produced few surprises, resolving to ask the governor and legislators for full implementation of a United Schools Committee recommendation. (About $1,000 per year, across the board.)

INTRIGUE

Results of a poll testing sentiment for the possible walkout were shrouded in intrigue, as they say in the movies, though it was understood there was no dearth of support, either in city or parish schools.

The raise, the OTA maintained, should be retroactive to the beginning of the school year, as they had "every reason to believe it would have been effected then," if the Legislature had been sports.

Encouragement for the teachers came from at least two noteworthy sources, according to Morning World stories during the week.

Sen. Jamar Adock of Monroe, leaving Tuesday for a two-day legislative budget committee meeting in Baton Rouge, said he was determined that the teachers be paid their "much-deserved raise." Chairman of the group, he felt economies in government could contribute handsomely to it.

Louisiana Education Supt. William J. Dodd, meanwhile, said he was "hopeful" on the issue of an increase, but noncommittal on formation of a teachers union, another talked-about teachers tactical turnip-squeezing technique.

Neither official specified the amount of the raise he had in mind.

POLICE JURY

Believe it or not, there was other news in last week's papers.

The police jury, for example, probably matched the teachers, meeting for meeting. They got together three times, one of those times a special meeting on parish fire protection outside Twin City limits.

Monroe fire trucks won't be answering rural alarms after Dec. 31 and, as juror Curtis Joiner tactfully suggested, times's a'wastin'. Emerging slowly for a cloud of commentary on just where the proposed parish fire stations should be located, was the idea to move along with plans for a necessary bond election.

Ford, Bacon & Davis, the engineering firm which recently surveyed fire needs, was authorized to draft final cost figures on two plans of protection to be laid for decision before the voters.

One program would place a station both east and west of the river, another would split four stations similarly. Approximate millage, over a 15-year period, to bring this to pass would be 1.8 mills or 3.6 mills, depending naturally on whether two stations or four were construed the wiser course.

Treated most unceremoniously and with a shrift ill-befitting something in which the federal government would participate was a parish transportation survey, considered by jurors Tuesday.

As presented at the meeting, the survey, which would include something called "socio-economic data," as well as highway information and plans for prospective land uses, would be compiled in a state-parish partnership, with Uncle Sam smiling benevolently nearby.

Juror John Wilhite unsympathetically cried "federal power grab," while Bernie Van saw "an attempt to zone the parish." The whole package was tossed for legal perusal to Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter, in an attempt to extract whatever hooks it might contain.

One obvious one, described by Parish Engineer Herbert Collier, is the stipulation that, after a 1965 D-Day, no more federal highway participation will be permitted in areas not "playing ball" in such a survey.

With their usual display of restraint, the jurors went on at the same meeting to okay work on a southside drainage canal, though legality of the move was vigorously challenged. (Parts of the facility are inside city limits.)

Next day, Wednesday, at their regular meeting, they were kind enough to authorize hiring additonal poll workers in nine precincts, because of a heavy vote expected Nov. 3. It was announced Thursday that the hiring plan had been dropped, in the face of questions as to its legality.

In tune with the carnival air last week was the six-day run, Monday through Saturday, of the Ouachita Valley Fair in West Monroe and freshman class elections at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Despite the failure of electronic equipment which had been relied on to count the vote, results crackled through to the paper Thursday, revealing four clean victories in the student elections and four coming runoffs. Winners were Steve Huffman, Monroe, vice president; Judy Welch, Slidell, secretary; Linda Callender, Monroe, female senator; and Gary Boutwell, Burns, boy cheerleader.

RUNOFFS

The run-offs loom in races for president, treasurer, male senator and girl cheerleader. Northeast was also looking forward to homecoming when Linda Diane Jones of Oak Grove was chosen queen of the annual festivities, Shirley Nelson of Bastrop, maid of honor.

Which reminds us that those who like their girl-watching organized, can take heart from the fact of the Miss Louisiana Pageant's franchise renewal for Monroe. The chicks will be displayed in 1965 July 1-3, with James C. Ussery as general chairman of the Jaycee sponsored Little Atlantic City.

Back to voting briefly, we must note that absentee balloting in advance of the Nov. 3 crisis got underway Thursday and will continue until 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 27. Mrs. Mae Lucky, the registrar, tells us there are 31,331 registered opinion-markers in the parish, including the 1,138 who enrolled while the books were open Aug. 31-Oct. 2.

Oct. 27, by the way, is the date of an adjourned session set last week by West Monroe aldermen. A scheduled meeting Tuesday went by the boards when a quorum (three aldermen) failed to appear, in developments shrouded in intrigue, as they say in the movies.

Monroe government managed to meet, and left city taxes at 40 mills. The two mills assessed last year as financing for an $11,250,000 capital improvement program remained on the books intact, in line with a pledge from Mayor W. L. Howard not to raise the figure.

Leaving city employ last week, and regrettably, was Charles Desormeaux, assistant to Planning Director George Parsons. With the planning commission since April, 1962, the Crowley native went to a job in Lafayette, leaving Parsons beating the bushes for a replacement.

Still employed, but leaving the whole country, was Dr. Clifton Tennison, pastor of West Monroe's First Baptist Church. He was one of six evangelists chosen to take part in a month long crusade in Portugal, sponsored by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. A fortuitous selection indeed, since Dr. Tennison will have the opportunity to see his brother, Dr. Grayson Tennison, a missionary in Portugal.

Other items of interest to readers who might've missed them:

The Ouachita Parish Grand Jury was convened Tuesday, with 12 citizens selected from a 30-name venire. Reporting Friday, they presented seven true bills, each involving homicide, five no true bills and one pretermission.

Announced last Sunday by local businessman Harold L. Woods Jr. was a $750,000 apartment house project. Consisting of 88 units, Woodlawn Manor will occupy a five-acre site, one block west of North Eighteenth Street, bordering on Shannon and Erin.

The first day of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders annual Parade of Homes already is history. Kicking off Saturday, running through today, eight model homes are being shown between 2 and 6 p.m. by six area builders. The same program is scheduled for next weekend.

These national weeks were being observed locally with suitable obeisances — School Lunch Week, Newspaper Week and Pharmacy Week (not the preceding week, as erroneously reported in imminently - fallible weekly assault on reason).

FROM OUR READERS

We appreciate the many nice letters and calls from our readers and the numerous poems and sayings they've been sending in. We hope you keep them coming because they are always needed.

Here's a couple of poems we received the past week and we are reproducing them here because they strike our fancy:

GIFTS TO GIVE

To a personal enemy, forgiveness;
To a friend, your heart;
To your child, a good example;
To your father, deference;
To your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you;
To all men, charity.

WATCH YOUR WORDS

A careless word may kindle strife;
A cruel word may wreck a life.
A bitter word may hate instill;
A brutal word may smite and kill;
A gracious word may smooth the way;
A joyous word may light the way;
A timely word may lessen stress;
A loving word may heal and bless.

IS YOUR PHOBIA HERE?

With the different type of fears you have, did you ever wonder under what phobia they would be classified? To settle an argument the other night, we started looking up definitions and some proved to be most interesting. Here are a few we came across:

Monophobia — fear of being alone; ailurophobia — fear of cats; Ochlophobia — fear of crowds; achluophobia — fear of darkness; Hypsophobia — fear of heights; triskaidekaphobia — fear of No. 13; Odynophobia — fear of pain; hematophobia — fear of sight of blood; Gephyrophobia — fear of crossing bridges; cherophobia —fear of gaiety; and pantrophobia — fear of everything.

LITTLE-KNOWN FACTS

EVER STOP to think about South Viet Nam? Did you know that through October 10th, which was the 1,129th day of the war there, that 202 Americans had been killed in action; 1,170 wounded, 7 missing and 9 captured. On November 17, 1961, the administration, with now President Johnson as one of the chief advisors, ordered several hundred army "specialists" to Viet Nam. Today Johnson has more than a full division of American fighting men engaged in that heartbreaking, bloody struggle — without hope of winning. Yet the administration says we are not involved in the fighting. . .

LOOKOUT — Reliable reports say House Democratic liberals are now laying the groundwork, if President Johnson is elected, to purge any Democratic member who supports either Barry Goldwater or an independent slate of presidential electors. Rep. Albert Watson of South Carolina is the only one who has qualified for the purge list thus far, but others, including Monroe's own Otto E. Passman, are expected to make the list soon. According to reports, the casting into outer darkness will take place at the party caucus immediately preceding the opening session of Congress January 4. Then, too, some southerners, whose states are likely to vote Republican, don't expect to get away without paying a price for the so-called "disloyalty." They feel President Johnson, if elected, will exact retribution, and presumably he's already passed the word, by limiting the flow of federal funds to these states. Florida, which is highly dependent on federal contracts, is particularly tense about the prospect. In fact, development around Cape Kennedy has been brought to a standstill until the election. . .

THE CUBAN exile community has a slogan it is supporting fully these days —"Barry Si, Lyndon No." The community is campaigning vigorously for the Goldwater - Miller ticket, convinced that a GOP victory would bring a quick end to the Castro regime. Even school children have covered their notebooks with Goldwater stickers. . .

DID YOU KNOW that women are more conservative than men in politics and are more to the right? Opinion polls show that this is true of women throughout the world. And according to American pollsters—if you can take their word—"Voting for right wing parties tends to go hand-in-hand with going to church more and instinctive nationalism. The women are more right wing even within equal educational groups and they often vote deliberately against their husbands."

IF JOHNSON wins, reliable reports say, and if money talks, it will be used to crush the color lines in the South — and elsewhere. The weapon to be used will be Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. This provision bars racial discrimination in all programs receiving federal financial aid. If strictly interpreted, Title VI threatens the withdrawal of millions of dollars now spent supposedly supporting segregated educational, agricultural, research and public health programs in the south. For example, the U.S. Office of Education alone has earmarked more than $285 million in grants to the 11 Deep South states. And the Department of Agriculture reports that all agricultural extension services, including 4-H clubs, must be integrated. Even the separate black-white queues for food stamps must be merged. . . .

A LOT OF TRUTH — Arguing with a woman is like going into a shower bath with an umbrella. What good does it do?

ISN'T IT SO — If it weren't for the optimist, the pessimist would never know how happy he isn't.

IF THE SHOE FITS — Many people who now drive so fast past a schoolhouse are the very same ones who were so slow when they passed through it.

AROUND THE TOWN

Reports say that sometime ago after Mayor Allan Norris suffered a heart attack, his salary was cut, with the promise as recorded in the minutes of the Board of Aldermen that it would be restored when he returned to fulltime duty with a doctor's release. According to the records, Mayor Norris returned to fulltime work September 16. Two days later a doctor's report, dated September 18 was filed. The report said the mayor could resume his duties, including the driving of an automobile. However, on the October 1 payroll, his salary was not restored, and as far as can be determined, it still has not been. At the last meeting of the board the past week, there was not a quorum, therefore no official action could be taken on any matters. No one was commenting on the situation — at least officially at week's end . . .

SOME PARENTS have called in complaints about a world history book that is being used in some of the parish high schools. They claim that too much religion is involved — particularly about one sect. The book, they say, teaches all the key doctrines of this particular religious group, but doesn't give the same treatment to the various other denominations . . .

UNUSUAL SIGN

A sign found in an area restaurant — The bank has made an agreement with us, they promise not to sell food and we promise not to cash checks.

SAYINGS HERE AND THERE

Inscription on a bopster's tombstone: "Don't dig me, man — I'M gone." . . .

SIGN IN an employment office: "Don't underestimate yourself. Let us do it for you."

NOTE TO some football teams — "The trouble with being a good sport is you have to lose in order to prove it."

POLITICIANS

Ever try to thing about some of the things a politician gets tired of hearing. Here are some we came up with:

Remember, Jerry, if you lose this one the only thing left you can run for is — dogcatcher . . .

Don't waste any more time kissing babies. Kiss the old ladies. If they like it, they won't forget you on election day . . .

Promise 'em what you think they'd like to have. After we win the election we can always think up reasons why we can't deliver."

So that's our candidate. Well, all I can say is that if his brains match his ears, we've got a winner for sure.

And — Tell your wife to hide that fur stole. We're going through a poor district.

DID YOU KNOW?

ONE out of every 10 Americans grinds his or her teeth while asleep.

PSYCHOLOGISTS have found that couples wedded 20 years or more have less marital tension than those married 10 years or less.

THAT SWEDEN plans in 1967 to switch from left hand to right hand driving. The change will cost the country at least $80 million. . .

PEOPLE are their own most essential medicine. A French physician who studied ship wrecks found that 90 per cent of shipwrecked sailors died within a few days from "aloneness."

LEYTE LANDING RECALLED

Island Has Returned To Its Tropical, Pleasant Lethargy

By SPENCER DAVIS

TACLOBAN, Leyte (AP) — Twenty years after American forces stormed this island to open Gen. Douglas MacArthur's campaign to liberate the Philippines, Leyte has returned to pleasant, untroubled, tropical lethargy.

A cherry-red motorcycle, made in Japan, leans nonchalantly on its shining chrome stand next to the house where MacArthur established his headquarters.

"Mother never collected any rent," recalls the owner's son, Frederick Price. "Father was in Los Banos concentration camp and my mother said, 'You can have the house free as long as you need it.' They used it for six months until MacArthur returned to Manila."

A historical marker says, "This edifice owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Price sheltered Gen. MacArthur who escaped injury 20 Oct. 1944 when a Japanese bomb penetrated the roof over his room. It served as provisional capitol 20-23 October, upon reconstitution of the Commonwealth of the Philippines for President Sergio Osmena."

About 10 miles away on "Red Beach" at Palo, children play on the shell-encrusted landing craft and amphibious tanks still littering the shore. The rusted war relics, half buried in the black sands, are accepted by the young as a natural part of the landscape — along with giant stands of bamboo and coconuts, thatched huts and flaming hibiscus.

It was here, on Oct. 20, 1944, that MacArthur waded ashore, Osmena at his side, and declared, "I have returned."

Now, a single freighter loads copra in San Pedro Bay — once the hub of operations when an armada of more than 600 Allied ships disgorged men and material for the campaign to crush Gen. Yamashita's forces.

"Welcome to Tacloban City's finest, the Swank Hotel," read a sign in English at the airport when Manila Times publisher

EDITOR'S NOTE — Just two decades ago, Gen. Douglas MacArthur waded ashore at Leyte with the famous declaration, "I have returned." The little town of Tacloban has gone back to sleep, but an aged Japanese admiral recalls the Battle of Leyte Gulf, biggest naval engagement in history.

Joaquin Roces' private, twin-engine plane landed us on the grass and gravel - pitted runway. This airstrip proved a haven for scores of U.S. Navy pilots when Japanese fleet off the tip of nearby Samar Island knocked out their light "jeep" carriers. Bulldozers rammed the crashed planes into the bay to make room for more flyers in distress.

A small ship with orange lateen sails stands out on the horizon of Leyte Gulf's calm blue waters. It was for mastery of this gulf that the biggest sea battle of all time was fought.

In a suicidal gamble, the Japanese Imperial Fleet sortied from Singapore, Brunei, Taiwan and the home islands to engage the U.S. 7th and 3rd fleets in running battles spread over hundreds of miles, from Oct. 23-26. The effort came perilously close to success but ended with the Japanese fleet shattered and no longer an effective force.

Rafael Azada, the senior pilot of the Times plane, flew us over the route taken by Adm. Takeo Kurita, commander of the Japanese central force. Kurita boldly threaded unguarded San Bernardino strait after heavy air attacks from Adm. William F. Halsey's 3rd Fleet fast carriers apparently had driven him off with the loss of the giant Japanese battleship Musashi and other ships.

Kurita slipped down the east coast of Samar undetected until a dawn patrol discovered him closing on the light jeep carriers of Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's 7th Fleet. Their function was to provide air cover over MacArthur's landing forces while Halsey guarded San Bernardino Strait with his battleships and fast carriers.

But after a three-hour fight and with victory within his grasp, Kurita unexpectedly broke off the engagement and turned back north. If he had continued with his original plan, he might have raised havoc with MacArthur's tender-skinned convoys in Leyte Gulf and then fought his way out of the gulf through Surigao Strait to the south.

RETIRED ADMIRAL

In a Tokyo suburb, I called on the retired admiral, now 75, and asked him about his fateful decision. Kurita said it was the first time he had talked to a newsman about the battle. He gave this account:

IN ONE OF the historic landings of World War II, American troops leave LSTs and LCMs to run through the surf onto the beach at Leyte Island in the Philippines Oct. 31, 1944. They were starting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's battle for the liberation of the Philippines. The invasion followed the greatest sea battle of the war, Oct. 23-26, which ended with defeat of the Japanese imperial fleet. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

"From the beginning there was no chance of success. There was not much leeway for changing the plan and not much leeway in the timing of the whole operation.

"Originally, we were to have been at Leyte about Oct. 24. I knew the route was sure to be filled by American submarines and I wanted a safer route by a channel which ran through a shallow area where submarines could not operate. But that would mean a delay.

"Even taking the original route it would be Oct. 25 before we got to Leyte and Oct. 26 if we took the safe route through the shoals.

"Further, the fuel situation was such that steps had to be taken to have supply ships waiting for us at an island north of Palawan. When we got there after the battle we found no supply ships. My destroyers had to take oil from the battleship Yamato and they barely made it back to their base at Brunei."

Kurita said that the bombing had been very heavy from the U.S. carrier planes on the afternoon of Oct. 24 as they crossed the Sibuyan Sea.

ADA Described As Socialist By Barry Goldwater

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Controversy is nothing new to Americans for Democratic Action, which entered the political scene in 1947. But it's a hot campaign issue with the Republicans since President Johnson picked Hubert H. Humphrey, an ADA founder and officer, as his running mate. Here is a words - eye view of the battle.)

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — ADA stands for American Dairy Association and American Dental Association.

It also stands for Americans for Democratic Action, which describes itself as a liberal, independent political organization.

But that's not the way Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican candidate for president, is describing it. Nor his vice-presidential running mate, Rep. William E. Miller.

In the words of Miller, Americans for Democratic Action is a leftist organization that is trying to "transform our government into a foreign, socialistic totalitarianism."

HUMPHREY'S ROLE

And as for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey — a founder of ADA, a national officer for many years, and still a member — Goldwater has referred to him as "this ADA radical of the left." In Cincinnati, Goldwater said that Humphrey, President Johnson's running mate, is "the most prominent left-wing radical in the country."

The ADA is not surprised. It has been deep in controversy since it was started, back in 1947, by a group drawn heavily from the ranks of New Dealers who had followed Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Its stated purposes then were to carry the New Deal forward, and to eliminate Communist influences from the liberal movement. ADA says today it "seeks to influence the nomination and election of candidates favorable to liberal programs." With headquarters here, ADA claims a membership of 50,000, about the size of the Izaak Walton League of fishermen.

ADA declares that since its founding it has rejected all association with totalitarianism, whether Communist or Fascist. Former Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, onetime chairman of the ADA, has described it as a "liberal lobby."

The storm raging about ADA and his connection with it has not shaken Humphrey.

"My role in the ADA has been both a source of inspiration and gratification to me," he declared when he resigned as vice chairman Sept. 2 to begin campaigning.

The national chairman, John P. Roche, a political science teacher at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., says the Republican candidates are talking nonsense. Roche said "the notion behind Miller's attitude is that the American people are a bunch of clods." Miller's attack on ADA is "the death rattle of a political bunkrupt," he added.

Miller "is a guttersnipe," in the words of Joseph L. Rauh, Washington lawyer and an ADA stalwart.

The ADA forces rejoiced when President Johnson tapped one of their own for the No. 2 spot.

"Sure, we are happy," Roche told a reporter. "Hubert Humphrey is an admirable choice — a man of conscience and intelligence."

Republican National Chairman Dean Burch exulted: "The Democrats effectively killed any question of extremism in this campaign when they allowed a vice chairman of the ADA to become the vice-presidential nominee."

And John E. Grenier, executive director of the Republican National Committee, predicted: "The nomination of Hubert Humphrey, an extreme left liberal and vice chairman of the socialistic ADA, not only insures the vote (for the Republican ticket) of the South but of traditional Republican states of the plains, Midwest and some of the East."

DROPPING BY

Anybody dropping by ADA headquarters on Connecticut Avenue, just below DuPont Circle, might wonder how the organization could stir up such a ruckus.

ADA shares an old four-story brick house with a rathskeller and a beauty parlor. It has 15 employes at headquarters. It is proud that it has doubled its mimeograph strength in the last three years — it now has TWO machines.

There is a "Goldwater 1964" sticker pasted on a pillar.

The ADA says its budget is $150,000 a year, a tiny drop in a small bucket as finances go in Washington. There is a rule forbidding membership to Communists.

ADA has always pushed for social legislation, such as civil rights, medical care for the aged and public housing.

ADA proposes that the government invest at least an additional $5 billion a year for the next four years in education, housing, urban renewal, public works, health services and resource conservation.

In its civil liberties program, ADA seeks defeat of amendments to the Constitution relating to public school prayers, Bible reading in schools, and praying in public places. It urges abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It opposes loyalty oaths other than traditional ones by government employes to support the Constitution of the United States.

ADA's national director, Leon Shull, speculates that the ADA draws attention because, "It's generally accepted that we don't have any personal axes to grind, and this gives weight to what we say."

The public relations director, Mrs. Page Wilson, says it carries weight because "the kind of people who join ADA and work to advance the liberal cause have a radiating influence — it's like throwing a stone in a pond and creating ripples.

Goldwater protested in 1962 that the White House was full of ADA'ers advising the late President John F. Kennedy.

"There are 31 members of the ADA there," Goldwater said. "I am worried about the extremists to the left who are in government."

"ADA," he said this summer, "is the only left-wing socialistic organization that I know of that operates in the present administration."

LOYALTY OATH

And: "ADA opposes loyalty oaths for federal employes. What is so downgrading about taking an oath of loyalty to this country? Oh, I'm glad I don't have a running mate who believes that."

Where Kennedy had three Cabinet members who were ADA members, Johnson has but one — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The other two of Kennedy's three, Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, are still in government, Ribicoff as a senator from Connecticut and Goldberg as a Supreme Court justice.

Relations between ADA and President Johnson used to be sour, but now they are sweet. Here are a couple of official ADA statements:

1960 — "Sen. Johnson, by his record in the field of civil rights and labor legislation, by his faithful representation of monopoly interests in the oil and gas and other fields, has become a symbol of compromise and political opportunism, and therefore has no fair claim to be the standard-bearer of a liberal Democratic party."

1964 — "Lyndon B. Johnson has superbly carried forward the ideals of John F. Kennedy and has demonstrated his full commitment to the liberal traditions of the Democratic party and the American people."

What happened?

The ADA answer is that in 1960 Johnson was a Texas senator and took his stands accordingly, but in 1964 he had become president — as he likes to put it himself — of all the people.

Johnson has sent two messages to ADA this year. The first, to a Roosevelt memorial gathering in January, said in part: "One of your hallmarks has been the capacity of your organization to see beyond the immediate. In so doing, you helped to create a climate of public acceptance for necessary solutions."

LBJ MESSAGE

The second Johnson message, to the ADA convention in May, declared: "Your cause has been the cause of liberal democracy. You have now endured, despite frequent premature burials by your critics, to see many of your ideas become policies, your policies become programs, and your programs become laws."

Roche, 41, is an easy-laughing but determined-talking man with apparently as much scorn for Miller as Miller has for the ADA.

The trouble with Miller, Roche said, is that "he's never been a member of a democratic organization, and is used to playing with a stacked deck."

Humphrey has said he does not agree with all of ADA's stands. For example, he said he favors a tougher policy toward Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba than the ADA has taken.

On Cuba, ADA said: "We believe that American interests (and the interests of the hemisphere and of peace) would be best served if the Cuban government could be persuaded to assume a position of genuine nonalignment and could, by giving guarantees of nonintervention in the affairs of its neighbors, qualify for readmission to the Organization of American States."

ITS ROLE in the Presidential election campaign as a center of controversy is nothing new for the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA.) The national director, Leon Shull, is seen at the Washington headquarters. Republican attacks have been aimed especially at Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey. He was a founder of the ADA in 1947, with others who had followed Franklin D. Roosevelt, and still is a member. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

BOOKS

Story Of South During The War

EMBATTLED CONFEDERATES. By Bell Irvin Wiley. Harper. $8.95.

A rich lode of information is contained within the covers of this volume. This is not an ordinary Civil War book, for it treats not of battles or even of statesmanship. This is a story of people, how they lived and the tools they used for fighting and living in 1861-1865.

The book is subtitled "An Illustrated History of Southerners at War." The "illustrated" part is the contribution of Hirst D. Milhollen, curator of photographs at the Library of Congress, and a right worthy contribution it is — photographs and drawings collected from many sources, and constituting an apt complement to the text. Wiley's narrative is unpretentious but fluent, characterized by the incisiveness and lean phrasing which is the hallmark of that distinguished historian.

Some chapters cover familiar ground: those which introduce the leaders of the governments and the armies, but even here there is an element of freshness in the research into the Confederate state legislatures; they "left much to be desired in antebellum times and the war brought marked deterioration."

Wiley has told us in other works much of what he tells here about the life of the private soldier; and the effects of inflation, the economic strains, are known even to casual students of the war period.

There remains a fascinating fabric, a chronicle in depth of life in the Confederacy. We meet Mrs. Polly Ray of North Carolina, who lost all of her seven sons in battle; we learn that religion felt the pinch of war in declines of church membership and attendance; that shortages of printers, paper and equipment caused tremendous casualties among newspapers (only eight survived of prewar's 73 in Mississippi); that public schools in some areas ceased to operate in 1861; that master machinists in government armories were paid $10 a day — at a time when butter was $15 a pound.

"Embattled Confederates" is superb history, in terms of the people who lived it.

Kind Of Anger Sharp Wits, Plot Turns

A KIND OF ANGER. By Eric Ambler. Atheneum. $4.95.

There ought to be aa better term than "suspense" for the sort of adventurous razzledazzle of which Ambler is a master, as in this case.

True, he makes use of all the suspense writer's devices — secret documents, cryptic telephone calls, cars racing to a remote rendezvous, flight and pursuit, the hovering gunmen, etc.

But his special skill lies in the dextrous rapidity with which he moves from one contest of sharp wits to another. His people think fast, his plot leaps forward into sharp twists.

The hero and narrator of this story is Piet Maas, a young Dutchman in France. Having been crossed in love, having gone bankrupt with his little highbrow magazine, he has made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide. Then he has wangled a job with the Paris bureau of an American weekly magazine.

Despite his inexperience, he is assigned to find and interview the "bikini girl," Lucia Bernardi. She is hot news because, as the mistress of a mysterious Iraqui named Ahmed Arbil, she was the sole witness to his murder in a Swiss villa. What the police don't know is that she has fled with some of Arbil's dossiers, which would be very valuable to certain people.

Of course Maas finds Lucia in the South of France. But after sending back his interview he disappears to take on the job of extricating her from danger. Not as a white knight.

Man's Improvement Cited

THE FUTURE OF MAN. By Pierre Teilhard de Chardin. Translated from the French by Norman Denny. Harper. $5.

Teilhard was the French Jesuit scholar and intellectual who moved from geology into pure research, and developed his highly individual philosophy in the thinking terms of a biologist. He called himself a geobiologist.

This is a companion volume to his "The Phenomenon of Man," and it is a remarkable concatenation of science, philosophy and religious mysticism, which the intellectual reader will find stimulating because it also — though not consciously — involves the intuition which is ascribed to poets. Teilhard was no ordinary mortal.

One of his main thesis is that the modern human being is not the end product of a hapless evolution, but a still evolving creature who will, and must, follow the coherent, predestined pressures of the cosmic life force to create in the future, by his own will, a race of ultrahumans.

On the way to that position he argues that evolution is Darwinian (selection of the fittest) only so far as Man; that with Man it becomes, in a new realm of superconsciousness, LaMarckian (inheritance of acquired characteristics). In short, that Man is, or is bound to become, the master of his own fate. His philosophy is based on an irreversibility of progress and the inevitability of a planetary order. He stands at the opposite pole from thread-end existentialism.

The book consists of essays and lectures, arranged in chronological order, which involve considerable repetition. But for the lay reader the repetitive process is an aid to understanding the many conceas which he advances. Like other philosophers, he uses esoteric terms and invests words of his own.

Through the maze of these intellectual symbols, there still shines a thinker's stout determination to wed the evershifting facts of science with tenets of faith. It is a dialogue of affirmation (in a century drenched with negation) from both the sanctuary and the laboratory; a valorous insistence that hope, standing two-legged on the rock of knowledge, will remain alive and eternal.

BROADWAY-BOUND

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP) — A leading member of the Shakespeare Festival acting company is to portray Aaron Burr in "All Honorable Men," a drama which reaches Broadway in December.

John Colicos, whose range here has included King Lear and Cyrano de Bergerac, was chosen for the Burr role some weeks after selection of George Grizzard to enact Alexander Hamilton in Joseph Kramm's play about the most famous duel in American history.

Twinkles Of Wit In Verse

MARRIAGE LINES. By Ogden Nash. Little, Brown. $3.95.

A SEIZURE OF LIMERICKS. By Conrad Aiken. Holt, Rinehart, $2.95.

Nash's verses, full of his characteristically outrageous rhymes, are subtitled "Notes of a Student Husband."

That is his way of saying that these verses were collected in celebration of his 33 years of conjugal life. And there is no small flick of the author's eyebrow in that word "Student."

For while some of these poems are like valentines and frosted confections, there are others which register the male's eternal bafflement at feminine vagaries. One of them is a darkly resigned acknowledgment of male frustration in the glowering presence of a shrew's unilateral argument — with a concluding line, "In real life it takes only one to make a quarrel."

Poet and novelist Aiken has produced some limericks that occasionally have the Nashian touch of moidered woids and contorted grammar, and all of them are lighter than air.

Not every meringue is fluffy, and there are items in each of these little books that fall uffly. But on the other mitt, there are frequent twinkles of wit.

Cheever Stories Show Our Society

THE BRIGADIER AND THE GOLF WIDOW. By John Cheever. Harper. $4.95.

Cheever works in strange vineyards and ferments a bitter wine.

We have here 16 magazine pieces. At a time when many writers are choosing their characters from among tramps, derelicts and beatniks, Cheever works at a different level — The blue ribbon slums of suburbia, exurbia and New York's Upper East Side.

They are the moral slums of country club drunks, adulterous commuters, mink - wearing crones, children shoved into the clutches of sitters and private schools, neurotically shaken corporation executives, overeducated females, snobbish spongers and the gin-soaked legions of well dressed double - crossers and double - crossed.

In a contrasting pace, he presents several overseas stories — a sorry widow in Rome, with a foolish adolescent son; a matron fleeing into the expatriate circuit of the jolly set, to escape a ludicrous, jeering publicity at home; a simple - minded Italian peasant girl who is brought into America's strange system of mores.

Cheever's short stories are in an entirely different key from his two Wapshot books, which are about as subtle as a pie in the face. Here he works in a calmer tone, a more sophisticated — and all the more deadly — web of blue notes.

Cheever is a left-handed moralist who turns disillusionment back upon itself; and like Goya in his last years, shows us the inner horrors which man has brought upon himself. This collection of skilled sketches demonstrates his mastery as an interpreter of the terrors within something we call modern society.

Capturing The Flash In Creation

THE ACT OF CREATION. By Arthur Koestler. Macmillan. $7.95.

In these days when nearly every layman seems to consider himself a do-it-yourself psychologist, it stands to reason that a wide range of readers — not just the professionals — should be interested in this volume.

Koestler's position is that behaviorism puts man into a straitjacket — even though it may be an elastic jacket — and reduces him to a conditioned robot.

He contends that the act of creation, whether accomplished by a scientist or an artist, involves certain phenomena of the conscious and unconscious mind that have patterns in common, which are shared by all levels of organic life.

The behaviorist school is right only to a certain point, he says and his theory begins where behaviorism leaves off.

Fortunately for the lay reader, Koestler has described his whole theory of the act of creation in nontechnical language, in the first 409 of these 751 pages. In the remainder, he uses more technical language to show "that phenomena analogous to creative originality can be found at all levels" of the living world.

The author is attempting a tremendous task, for he is seeking to capture the moment of truth, the flash of insight which marks both scientific discovery and artistic inspiration.

LSU Whips Kentucky, 27-7, For 5th Straight

Powerful McNeese Stops Northeast, 21-6, In GSC Contest

Moreau, Graves Spark Easy Win

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Two field goals by Doug Moreau and a 99-yard interception return by halfback White Graves rescued punchless Louisiana State Saturday night and fired the Tigers to a 27-7 Southeastern Conference victory over Kentucky.

Momentarily stunned when Kentucky's Rodger Bird flew 73 yards for a touchdown on the game's first scrimmage play, Louisiana State regrouped to tie the score on a 41-yard touchdown march and take a 10-7 lead on Moreau's 32-yard field goal in the second period.

It was primarily Graves and his Chinese bandit cohorts who kept LSU unbeaten as they blanketed Kentucky's passing combination of quarterback Rick Norton and end Rick Kestner.

The backbreaker came midway in the third period when Kentucky had taken over on Louisiana State's 9-yard line after a snap from center on a punting down soared far over kicker Jerry Brown's head.

On third down, Norton aimed a pass at fullback Mike McGraw, but Graves grabbed it on the one-yard line and set sail for the opposite end zone. Only Norton had a shot at him, and Graves shook him off easily.

That made it 17-7, and Moreau's second field goal—a 26-yarder late in the period—clinched it. The field goal was Moreau's sixth of the season.

Louisiana State's "go team" accounted for two touchdowns —the first on a one-yard hurdle by fullback Don Schwab. That with Moreau's conversion tied the score in the first period; and the second in the final minute when Billy Ezell ran 21 yards on a quarterback draw play.

The bandits contributed another key play just before the end of the first half, when halfback Mike Vincent intercepted another Norton pass on the LSU one-yard line to wreck a 65-yard Kentucky drive.

Sophomore halfback Gawain Dibetta was the mainspring of the 41-yard drive that netted LSU's first touchdown. He set it up with a 20-yard punt return, and contributed 20 more yards on a flareout pass from Ezell.

Tackle George Rice recovered a fumble on the Kentucky 18-yard line to set up Moreau's first field goal—the points that put the Tigers ahead to stay.

The Bandits limited Norton to seven completions in 119 attempts for 100 yards net for Kentucky—and they got 117 on their two interceptions of his passes. They also threw him for a net loss of 35 yards rushing.

Tally Three TD's In Second Period

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

LAKE CHARLES—McNeese's muscle men pushed, shoved and passed, for 21 points in one period here Saturday night but failed to shut out a determined bunch of Indians as the Cowboys evened their Gulf States Conference record at 1-1 with a 21-6 victory over Northeast.

Behind the rushing of fullback Dan Suire, halfback Charles Anastasio and quarterback Richard Guillory, the Cowboys collected all 21 markers in the second quarter.

Northeast, outmanned but determined, played beautiful defense sporadically and pushed across a last effort touchdown in the wanning minutes of the game.

The beefy Cowboys, who appeared to resemble the male counterparts of their nickname, got their winning margin on one yard runs by quarterback Dennis Trahan and Suire, and a 42 yard pass from quarterback George Haffner to end Paul Guidry. Trahan ran one PAT and kicked another extra point.

YARDSTICK	Northeast	McNeese

Pass (A-C)	15-7	13-7
Pass Intc. By	1	1
Punts	7-32.3	3-32.8

The Indians tallied after a 71 yard scoring drive with R. F. Wilson plunging over from the three late in the fourth. The PAT attempt failed.

Northeast began its scoring drive after putting a stop to another Cowboys drive with 4:03 left in the game when guard Steve Hidalgo recovered a fumble at the Indians 29. McNeese's Byron Thomas, tossed a 19 yard pass to end C. G. Babin, who leaped high to make the catch, and carried for a few yards before being swamped by several McNeese defenders, causing the fumble.

Tribe quarterback Bookie Shillcutt tried to pass on the first play following the recovery and then tried to run once before quarterback Johnny Garrison lobbed a 17 yard pass to Stanley Willson for a first down on the Indian's 48.

Garrison then marched the Indians in for the score with 55 seconds remaining. With a first and ten at the 48, fullback Ronnie Graham went off tackle for nine yards to the McNeese 43. Garrison then tossed to end Don McCrary for a first down at the 38.

After Garrison lost five yards, he heaved again to McCrary for eight more yards to the McNeese 14 yard line.

The Indian signal caller then ran for four before tossing to halfback Alton Thomas, for seven yards and a first down at the Cowboy three. Willson went over on the following play.

Shillcutt was back to kick the PAT but Garrison took the snap from center and attempted to pass for the two-point conversion, but the pass was high.

Suire was the game's leading rusher with 61 yards on 15 carries for the Cowboys with Anastasio taking 10 times for 45 yards and freshman fullback Gerald Breaux going 10 times for 30 yards.

Northeast was led in the rushing department by Garrison with 35 yards in 18 tries. Graham took the ball three times for 19 yards and fullback Bobby Scafidel carried six times for 13 yards.

The Cowboys struck with the first of their 21 points in the second quarter with quarterback Trahan plunging over from the one to cap a 46 yard drive which began when Richard Guillory intercepted a Shillcutt pass at the Northeast 46.

The clock showed 14:23 when the McNeese machine first scored and the Cowboys were on the Indians' one yard line at the end of the half.

The Cowboys went for a two point conversion after the first touchdown, but R. F. Wilson stopped Tony Ber short after he had taken in a pass from Gillory.

Northeast's outmanned Indians coughed up another touchdown on the next McNeese series after they were forced to punt from their own 38.

McNeese took the Indians's punt at its 22 and moved to the Northeast 15 in six plays, mainly on the strength of a 51 yard screen pass from Gillory to George Berger. Scafidel finally caught up with Berger at the 15. Three plays later McNeese picked up a first down at the Tribe two yard line and sent Suire over from the one after a penalty against the Indians moved the ball half the distance to the goal.

Trahan ran the PAT to give the Cowboys a 14-0 lead with 6:33 left in the quarter.

Both squads quickly swapped the ball with Northeast coming out on the short end of the field position. McNeese recovered a fumble Indian pitchout at the Redskin 37 yard line on the third play following McNeese's kickoff. The Indians got the ball back two plays later when R. F. Wilson intercepted a Trahan pass at the 16 yard line and returned it 10 yards.

Garrison was then thrown for a loss back to the 18 after picking up four on the first play and an illegal procedure penalty pushed the Tribe back into a punting situation at the 13 with third down and 23 needed.

McNeese took a fair catch at the Northeast 45 with Suire picking up three to the 42. Haffner tossed a long sidelines pass to Guidry on the second play for the third Cowboy score. Trahan kicked the PAT and 2:09 remained on the clock.

Wilson returned Guidry's kickoff 22 yards to the Northeast 29, but a 15 yard penalty, a gain on only one yard and two incomplete Shillcutt passes forced the Indians to punt. The Cowboys got the ball at the Indians 37 with 1:03 left and Haffner threw one incomplete and one to Slocum for eight yards. He then picked up two yards running for a first down before throwing a 26 yard pass to Ken Vizier that carried to the Indian one yard line with :11 remaining on the clock. The Indians held for one running play and time then ran out.

In one of the Indians' brighter defensive moments the Tribe put a halter on a drive which carried McNeese to the Indians six yard line about midway in the third period.

With the exception of one pass in the drive the Cowboys marched 64 yards on the ground before the Indians held. On the crucial play from their own six, Indians Thomas Eddleman and Ronnie Sumter combined to throw Trahan for a loss of three yards.

The Cowboy drive which was stopped was the only serious threat of the third period, which was high lighted by hard knocking defensive play by both teams.

The loss is the fourth straight for Dixie White's Indians and their second Gulf States Conference defeat. McNeese has now handed Coach Les DeVall his 50th win in seven years at the Cowboy school. McNeese is 3-1 for the season.

The Cowboys' bull-like offense collected 20 first downs and allowed the Indians only half as many. McNeese rushed for 207 yards and passed for 176, including the passes which went for a touchdown and moved to the Indians one yard stripe.

Northeast found enough holes in the Cowboy defense to pick up 79 yards on the ground and 70 through the air.

Score by quarters:
Northeast	0	0	0	6—6
McNeese	0	21	0	0—21

Scoring:
MCN — Dennis Trahan, 1 yard run, Pass fail.
MCN—Dan Squire, 1 yard run, Trahan run.
MCN—Paul Guidry, 42 yard pass from George Haffner, Trahan kick.
NE— R. F. Wilson, 3 yard run, Pass fail.

EXTRA POINT IS DIFFERENCE

Arkansas Hogs Stun Mighty Texas, 14-13

AUSTIN (UPI)—The giant-killing Arkansas Razorbacks stunned top-ranked Texas 14-13 Saturday night, snapping the defending national champion Longhorns' winning streak at 15 in a row.

Tom McKnelly, the Arkansas kicking specialist, provided what proved to be the difference when he successfully converted after both Razorback touchdowns.

Texas scored with less than 2 minutes to play and tried for a 2-point conversion and a victory. But quarterback Marvin Kristynik's pass was batted away and the Razorbacks had won.

The fleet-footed Razorbacks put their touchdowns on the scoreboard with two big plays —an 81-yard punt return for a score by Kenny Hatfield and a 34-yard clutch third-down pass from quarterback Freddie Marshall to end Bobby Crockett.

The Razorbacks, who now move into the spotlight as the favorite to win the Southwest Conference crown, chalked up their fifth straight win of the year without a loss. Arkansas was ranked 10th nationally before the game.

Texas was held scoreless until the fourth period. Wingback Phil Harris went over from the two to climax a 46-yard drive for the first touchdown and fullback Ernie Koy scored the second from the one to end a 70-yard last-gasp Texas drive.

It was after Koy's touchdown that Coach Darrell Royal, preferring the possibility of a loss to a 14-14 tie, sent in instructions to go for the two point conversion.

Texas' ace placekicker David Conway stayed on the bench. Koy came out and was replaced by Tom Stockton. Kristynik took the snap and sent tailback Hix Green to the right for a pass, but the ball was batted to the ground.

Arkansas held onto the ball until the clock ran out the final 1:27 minutes.

It was the first time since 1960 that Arkansas had defeated Texas. That score, too, was by one point—24-23.

Texas went through the 1963 season undefeated, was crowned national champions and beat Navy 28-6 in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1. The last previous time they lost was to Louisiana State 13-0 in the 1963 Cotton Bowl.

The Longhorns opened the 1964 season by blanking Tulane 31-0, and it looked as if it would be 1963 all over again. Texas went on to down Texas Tech next 23-0, then beat Army 17-6 and Oklahoma 28-0 for its 15th straight win.

But the Razorbacks came to Austin with something in mind —to beat Texas—and they did in the only thing that counts—the final score.

Texas, however, dominated the statistics.

Virginia Upsets Army's Cadets By 35-14 Score

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Incredible Virginia, turning savage on defense, converted five Army mistakes into points Saturday and shot down the blundering Cadets 35-14 in a major football upset.

Stunned when Army's Rollie Stichweh scooped up a fumble on the game's first play from scrimmage and ran 74 yards for a touchdown, the twice-beaten Cavaliers pulled themselves together and never gave the Cadets another chance.

Twenty of their points before an hysterical crowd of 26,500 came in the second period when they manufactured touchdowns from a pass interception, a poor army punt, and a bad snap from center on another attempted kick.

Sophomore Carroll Jarvis accounted for two of the Virginia scores on a run of two yards and a 10-yard pass from Tom Hodges. But on this dark afternoon under lowering skies it was defense that won for the Cavaliers, never before this season distinguished for their feats in this department.

Twice Virginia stopped Army inside its 20, and after Stichweh's six-point dash moments after the opening kickoff, the Cadets crossed the midfield stripe into Virginia territory only three times—once after recovering a fumble.

Louisiana Tech Rolls To Victory

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech, held scoreless during the first half, exploded for 19 points after intermission to trample the Rebels of Arlington State, 19-7, before a capacity crowd at Tech Stadium here Saturday night.

The Canines now boast an unblemished 5-0 slate, with victories over Louisiana College, McNeese State, East Texas State, Southwestern, and Arlington State.

With the win, Tech extended its victories over the Arlington crew to three wins against one setback. The Rebs now have a 1-3-1 record.

Although the Canines led by a wide margin in statistics at intermission, they were unable to score on five drives crossing midfield, but made up for it in a wild second half.

Midway into the third period, Rebel punter Al Smith faded back to kick on the Arlington State 25 but a high pass from center fell into the endzone and Tech's Speedy Campbell and Joe Peace bolted through to tackle Smith for a safety. Tech went out in front 2-0 with 8:24 left in the third quarter.

The Rebs punted to the Techsters after the touchback and Tech was on the move once more. Billy Laird hit David Lee for passes of 38 and 16 yards. Tommy Linder turned up 24 yards on three tries and then bolted over for the TD on a one yard plunge. Campbell's kick was true and the Bulldogs led 9-0.

Tech got another drive started minutes later, this time traveling from Arlington's 30 yard line to the 22 where on fourth down Campbell booted a 32 yard field goal to give Tech a 12-0 margin with 14:55 left.

Arlington's lone score came early in the fourth quarter in the form of a Rebel 80 yard record breaking pass from quarterback Jim Brooks to Jackie Miller. Saust Parker kicked the extra point.

With only a few minutes left in the contest, Tech drove 87 yards with Alden Reeves hitting paydirt on a five yard scamper. Campbell's kick was good again and the Canines led 19-7.

Reeves led the Bulldog ground gainers with 43 yards on 17 tries. He was followed by Gerald McDowell with 38 yards on 15 tries and Tommy Linder with 18 yards on eight carries.

Bellamy Carries Bullets To Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Walt Bellamy, with assistance from Bailey Howell and Don Ohl, paced the Baltimore Bullets to a 121-101 victory over the San Francisco Warriors Saturday night in a National Basketball Association opener.

Bellamy scored 30 points although he sat out most of the final period after twisting his ankle trying for a rebound. Howell and Ohl, acquired in a trade with the Detroit Pistons, scored 26 and 24 points respectively for the Bullets.

Northwestern Falls

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Ernie Kellermann threw touchdown passes of 49 and 54 yards Saturday in leading Miami of Ohio to a major 28-27 upset of Northwestern.

Kellermann turned the tide in the second quarter when he hit John Erisman with a 54-yard touchdown pass to put the Redskins ahead 19-13. Kellermann then held a faked kick, got up and ran for two points, giving the Redskins a 21-13 halftime

Baylor Romps To Easy Victory Over Texas Tech

WACO (UPI)—Baylor University, helped along by Texas Tech's mistakes, penalties and a charging fullback named Tom Davies, beat Texas Tech 28-10 Saturday night for its first victory of the season.

Davies scored two touchdowns and kicked four extra points. In addition to having the superior offense, Baylor also bottled up Tech's running aces—halfback Donny Anderson and fullback Jim Zanios.

Baylor scored early in the first period but Tech came back quickly and before a crowd of 22,000 evened the score, then and went ahead 10-7 on a field goal in the second quarter.

But Baylor got the ball when Anderson, trying to kick from his own 10, took a bad pass from center and was brought down on his own three.

Davies drove the three yards in two tries and kicked the extra point to put Baylor ahead to stay.

The 44th annual IC4A indoor track championships will be held in New York's Madison Square Garden March 6, 1965.

Villanova Tops Delaware, 34-0

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Villanova's Dick Sernyak scored touchdowns on runs of four and 50 yards and the unbeaten Wildcats continued their explosive play, both offensively and defensively, in rolling over Delaware 34-0 Saturday.

The Wildcats, now 5-0, took control of the game at the outset and after some brief skirmishes scored their first touchdown as Dave Connell hit John McDonnel with a five-yard pass in the first quarter.

Davidson Loses To Chamberlain By 26-12 Margin

PORT GIBSON, Miss. (Special) — Chamberlain Hunt Military Academy scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to take a 26-12 victory over the Davidson Warriors of St. Joseph here Saturday night.

CHMA had taken a 12-0 halftime lead before the visiting Warriors tied it up in the fatal fourth. The first touchdown of the game came on a 70 yard pass play from Jim Person, who scored two touchdowns and passed for two, to Al Loftin. The pass for the extra point failed.

The hosts scored their second marker on a one yard plunge by Person, capping a 60 yard drive. The kick failed.

After the halftime break, St. Joseph came back to knot the ball game, 12-12. The visitors first marker came on a four yard plunge by Jim Crigler. The run for the PAT failed.

The Warriors touchdown that tied the game up early in the fourth period came on a seven yard run by Earl Redwine, to end a 60 yard drive. The run for the PAT failed again.

But CHMA came back with last stanza scores, the first coming by a six yard run by Person. Person ran the PAT to make the score 19-12.

The last marker came on a 60 yard aerial to Larry Pankey of West Monroe from Person. Person kicked the extra point to account for all the points in the game.

Princeton Trips Red Raiders, 9-0

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Princeton defeated Colgate 9-0 in a tight defensive football game in Palmer Stadium Saturday to remain undefeated in four games. The game was played on a damp field before 20,000 fans.

The Tigers scored all their points in the second period on a fumble recovery and a short field goal.

Princeton drove from its own 14-yard line to the Colgate 45 but was forced to punt as the Red Raiders defense stiffened.

On the following play, halfback Tom Carpenter of Colgate fumbled a handoff from his quarterback, Buford Platt. Stan Maliszewski, the guard and a defensive stand out for Princeton all year, picked off the ball in midair and raced six yards into the end zone.

Griese Sparkles In Michigan Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Purdue quarterback Bob Griese passed for two touchdowns and the defense contained Michigan's attack as the Boilermakers upset the fifth-ranked Wolverines 21-20 Saturday.

Michigan gambled for two points and a possible win after Bob Timberlake went 54 yards for a fourth quarter touchdown. Timberlake was caught short of the goal line.

Griese passed 66 yards to Jim Morel late in the first period and hit Randy Minniear on a three-yard scoring toss in the third quarter for the final Purdue touchdown.

Fred Hansen Winner In Olympic Pole Vault

TOKYO (AP) — America's talented field men were set to battle for more gold medals today after one of the most dramatic U.S. victories in Olympic history—Fred Hansen's last-gasp leap in the pole vault that carried him over the bar long after the sun had set at the halfway point of the Tokyo Games.

Hammer thrower Hal Connolly and broad jumper Ralph Boston were expected to meet stiff competition in their attempt to add to America's ever-increasing medal total. But neither event was expected to match the tense struggle that developed in the pole vault.

The lights were on in National Stadium and nine long, tedious hours had passed since Hansen stepped on the infield.

Dallas Long of Los Angeles had won America's 500th medal in Olympic competition by taking the shot put, Henry Carr of Cleveland had won the 200-meter dash and Donna de Varona of Santa Clara, Calif., had produced another American swimming victory.

Now Hansen had one chance left. He had played a strategic battle with Germany's Wolfgang Reinhardt—the only other vaulter left—and passed when the bar went to 16 feet, 6¾ inches because he had fewer misses.

Reinhardt, however, cleared 16-6¾ and as the bar was lifted to 16-8¾, the American from Cuero, Tex., had to go over or lose. He missed his first two tries, then came flashing down the runway on a final try, arched his body high over the bar and made it.

Reinhardt couldn't, and the United States had run its medal total to 52—23 gold, 15 silver and 14 bronze. Russia, which won six medals on the day to 10 for the Americans, has 33, including 11 gold.

Long set an Olympic record in the shot put with a heave of 66-8½, edging teammate Randy Matson of Pampa, Tex. Matson had a top toss of 66-3¼ and veteran Parry O'Brien of Encino, Calif., just missed the bronze by finishing fourth at 62-11¾.

Carr also got his stiffest competition from a teammate, beating Paul Drayton of Cleveland to the wire in an Olympic record clocking of 20.3. And Miss De Varona led a 1-2-3 American sweep in the women's 400-meter individual medley.

The 17-year-old California schoolgirl bettered her own Olympic record as she swam the four different strokes in 5:18.7. Sharon Finneran of San Gabriel, Calif., was second in 5:24.1 and Martha Randall of Wayne, Pa., third in 5:24.2.

The only other U.S. medals on the day came from a second-place finish by John Nelson in the men's 1,500-meter freestyle won by Australia's Bob Windle, and a third-place by Bill Morris of Russell, Kan., in clay pigeon shooting.

Windle splashed to an Olympic record 17:01.7 in the 1,500, as the first cracks began to show in the U.S. men's swimming team. Nelson, of Pompano Beach, Fla., finished in 17:03 but world record-holder Roy Saari of El Segundo, Calif., finished a distant seventh in 17:29.2.

And America's high divers also were in jeopardy of finishing well down on the list. Don Webster of Santa Ana, Calif., was sixth; Tom Gompf of Dayton, Ohio, seventh and Lou Vitucci of Hollywood, Fla., 19th with only three dives remaining.

Morris, a 25-year-old Army lieutenant, hit 194 out of a possible 200 targets. Ennio Matterelli of Italy took the gold medal with an Olympic record score of 198.

Russia added two gold medals as Irina Press set a world record of 5,245 points in the five-event women's pentathlon, and middle heavyweight weightlifter Vadimir Golovanov hoisted a world record 1,072.5 pounds.

In the other gold medal events, Gaston Roelants of Belgium won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in an Olympic record 8:30.8; Australia's Betty Cuthbert bettered the Olympic mark with a 52.0 in the women's 400-meter dash; Hiri Daller of Czechoslovakia won the individual pursuit cycling title and Hungary captured the women's foil team fencing title.

The United States did poorly in those events, but the basketball team made it 44 consecutive victories in Olympic competition with a 74-65 triumph over Poland and a host of Americans stormed ahead in qualifying for future track and swimming events.

Both John Pennel of Miami, a 17-foot vaulter, and Bill Pemelton of Merecedes, Tex., went out when the pole vault bar went to 15-11. George Young of Casa Grande, Ariz., the lone remaining American in the steeplechase, faded badly on the last lap and finished fifth in 8:38.2.

Pat Winslow, the U.S. entry in the women's pentathlon, finished seventh; Bill March of York, Pa., was fourth in the middle heavyweight weightlifting and in events like cycling and the women's 400-meter run the United States was eliminated before the finals.

The basketball team had little difficult subduring Brazil's 1963 world champions. Lucious Jackson of Pan American College was the leading scorer with 17 point as the United States and Russia remained tied with six victories each. The Soviet team defeated Poland 74-65.

Connolly, the 1956 gold medalist from Culver City, Calif., took one throw in the qualifying round, heaved the hammer 221-1½ and passed the rest of his throws. Ed Burke of San Jose Calif., made it at 213-½ and Al Hall of Greenfield, Mass., at 211.

They will, however, get a battle from Hungary's Gyula Zsivotzy, who set an Olympic record at 223-¾. The broad jumpers—Boston, of Covina, Calif.; Gayle Hopkins of Davenport, Iowa, and Phil Shinnick of Seattle—must contend withh Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan.

All three Americans also qualified for today's 110-meter hurdle windup. Hayes Jones of Detroit and Blaine Lindgren of Salt Lake City were timed in 14.2 and Willie Davenport of Warren, Ohio, in 14.4.

The full complement of three also advanced through heats in the 1,500-meter and 400-meter runs.

im Ryun of Wichita, Kan., led the advance in the 1,500 with a 3:44.4 clocking. Dyrol Burleson of Cottage Grove, Ore., qualified in 3:45.6 and Tom O'Hara of Chicago in 3:46.7.

Ollan Cassell of Nutley, N.J., and Ulis Williams of Compton, Calif., made the 400 semifinals in 46.2 and Mike Larrabee of Fillmore, Calif., came through in 46.5.

Carl Robie of Drexel Hill, Pa., set an Olympic record of 2:09.3 in qualifying for the 200-meter butterfly final. Phil Riker of Paterson, N.J., was timed in 2:09.9 and Fred Schmidt of Northbrook, Ill., in 2:11.5.

Marilyn Ramenofsky of Phoenix, Ariz., bettered the Olympic record in the women's 400-meter freestyle heats with a time of 4:47.7. Ginny Duenkel of West Orange, N.J., advanced in 4:48.6 and Terri Stickles of San Mateo, Calif., in 4:49.3.

Another Olympic record fell to the U.S. men's 800-meter freestyle relay team with a 8:09.0 in their heat. The team was made up of Bill Mettler, Mesa, Ariz.; Dave Lyons, Kenilworth, Ill.; Michael Wall, San Jose, Calif., and Ed Townsend, Santa Clara, Calif.

U. S. Swimmers

TOKYO (AP) — Ginny Duenkel, a New Jersey schoolgirl and veteran diver Bob Webster led the United States' powerful swimming team through a final day of domination in the Tokyo Olympic Games today as the Yanks' growing horde of Olympic medals reached 60.

With two events remaining on today's final day of swimming competition, the United States has dominated the sport as no nation ever has before.

In 20 swimming and diving events, the U.S. has won 14. Of a possible 56 medals, the U.S. has gained 35.

In all, the U.S. has won 25 gold medals, 18 silver and 17 bronze. Russia, which has yet to start competition in some of its strongest events, such as gymnastics, has 33 medals, 11 of them gold.

HAD CONFIDENCE

Wasn't A Gamble, Says Vault Champ

TOKYO (AP) — "I didn't consider it a gamble—I knew I could make it," a confident Fred Hansen said Saturday night after winning the Olympic pole vault with a daring last-gasp effort of 16 feet, 8¾ inches.

"I felt like I had to come through for my country."

America's 58-year dominance of the event in the Olympics hung by a slender thread when Germany's Wolfgang Reinhardt cleared 16-7, a height that Hansen passed, and the black-haired, boyish American missed on his first two tries at the greater height.

There was one jump left for Hansen, a 23-year-old student at Rice University.

The vaulters had been jumping since 1 p.m., and now it was 9½ hours later on a long, exhausting day. About 10,000 fans remained in the stands to see the drama under the arc lights.

Dead-tired and hungry, Hansen, the world record-holder at 17-4, grabbed his fiber-glass pole and sped down the runway.

High in the air, Hansen soared and over the bar he went—with about six inches to spare.

Now the pressure was on the blond, 21-year-old German, and he took a deep swallow and made the bid.

He didn't have it. He knocked over the bar going up and the contest was over—America had another gold.

Many people thought that Hansen took an unnecessary gamble in passing the bar at 16-7.

"I don't think it was a gamble at all," the good-looking youngster from Cuero, Tex., said. "The only gamble I took was in missing my first two tries at 16-8¾.

"I wasn't getting my feet back on those jumps. I was reaching the height all right, but I was hitting the pole going up.

"On that last jump, I concentrated on getting my feet back—and it worked."

The crowd wanted Hansen to try the next neight of 16-10, but he declined.

"I hated to disappoint them," the Texan said, "but I was too tired."

It was an exhausting, frustrating day for all the pole vaulters, lasting long past normal dinner time.

"It is ridiculous to let a vault last this long," Hansen said afterward. "I hope the Olympic people do something about it before the next Olympics. They should start at a higher height or cut the number of finalists."

During the long competition Hansen sucked a few oranges for nourishment and nibbled on a sandwich.

"Now I think I'll have a big fat steak," he said.

Two other Americans—John Pennel and Bill Pemelton—lost out just under 16 feet.

Pennel was bothered by a pinched nerve in his back which he said, "stabbed me at every step."

Pemelton said, "I was just lousy — I couldn't concentrate."

TEXAS TAILBACK Ernie Koy (23) goes through an opening in the Arkansas line and gains four yards in the second quarter of the game in Austin Saturday night. Coming in to make the tackle is safetyman Harry Jones (23) of Arkansas. (AP Wirephoto)

YOGI'S REPLACEMENT?

Keane Might Be Next Yank Boss

NEW YORK (AP) — At noon on next Tuesday, Oct. 20, at a top midtown hotel, the New York Yankees will present their new manager to a mammoth press conference.

The new manager will be Johnny Keane.

This was told to The Associated Press Saturday by a person close to the American League champions.

The naming of Keane to succeed the ousted Yogi Berra is no eleventh-hour decision although the gray-haired Texan did not announce his resignation as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals until the day after they won the World Series, which ended Thursday.

The decision to hire Keane as the third Yankeee manager since Casey Stengel was fired in 1960 was made Sept. 25. Three days later Keane had his wife, Lela, wrote a letter of resignation to Cardinal owner August A. Busch Jr. It was not handed to him until three weeks later, on Friday.

The Yankees' decision to fire Berra was made early in September. The morale of the club was then at a low point. The team had been split into two factions, some players openly opposing Berra, others supporting him. Two prominent regulars even threatened to quit if Berra was returned as manager in 1965.

Those who opposed Berra felt that he was not "smart" enough to handle men, that he had no control over the players and that he acted indecisively on the bench.

One player, with no apparent admiration for Berra's baseball strategy and tactics, declared openly: "The Yankees are like the great race horse, Kelso, ridden by an apprentice jockey."

The situation became so tense that General Manager Ralph Houk decided to make a road trip with the club in order to get a first-hand view. After personal observation and private talks with several of the players, he became convinced that a change was necessary.

That was in late August when the Yankees had fallen six games behind the leaders. They rallied to win the pennant but lost the World Series to the Cardinals in seven games.

Houk and the club president, Dan Topping, had their eye on Keane, along with Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants, since mid - August when they first entertained thoughts of dismissing Berra. They obtained approval from Busch and Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, to speak with Keane and Dark and held a number of conversations with both in the ensuing weeks, through a trusted emissary.

When Keane dictated the now-famous resignation letter to his wife, he had good reason to believe he had the Yankee managing job. This feeling was strengthened moments after his Cardinals had won the World Series. Houk's congratulatory words, whispered into Keane's ear in the Cardinal clubhouse were: "Attaway, podnah."

This was music to the ears of Keane, who resented the meddling of the Cardinal front office and the rumors, without any denials, that he was on the way out as manager and would be replaced by Leo Durocher.

So when the grim-jawed gamecock walked into Busch's inner sanctum Friday and told Busch what to do with the job, he felt he was in a solid position.

"I'm still looking for a job," he said before departing for home in Houston. "I don't want a coaching job, I want to manage. I'll have to sit and wait to see if anyone wants me."

He won't have to wait long and he knows it.

In the meantime, the big question in St. Louis is who will succeed Keane as manager of the Cardinals.

Busch, totally unprepared for Keane's resignation, said he has had no time to consider a successor. He named a six-man committee, including General Manager Bob Howsam and vice-president Stan Musial, to screen candidates. The choice most likely will be trimmed down to two, Durocher and Charley Metro, currently a Chicago White Sox scout.

Durocher resigned as coach of the Los Angeles Dodgers when the season ended, presumably to be in position to accept a managerial offer.

Busch denied he had ever offered Durocher the Cardinal job. That is true. Leo was contacted a month ago by Branch Rickey, listed as a club consultant.

Howsam, who became general manager after Bing Devine was fired in mid-August, is a strong admirer of Metro, who managed two American Association pennant winners for him at Denver.

Howsam made a promise to Metro—that Charley would manage for him in the majors some day provided that he was ever in position to call the shots.

Wildcats Romp Past Gamecocks In 41-9 Victory

PINEVILLE, La. (AP)—Quarterback Phil Troutman passed for four touchdowns as Louisiana College defeated Jacksonville College 41-9 Saturday night.

Troutman added another TD on a 7-yard run.

Joe Haynie, a Louisiana College transfer to Jacksonville State, scored the visitors' only touchdown on a two yard run in the first quarter.

Dennis Duncan hauled down passes of 69 and 36 yards to lead the Wildcat scoring. Other touchdown passes were caught by James Davis, a 17 yarder, and Stan Douglas on a 72-yarder.

Carroll Hymel scored the final touchdown on a five yard run after he replaced Troutman in the last minute of the third period. He also was tackled trying to pass out of his own end zone for a safety in the final minute of the game.

David Corley was successful on five of six conversions to round out Louisiana College scoring. The win was the first for the Cats in four games. The Gamecocks now have a 2-3 record.

California Tops Navy's Middies By 27-13 Margin

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — California quarterback Craig Mortson fired two touchdown passes and smashed over for another while leading the Bears to a 27-13 comeback victory over the Middies of Navy Saturday.

After the visitors took a 5-0 first quarter lead on a field goal and safety, Morton regrouped his charges for an 87-yard second quarter march and 6-5 halftime.

Morton scored the touchdown himself.

Then in a third quarter explosion, the 6-foot, 4-inch quarterback threw passes of 18 and 16 yards to Jerry Mosher and Tom Blanchfield, and Jim Hunt hit Jerry Bradley with a 40-yard scoring toss, and Blanchfield booted all three conversions.

Navy's All-America Roger Staubach, hampered by his ankle injury, saw limited action. The alert Bears intercepted three of his passes—the most he has given up in a single game.

Notre Dame Tops UCLA For 4th Straight Triumph

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — John Huarte passed for two touchdowns as fourth-ranked Notre Dame flashed a powerful blend of air and ground power and whipped UCLA 24-0 Saturday.

The unbeaten fighting Irish, capturing their fourth victory, drove 63 yards in 11 running plays to score the first time they got the ball.

They turned a pass interception into another touchdown in the second period for a 12-0 halftime lead.

Then they iced it in the third by converting two of four recovered Larry Zeno fumbles into touchdowns.

Bill Wolski's 19-yard smashed keyed the first scoring drive, capped by Wolski's one-yard crash.

The Bruins, absorbing their second straight trouncing after opening with three triumphs, reached beyond midfield only twice. The first was midway in the second quarter when Zeno hit Bill Didonato for 19 yards and Mike Haffner for 16 in reaching the Irish 31.

Then another toss was stolen by Tony Carey. The Irish erupted for an 80-yard scoring thrust in five plays. Huarte rifled a 37-yard TD shot to Phil Sheridan.

At the start of the third, Tom Longo captured Zeno's bobble on the UCLA 16 and after one play failed to gain, Huarte speared Jack Snow for a touchdown.

Later, Paul Costa pounced on a Zeno fumble on the UCLA 15. Three plays later, Joe Farrell ripped across from the one.

Two other Zeno fumbles were recovered around midfield before the quarter closed. In each case passes by Huarte were stolen—by Bill Richardson and Jim Miller—to check threats.

The Irish missed conversions after each touchdown and also failed on Ken Ivan's 38-yard field goal attempt early in the second quarter. Three of the conversion attempts were for two-pointers.

Blue Devils Win

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke took a giant step toward the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown Saturday by trouncing North Carolina State 35-3 behind a withering ground attack and firm defense.

It was the first conference loss for State, which is 3-1 in the ACC and 3-2 over-all, and left Duke undefeated with 3-0-1 record, all in league play.

WITH BALANCED ATTACK

Mississippi State Romps Easily By Southern, 48-7

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State's vicious line play and perfectly balanced attack smashed unbeaten Southern Mississippi 48-7 Saturday.

State drove for touchdowns four of the six times it had the ball in the first half. Southern's line was outplayed from start to finish and the backs were unable to cope with the State offense.

The Maroons scored five times on runs and twice on passes. They played Southern on equal terms in the fourth period when the MSU squad included players whose names did not even appear on the program.

Southern had its moment of glory in the first quarter when halfback Herman Hall took a kickoff behind the goal line, got tremendous blocking and ran 100 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown.

Halfback Dan Bland scored the first and final touchdowns for State. End Tommy Inman got two on passes from quarterback Ashby Cook to lead MSU.

State's superiority was reflected by the 210 yard advantage in the statistics. The Maroons led 293 to 117 in rushing and 154 to 120 in passing.

MSU drove 91 yards in nine plays for its first touchdown with Bland plunging the final two.

A long punt return and a 15-yard penalty set up a 36-yard march for the second touchdown, which came on halfback Billy Cook's three-yard slant.

On the next series, Ashby Cook passed 58 yards to Inman on the first play after a Southern punt.

Following Southern's only touchdown late in the first period, State drove 80 yards and scored on big fullback Hoyle Granger's three-yard sweep.

Cook passed 22 yards to Inman to cap a 74-yard march, reserve fullback Noel Brock plowed 12 yards and Bland cracked tackle for eight to wrap up State's scoring in the third period.

The bruising Granger was the game's top runner with 96 yards on nine carries. Teammate Buddy Hodges had 73 yards on eight efforts.

Reserve halfback Clyde Dowd led Southern with 45 yards on seven tries, largely late in the game against State reserves.

Cook completed 4 of 7 passes for 121 yards to lead State's air game. Starter Vic Purvis of Southern hit on 6 of 110 for 58 and reserve Mike McCellan 7 of 12 for 62.

ON 4TH PERIOD TD

Engineers Rally To Edge Auburn

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Quarterback Jerry Priestley rifled four last period passes to end Mike Fortier, the last for a toachdown, Saturday to pull 8th-ranked Georgia Tech to a 7-3 victory over Auburn.

Auburn scored three points on Don Lewis' 28-yard field goal in the second period and it seemed the Tigers would pull a mild upset.

However, in the fourth period, starting quarterback Bruce Fischer was injured on a keeper from his own 20 and in came Priestley.

Priestly directed the Yellow Jackets the next 11 plays from his 28. A key play was his pass to Gary Williams from the 37 to the 48.

Then came the first of four deadly passes to Fortier. He snared it on the Auburn 48, and two plays later caught another pass on the 12.

Johnny Gresham lost a yard, and Priestley went to the air again, finding Fortier on the 8. Two plays later from the six Priestley threw to the left into the end zone and Fortier cut in front of the Auburn defender to snare the pass.

Bunky Henry kicked the extra point.

The Tigers, two-point underdogs, dominated the first half. Tech could make only one first down, and Auburn came within inches of scoring a touchdown.

With seconds remaining in the first half, sophomore quarterback Joe Campbell, spelling ailing Jimmy Sidle, passed from the Tech 6 to Tucker Frederickson on the one-foot line. Frederickson tried to scramble over the goal line and many of the 57,000 fans thought he did. The Tigers couldn't get another play off before the half ended.

New York Jets Topple Houston On Interception

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Baird's clutch interception in the closing minutes stopped the aroused Houston Oilers' final comeback drive and protected the New York Jets' 24-21 American Football League victory Saturday night.

Dick Wood's passing and rookie Matt Snell's fine running led the Jets to a 24-0 halftime advantage that proved barely enough. Wood passed for two touchdowns and scored once while Snell wound up the game with 180 yards in 31 carries.

The Oilers came alive in the second half on the passing of 37-year-old George Blanda and a 40-yard scoring run by Charlie Tolar. Blanda threw for two touchdowns and had one final shot with 2:33 to go, but Baird picked off his last pass on the Jet 45.

The Jets cashed in four of the first five times they had the ball. Snell led a ground attack the first time and Wood capped the advance with a 24-yard strike to Don Maynard.

A second-quarter thrust was blunted by a five-yard penalty from the Houston one and the Jets settled for Jim Turner's 12-yard field goal.

Lakers Defeat Knicks, 113-109, In NBA Opener

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West scored 35 points and Elgin Baylor 34 as the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the New York Knickerbockers 113-109 Saturday night in their National Basketball Association opener.

Johnny Green, with 20 points, and rookie Howie Komives with 19, were high men for the Knicks.

A crowd of 12,584, largest opening night crowd in Madison Square Garden since 1959, saw the Lakers bounce back from an 11-point deficit after first blowing a 14-point first half lead.

New York trailed 28-19 at the end of the first quarter and 39-25 a little later. However, Komives and Willis Reed, 6-10 rookie center, paced a 17-1 tear which led to a 59-50 Knick halftime advantage.

The margin grew to 75-64 before West and Baylor fought Los Angeles to a 108-105 lead with 1:10 remaining. Baylor and West free throws offset closing baskets by Johnny Egan.

Abilene Falls

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Quarterback Joe Rudolph hit teammate Chuck McElligott with a 35-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter Saturday, breaking a 14-14 deadlock and giving the University of Dayton flyers a 21-14 victory over stubborn Abilene Christian.

TCU In First Victory, 14-9 Over Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Junior quarterback Kent Nix Saturday led Texas Christian to its first 1964 victory, a 14-9 decision over winless Texas A&M.

Coach Abe Martin's Horned Frogs put two touchdowns on the board in the first half on a 26-yard pass from Nix to wingback Bobby Sanders and a fumble that TCU sophomore linebacker Joe Nayfa covered in the Aggie end zone.

A&M did all its scoring in the third quarter with a safety and a 10-yard roll out touchdown by second-string quarterback Eddie McKaughan that cappped a 52-yard drive.

The Aggies were celebrating the 25th anniversary of their 1939 national championship, but the Horned Frogs left them little more than memories of better days.

The Aggies received a serious blow when senior quarterback Dan McIlhany, the Southwest Conference's leading passer, went out early in the second period with an injured knee.

TCU scored on its first possession with less than three minutes gone in the ball game. End Joe Ball intercepted a McIlhany pass on the Aggie 39, and two plays later Nix hit Sanders, who was wide open, with a 27-yard toss. Sophomore kicking specialist Bruce Alford added the first of two successful extra points.

In the second quarter, Aggie junior Phil Scoggin was back to punt on his own 5. He fumbled a low pass from center, tried to run and then tried to lateral. The ball bounced off TCU player into the end zone, where Nayfa recovered.

The Aggies' sophomore tackle Harvey Ermis broke into the scoring column for A&M by tackling TCU halfback Jim Fauver in the end zone after Fauver took a wild pitchout from second-string quarterback Randy Howard in the third quarter.

Clemson Rolls To 21-2 Victory Over Deacons

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Halfback Hal Davis ran 40 yards for a Clemson touchdown and the Tigers picked up two more scores with the help of Wake Forest's ineffective kicking for a 21-2 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory Saturday.

Clemson broke a three-game losing streak and extended Wake Forest's string to three with virtually no help from its two leading ball carriers. Halfback Hugh Mauldin rested a pulled muscle and was out of action. Fullback Pat Crain left the game with a severe charley-horse in the first period.

The victory gave Clemson a 1-1 conference record against Wake Forest's 1-2.

Clemson took a 7-2 lead in a weird second quarter. The Tigers scored when a Wake Forest third down quick-kick attempt by Wayne Welborn from his eight was blocked by guard Joe Blackwell. Tackle Butch Robbins fell on the ball in the end zone for a Clemson touchdown.

Five minutes later Wake Forest scored its only points on a safety when Clemson quarterback Tom Ray, attempting to pass from his 12, was thrown in the end zone by Deacon end Joe Sepic.

Florida Blanks South Carolina In Homecoming

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — With methodical precision, unbeaten Florida polished off winless South Carolina 37-0 Saturday in a display of football power, finesse and depth.

The pattern of the rout was set early when Jack Harper streaked 73 yards from scrimmage on a touchdown jaunt. And after first-stringers Larry Dupree and Charles Casey got in on the scoring act, the second team carried on unhindered.

Tom Shannon and sophomore Steve Spurrier quarterbacked with equal effectiveness while two defensive units thoroughly squashed South Carolina's attack.

Florida's pass defense, the nation's best, held strong-armed Dan Reeves to six completions for a total gain of only 43 yards. When South Carolina recovered a fumble at the Florida 16, the Gamecocks ran four downs with a net loss of four yards.

It was a game to delight homecoming fans and 43,000 of them enjoyed the spectacle as the Gators won their seventh straight in a streak that began last season and strengthened their bid for national recognition.

Rice Nips SMU In Initial SWC Clash For Each

DALLAS (AP)—Walt McReynolds passed 23 yards to Billy Hale for a touchdown and Larry Rice kicked the extra point Saturday night to give Rice 7-6 victory over Southern Methodist in the opening Southwest Conferece football game for each school.

Southern Methodist surged right back for 79 yards and a touchdown. The payoff was a 19-yard pass from Jimmy Taylor to Rogers Reinowski, but John Cravens missed the try for the point.

That was the ball game as a crowd of 24,000 stayed on its feet the entire last half.

The first half was mostly a dull kicking duel with Rice missing a field goal from the SMU 27. Rice also advanced to the SMU 36 with a 28-yard pass from McReynolds to Preston Johnson pushing the drive along, but SMU braced.

Demons Get 48-0 Slaughter Over Ouachita Baptist

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP)—Northwestern Louisiana whipped Ouachita Baptist College 48-0 Saturday night by scoring in every quarter and overcoming an amazing 248 yards in penalties.

NSC scored on three passes in the first half, and added three more by rushing and a pass interception in the second half.

Outweighed heavily, NSC tried 25 passes, completing 10. One TD pass by Ouachita was nullified by a penalty while NSC had two callbacks because of infractions.

NSC was penalized 21 times, setting a record total in penalties.

The NSC scoring was divided among most of the team, with fullback Claude Patrick getting two touchdowns. He was the only man to get more than one.

St. Louis Hawks Top Cincinnati With Big Rally

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks almost lost a 23 point lead in the second half but their reserves came through in the fourth quarter to lead them to a 94-91 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in a National Basketball Association opener Saturday.

Leading by 57-34 early in the third period, St. Louis saw its lead shrink to four points three times in the final quarter. But substitutes Cliff Hagan, John Barnhill, Charley Vaughn and Paul Silas took them out of danger.

Vaughn drove for a goal to give St. Louis a 93-87 lead with 3:18 left in the game. The Royals pulled to within three on Oscar Robertson's basket with 29 seconds to go but the Hawks controlled the ball in the remaining time.

Hagan led St. Louis scorers with 23 points. Robertson paced Cincinnati with 27.

The score was tied 20-20 after the first quarter. Cincinnati made only 13 points in the second period and the Hawks, outscoring the Royals 16-3 late in the quarter, were ahead 49-33 by halftime.

FOURTH STRAIGHT CONQUEST

Buckeyes Trim Southern Cal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's second-ranked Buckeyes shot down Southern California's air attack and sent fullback Willard Sander on a ground-eating rampage Saturday in defeating the Trojans 17-0 before 84,315 paying customers and a nationwide television audience.

It was Ohio State's fourth straight conquest, Southern California's first shutout in 25 games and the crowd was the third largest ever to make the Buckeye Stadium bulge at its seams

The Ohioans, seeking to avenge last year's 32-3 loss to the Trojans, most one-sided defeat suffered by Coach Woody Hayes in his 14 years here, marched 64 yards in 15 plays for a score the first time they had the ball

Sander, the 215-pound junior fullback from Cincinnati who gained 120 yards as he carried 29 times, plunged the last two yards for the counter.

In the second period, Don Unverferth passed 10 yards to Greg Lashutka for the second Ohio score after Tom Kiehfuss had recovered Mike Garrett's fumble on the 10. The Bucks put the icing on the cake with Bob Funk's 24-yard field goal, his sixth of the year, as a 75-yard drive was stalled.

Southern Cal's biggest threats were snuffed out by three pass interceptions and two fumbles and its nearest bid to score was erased by a peculiar penalty.

Late in the third period the Trojans, aided by a 28-yard pass from Craig Fertig to end John Thomas, reached the Buckeye eight. On third down Fertig passed to sophomore halfback Ray Cahill in the end zone, but the Trojan back was called for offensive pass interference.

On the touchback ruling, the ball was given to Ohio on the 20-yard line from where the Bucks moved to Funk's three-pointer.

Vandy Gets 2nd Win Of Season; Tops Colonials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vanderbilt scored its first two touchdowns of the season Saturday for a 14-0 victory over George Washington.

The ice-breaker for the Commodores came on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Dave Waller late in the second period. In the third quarter, Phil Brooks scored another on a three-yard dive.

The bulky Vanderbilt line plus untimely penalties stalled George Washington's offense throughout the day, although the Colonials twice got within five yards of paydirt.

A light rain fell throughout the game, played before 5,200 in Washington's cavernous District of Columbia Stadium.

The victory was the second for the Commodores from Tennessee in five games while George Washington was losing its third in four tries. Vanderbilt kicked three field goals last week to defeat Wake Forest 9-6.

A 24-yard run by Bob Sullins was the highlight of Vanderbilt's 79-yard scoring drive in the second period. The Commodores also were helped by a 15-yard personal foul penalty against George Washington after Toby Wilt had been stopped for no gain on a third down play in Vanderbilt territory.

Minutes later Waller, facing fourth down with inches to go on the Colonial 47, carried for three yards. On the next play Sullins romped around left end for 24 yards and a few plays later Vanderbilt had its first touchdown.

Boston Scores 112-81 Victory Over Detroit

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics opened their quest for an unprecedented seventh straight National Basketball Association world championship by crushing the Detroit Pistons Saturday night 112-81.

Bill Russell, criticized by Celtics Coach Red Auerback as "too fat," nevertheless completely dominated the first half, which ended with Boston in front 58-40.

In those first two periods, Russell scored 16 points and grabbed 17 rebounds. He wound up with 19 points and 22 rebounds.

Actually, the Celtics all but wrapped up the decision in the first period. Hitting on 15 of 28 shots, they sprinted to a 19-point lead, 36-17, with the scoring well balanced.

Trailing Russell among Boston's scoring leaders were Tom Heinsohn with 15 and Sam Jones and Johnny Havlicek with 12. High man for Detroit was newcomer Don Kojis with 16.

Eight Grid Tilts Played Saturday In YMCA Loops

Eight games were played in Y.M.C.A. football action Saturday.

In the Flag League the Vikings bombed the Steelers, 28-0, with McDougald scoring three touchdowns and Powell running another.

The Broncs downed the Bengals, 13-7, on McElroy's two touchdown effort. Abel tallied for the Bengals.

The Rams shut out the Lakers, 27-0. Surratt tallied twice, Payne and Johnson once each.

The Giants raced to 41-18 win to lead the slate of matches in the Red League.

Craft scored four times, and Farr and Lary once each to the Giants' tallies, while Prichard crossed the goal line three times for the Cowboys.

The Bears got balanced scoring to defeat the Packers, 20-12. Murphy, Cale and Kelly, scored one touchdown each for the winners. Williams and Brandon struck for one score each for the Packers.

The Cardinals rolled up a 30-0 victory over the Indians. Sale scored two touchdowns, while M. Porter, Albritton and Dixon tallied once each.

R. Marx tallied twice to push the Tigers past the Redskins, 12-7, in a Blue League match. Collett scored the Redskins' only touchdown.

Montrolos scored all seven points as the Lions edged the Colts, 7-6. Newton scored for the Colts.

Panamanian Braulio Baeza was the first rider to win seven races at Aqueduct's fall meeting this year.

MORAL WIN FOR GREENIES

Tulane's Green Wave Scares Rebels Before Bowing, 14-9

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— An inspired Tulane Green Wave gave Mississippi a scare Saturday night but finally fell before a superior Rebel force 14-9.

The Greenies scored first at the start of the second quarter on a 35-yard field goal by Don Bright. It was the first time in four years a Greenie squad scored on Ole Miss.

But before the half ended Ole Miss had scored twice and at the intermission the Wave trailed 14-3.

After a scoreless third quarter, Tulane put on a surprising burst of speed and marched 90 yards in 15 plays for a touchdown.

Dave East passed to Jerry Graves for the score. Tulane's pass attempt for two points failed.

Two other Tulane drives in the last quarter were stopped by Rebel interceptions.

Ole Miss scored its first touchdown when Mike Dennis went off right guard for the score. The touchdown followed a series of ground plays by Ole Miss quarterback Jim Weatherly.

Billy Irwin's kick for the point after was good.

Before the half ended East's pass was intercepted by Bobby Robinson. The Rebels took over on the Tulane 37, then Weatherly began passing.

Weatherly threw the ball four times to Rebel receivers to set up the second Ole Miss touchdown. He passed to Dave Wells for the score. Irwin again kicked the extra point.

Early in the fourth quarter, Tulane took over on its own 10 yard line and a series of ground plays and East passes marched the Wave down the field for the score.

Weatherly completed 12 of 20 passes for 164 yards behind a good wall of protection.

East, with little protection from his line, completed 13 of 32 for 124 yards. Tulane fullback George Cortez was the leading ground gainer of the night with 75 yards.

Spotty Hunts On Squirrels

With Sam Hanna

Big Mast Crop

Louisiana is not having its greatest squirrel season, but it's not the worst either.

Keeping in mind that last year's mast crop was not up to standards, the squirrel season, we suppose, is as good as could be expected, but in fairness to all concerned it's spotty.

Cliff Williams, district supervisor here for the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, says he thinks it's a pretty fair season so far especially in the hills.

He pointed out that the hills had a good mast crop last year.

From the reports we've heard, the best hunting has to be on the islands in the Mississippi River where hunters reportedly are getting their limits without too much difficulty.

But, in the bottomlands, the hunting has been spotty.

Some hunters we've talked to say they find squirrels in spots, that some parts of the woods have few bushytails. We think this is true, generally, of most of the wooded areas in Northeast Louisiana.

For example, Jack Rushing, who supervises the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area, says he hasn't checked out a limit yet. The daily bag is eight, which is really not a lot of squirrels if you have a big population.

Squirrels are cutting acorns mostly and in the woods we've been in they're ignoring pecans totally. So if you can find a good stand of acorns, then you should find squirrels, especially if there is water nearby.

But the most encouraging thing is this year's big mast crop. The woods are bearing well, and this means that unless something happens the squirrels will be in good shape to reproduce for next year.

The biologists tell us that big squirrel crops follow big mast years, and if you'll recall two years ago that outstanding squirrel season came after a year when there was plenty of mast.

In summary, the squirrel hunting should be fair in the weeks ahead while next year should be a big one, as it looks right now.

Information On Waterfowl

The Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has begun conducting its waterfowl surveys, which are used for study information as well as for determining the seasons.

Latest survey was conducted October 6-9th, showing Louisiana with a total of 854,550 ducks. As always the blue wing teal showed up with the largest count — 253,750 — for this time of the season.

You know the teal move out ahead of most other ducks from the north.

And that brings us to information that should be in the hands of every citizen who wants to see our waterfowl preserved for our youngsters and their youngsters.

Some 103 authors from Canada, United States and Mexico have pooled their talents to publish probably one of the most outstanding books on record regarding waterfowl.

Entitled "Waterfowl Tomorrow," the book was put out by the U. S. Department of the Interior, and gives the reader the most detailed information on waterfowl and its problems we've ever seen.

It's a big volumn — and awfully attractive — so we haven't had a chance to read it completely, but we advise all sportsmen interested in waterfowl to get a copy. And it would be a wonderful asset for all libraries too.

For a cost of $4, you can get a copy of "Waterfowl Tomorrow" by writing the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

This book is well-prepared and illustrated. You'd enjoy it.

Arkansas' Nelson Cox

Since May 1956 the State of Arkansas has had the same wildlife director, Nelson Cox.

While Louisiana should follow the example of Arkansas sometimes and keep a director around long enough to enjoy his experience, the purpose of our mentioning Nelson Cox in this column is certainly not to compare the directorships of both states.

But Nelson Cox is no stranger to Louisiana and certainly not to Monroe where his mother, Mrs. L. J. Cox, and his sister, Mrs. Helen Blanchard, reside at 2907 S. Grand Street.

A few days ago Nelson was elected president of the International Association of Game & & Fish Commissioners, the largest professional fish and wildlife conservation organization in the world.

While Nelson Cox has headed up numerous conservation groups, this office is perhaps the highest he's held. The International membership is composed of all 50 states, 12 Canadian provinces, Mexico and several other foreign countries.

So it's quite an honor for Arkansas to have its director at the helm of such a wide - ranging group. Congratulations are in order for our neighbor, Nelson Cox of Arkansas.

Southeastern Game Meeting

Louisiana will have a delegation as the annual conference of the Southeastern Association of Game & Fish Commissioners opening today through Wednesday at Clearwater, Fla.

In fact, two Monroe fisheries biologists, Jim Davis and Mrs. Janice Hughes, will present papers at the conference, which is expected to attract over 600 fish and game people from 15 states.

Jim is presenting a paper on the creel census of Bayou DeSiard, Black Bayou, Bussey Brake and Lafourche Lake while Janice's paper is on the affects of herbicides on fish.

Ten papers from Louisiana biologists will be offered.

This is a conference where biologists get together from across the Southland to discuss mutual problems and a broad field of other subjects pertaining to conservation.

Jim, incidentially, serves as secretary treasurer of the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society.

The Monroe biologists are going at their own expense, since the state has cut back on travel expenses. We would say that the state is getting its money's worth in the case of our own people.

Little Man's Corner

The squirrels were stirring early and the fish were biting as the little men began to make autumn news afield.

From West Monroe, Buddy Harrelson bagged the limit of squirrels near Lake Providence. Buddy says one day he saw about 50 squirrels.

But one of the best stories of the week came from Concordia where Guy Washington went down to the Blue Hole, caught the limit of white perch and shot the limit of squirrels, all in one day.

Getting the limit of squirrels from Ferriday were Jack Adams, Austin Wilson, Morris White, Gene Rogillio and Bill Davis.

Locally, Wylie Moore landed a 5-pound bass at Black Bayou while Johnny Danna as usual got the limit of bass there, including a five - pounder and a six-pounder.

Billy Roy of West Monroe got nine bass in Black Bayou and one went 5½ pounds. At Bastrop, Bob Oden, the Chamber of Commerce man, saw first hand what we've promoted for a long time — that Bussey Brake is the hottest bass spot around. Bob landed two big ones — one in the neighborhood of six pounds.

Fishing Bayou Louie, Annie Rogillio of Winnsboro landed 12 white perch. She's been killing a few squirrels too.

Fishing Emerson Lake in Tensas Parish, J. C. and Clyde Bankston of Winnsboro caught 27 white perch one day and 15 the next. W. A. Hatten and Felton Wiggins of Franklin Parish bagged 15 squirrels.

And, from Bastrop, Wayne Adcock downed a 75-pound doe the second day of the Arkansas archery season in Ashley County. The Louisiana archery season opened yesterday.

And now the dove season has re-opened.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

Bryant Believer In 'Eye Opener'

By PAUL BRYANT
Alabama Football Coach
Written for AP Newsfeatures

Since the advent of the I formation, coaches have been searching for a play that would be strong off tackle and still have the versatility to be an inside power play or one that could develop into a sweep.

At Alabama we believe we have developed such a play. We call it our "Eye Opener."

To make the play an option we like to have two wide split men.

We believe the advantages are two fold. It reduces the quick outside corner or halfback support. And it has a tendency to loosen the linebacker play.

The former allows the ball carrier to break outside the defensive end with running room. The latter permits the ball carrier to break back inside if the interior pursuit runs off. The ball carrier must start wide and then run to daylight either inside or outside.

To best illustrate the versatility of this play the 1963 Tennessee game must be recalled. Benny Nelson, our star halfback, broke the play all the way back over our offensive center for 35 yards and a touchdown.

Against Houston, Nelson broke it outside end for a 37-yard touchdown sprint.

NEXT: Coach Doyt Perry of Bowling Green explains PASS PATTERNS from the W and A formations.

FSU Escapes With 17-14 Win Over Georgia

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The passing combination of Steve Tensi and Fred Biletnikoff struck late for a touchdown which enabled 10th ranked Florida State to escape with a 17-14 football victory over Georgia Saturday.

With 6:21 left, Tensi hit Biletnikoff for 11 yards and the score after the Seminoles, behind 14-10, drove 79 yards in 12 plays.

It was the only sustained drive FSU could muster against a hard-charging Georgia defensive unit.

FSU cashed in on Georgia mistakes in the first half for a 23-yard field goal and the first touchdown.

Georgia came back, driving 68 yards in 13 plays with quarterback Lynn Hughes and Preston Ridlehuber utilizing the option play for a second quarter touchdown.

Georgia drove in from the FSU 22 in the fourth quarter after recovering a Seminole fumble. Halfback Fred Barber went seven yards through the line for the touchdown.

Tensi threw eight times to Biletnikoff for 114 yards.

A penalty nullified a spectacular 81-yard touchdown run by Ridlehuber who shook off three tacklers to race all the way in the third quarter.

FSU has now won five without a loss. Georgia's record is 2-2-1.

Illinois Blanks Minnesota With Strong Defense

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Illinois overpowered Minnesota's offense with a massive Dick Butkus-led defensive effort and downed the Gophers 14-0 Saturday with two breaks cashed for touchdowns in the second quarter.

The Illini, rebounding from last week's loss to Ohio State, simply buried Minnesota with a choking defense that intercepted five passes and grabbed two Gopher fumbles.

Illinois staved off one Minnesota penetration to the Illini four-yard line in the second period, then kept the Gophers outside their 40 the rest of the game.

Harvard In 16-0 Ivy League Win

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An alert Harvard team, unable to muster a drive of its own, converted a skidding center pass, a fumble and a 104-yard pass interception runback on the final play for a rainsodden 16-0 Ivy League football victory over Cornell Saturday.

John Dockery picked off a Cornell aerial four yards in his end zone and broke to his right for the longest interception return in Crimson history. A brief brawl was quickly broken up after the run.

The Crimson struck twice in the third period when its own attack was limited to a net gain of 12 yards and kept a share of the league lead.

Holy Cross Wins

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Jack Lentz, a sophomore rollout specialist in his first starting chance, led Holy Cross to its first victory in four games Saturday with a 16-0 triumph over the Quantico Marines.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF MISTAKES

Tide Trips Tennessee, 19-8

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Third - ranked Alabama took advantage of a stubborn Tennessee's mistakes Saturday and whipped the Vols 19 - 8 in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The Crimson Tide capitalized on blocked kicks and Tennessee fumbles as it rolled to its fifth victory without a loss.

Both of Alabama's touchdowns were scored after a hard-charging Tide line blocked two of Tennessee kicking specialist Ron Widlby's punts.

Quarterback Steve Sloan plunged over from the 1 for the first and center Gaylon McCollough raced 22 yards for the second.

Tennessee's sophomore Art Galiffa played a tremendous game for the inspired Vols, connecting for seven of 17 passes for 78 yards and set up Tennessee's only touchdown.

Tennessee was unable to move the ball during the first half but came back fighting after intermission and coach Paul Bryant sent his ailing All-America Joe Namath in to help put out the fire.

Alabama took a 3 - 0 lead on David Ray's 31 - yard field goal with the games only minutes old. Tackle Ron Durby set it up when he recovered Tennessee wingback Jerry Smith's fumble on the Tennessee 28.

The Tide scored its first touchdown in the second period after Widby's punt was partially blocked by end Mike Hopper and rolled dead on the Tennessee 47.

The Tide marched to the 1 on the passing and running of Sloan, and the Cleveland, Tenn., sophomore carried it.

The Tide struck again in the second period when end Wayne Cook blocked another Widby punt and McCollough grabbed it to score.

Tennessee's lone touchdown also resulted from a fumble. Tide fullback Steve Bowman dropped the ball on the Alabama 32 and Frank Emanuel recovered for Tennessee on the 38. Galiffa hit end Whit Canale on a 30 - yard pass play and tailback Hal Wantland went wide for the score.

Snared Pass Gives Orange 21-14 Victory

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — A 38-yard pass interception return by Roger Smith set up a last minute touchdown by Walley Mahle, giving seventh-ranked Syracuse a hard earned 21-14 football victory over Penn State Saturday.

Smith snared the errant pass on his 40-yard line and raced to the Penn State 22. Seven plays later, Mahle scored from the four with just 37 seconds left.

Syracuse, rated No. 1 in the East, had its hands full as the Nittany Lions combined a rugged defense with a touch of surprise to take a 14-7 halftime lead.

But Syracuse, 4-1, unleashed its vaunted ground attack in the third period behind the running of Floyd Little and Jim Nance to march 64 yards for the tying touchdown. Nance carried over from the five and Smith booted the extra point, knotting the count 14-14.

Little electrified some 46,000 fans with a 71-yard touchdown run on a punt return that gave Syracuse a 7-0 first period lead.

Penn State, 1-4, however, stunned the Orange with two touchdowns in the second quarter, the second highlighted by a brilliant 22-yard pass play on a fake punt.

Frank Hershey, a quarterback relegated to kicking duties, flipped the pass to Gerry Sandusky on a fourth and 10 situation at the Penn State 44. Five plays later, fullback Tom Urbanik smashed over from the 10.

Nebraska Romps

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska halfback Kent McCloughan raced 69 yards to a first quarter touchdown Saturday and set in motion a scoring parade that carried the sixth-ranked Cornhuskers to a 47-0 Big Eight football triumph over Kansas State.

LAST PLAY OF GAME

Oklahoma Beaten By Kansas, 15-14

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Sophomore quarterback Bob Skahan ran 26 yards for a touchdown on the last play of the game and Mike Johnson scored on a two-point conversion to lift Kansas to a 15-14 upset victory over Oklahoma Saturday in a Big Eight thriller before 44,000.

Skahan engineered the 91-yard scoring drive which started in the final two minutes of play. He hit three of five passes for 45 yards in the drive.

The big play came from the Oklahoma 47 when Skahan hit fullback Ron Oelschlager for a 7-yard gain with eight seconds in the game.

A free-for-all erupted and Oklahoma was penalized for pass interference which gave Kansas a first down on the 26.

On the last play Skahan pitched out to halfback Dave Crandall who then threw a short pass back to Skahan at the line of scrimmage. The Jayhawker rookie then darted through a host of would-be Oklahoma tacklers for the touchdown as the gun sounded.

Johnson then swept the right end on a double-reverse for two points to give Kansas the upset.

Jim Grisham, Oklahoma's all America fullback, ran and blocked the Sooners through a 14-point second period and a 14-7 halftime lead that stood until the closing seconds.

Grisham, a 6-foot-2, 207 pound senior, was the game's top rusher with 104 yards in 21 carries, his high for the period. He capped an 81-yard scoring drive early in the second period when he plunged off tackle from the one-yard line.

He then threw the key block on halfback Lance Rentzel's six-yard scamper with 3:23 in the half. The Sooners had dominated the game after Gale Sayers rambled 93 yards with the opening kickoff to give Kansas the lead.

Sayers caught the ball on the seven and followed a line of blockers up the left sideline before being hemmed in by three Sooners at the Oklahoma 40. Sayers side-stepped three defenders and cut across to the opposite side-line.

Local Woman Sinks Ace At Highland

Mrs. Jack Raighney of West Monroe sank a hole-in-one on the 80 yard eight hole at Highland Park Country Club course Saturday.

Mrs. Raighney, using a Jack Nicklaus number 11 ion, has been playing golf for two years and it was her first ace.

She was playing in a foursome with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Copes of Lake Charles and her brother-in-law, Mr. D. W. Raighney.

Russian Race Is Slated Today At West Monroe

A full slate of races is on tap for the West Monroe Speedway this afternoon, including a special Russian roulette affair.

The roulette race features part of the event being run in a forward position and a portion driving backward.

Time trials start at 1:30 and the races begin at 2 p.m., according to owner Roy Smith.

Smith reported that a road block is up to "thru" traffic on the Jonesboro road but does not interfere with speedway.

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

ITS AGE, 72 YEARS, makes the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York one of the youngest of the world's cathedrals. It may be completed in 50 years. "Mother church" of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, it is the largest cathedral in the United States. Mellowing with years and use, the cathedral is accustomed to scaffolding, as this for stonework on the facade, and more on top for blocks of stone for two towers. Empty niches eventually will be filled with stone sculptures. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

THROUGH THE AGES

Growth Is Slow For Cathedrals

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

On an uptown Manhattan sidewalk, the Rev. Canon Edward N. West stood with a pair of binoculars to his eyes, gazing at a figure high above.

There, kneeling on a catwalk, stonecutter Mario Tommasi chipped at a limestone block, cutting an insignia in the front gable of the Cathedral of St. John The Divine.

"He'll need to go a little deeper there in one spot," the churchman told an overseer. They bent over sketches, talking, fingers pointing.

Work on the emblem, the coat of arms of the New York Episcopal diocese, has been going on for more than two months. But that is only a moment in the making of a cathedral.

It takes time and, in unruffled disregard of the pace of modern life, the builders of several cathedrals in the United States are going at the task in the manner of the ancients.

LONG TERMS

"Cathedrals are built for the centuries, and in building them, you think in terms of centuries, not decades," says Canon West, who expects that only future generations will see the completion of St. John The Divine.

Work on it, the largest cathedral in the United States and second only to St. Peter's in Rome among church edifices of the world, has been going on for 72 years, since 1892. It is a mere youngster.

Not even a century is long in the construction of some of the most famous cathedrals.

"They develop gradually, reflecting the experiences of the past as well as of the present, says Canon West. "Each generation leaves its own curious mark."

The seasoning of the years and events has gone into several cathedrals started in this country long ago and still a-building.

The Cathedral of St. Peter And St. Paul (commonly known as the National Cathedral) in Washington, D.C., was conceived by the nation's first president, George Washington.

A site for it was designated in original plans for the capital city, but not until 1892 did Congress grant a charter for it, with actual construction beginning 14 years later. The work still continues.

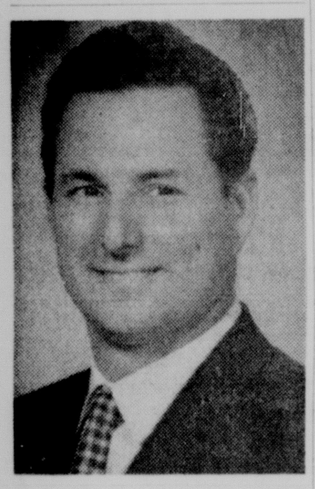
In San Francisco, still another Episcopal structure, Grace Cathedral, is considered nearly completed, after more than a half century of work.

Momentarily, interest centered on the public unveiling of the twin, 16-foot gold-leaf bronze entrance doors, cast from the eastern portal of the baptistry of San Giovanni Cathedral at Florence, Italy.

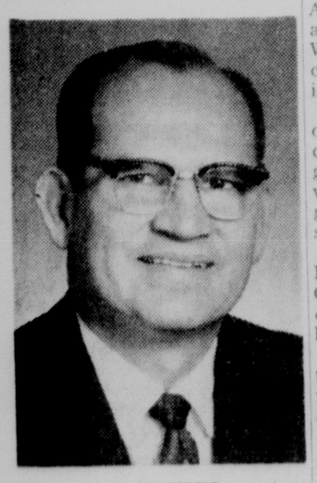
"Worthy to be the gates of paradise," Michaelangelo once said of it.

In Missouri, the delicate, highly skilled art of applying mosaics to the interior of St. Louis Cathedral was started 50 years ago, when the bare main structure was finished.

Now in its final stages, the present work involves affixing mosaic scenes to the huge dome of the Roman Catholic structure, considered one of the foremost examples of Byzantine architecture in the Western Hemisphere.



REV. E. E. TAYLOR, pastor of Morningside Baptist Church of Shreveport, will be guest speaker at a revival opening today at Central Baptist Church here, and continuing through Sunday, October 25, it was announced by Rev. Charles B. Littleton, pastor. Rev. Taylor formerly was pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe, and is a graduate of Louisiana College and New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Services will be held on Sundays at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., Monday through Friday at 6:30 a.m., 9:30 a.m., and 7:30 p.m., and at 7:30 p.m. only on Saturday.



REV. ROY MOUSER, pastor of North Baton Rouge Methodist Church, Baton Rouge, will be evangelist for a series of revival services opening Wednesday at Stone Avenue Methodist Church, 212 Stone Ave., and continuing through October 30. Evening services will be held at 7:30. Morning services will be held at 10 o'clock on October 22, 23 and 26-30. Rev. Jimmy Pyles, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Shreveport, will be song leader for the services. Rev. Troy Garrett is pastor of the church.

Children's Home Food Drive Set

When Autice D. Bailey stops the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home truck at the First Baptist Church in Jeanerette early Monday morning, it will mark the beginning of transporting items given in the annual Fall Food Round-Up to Monroe.

In the two months following, 17 trips will be made, virtually covering Louisiana.

GATHERING FOOD

Area Baptist churches have started gathering canned goods and staple food items to be used for feeding boys and girls in the Home which is supported by Louisiana Baptists and other friends of needy children.

Some churches use a committee to remind people of the food drive. Contributed items are kept until the truck comes on its scheduled visit to move the "groceries for the growing" to the agency which is licensed to care for 150 homeless children.

Food given in the round-up is vital to the operation of the Home, Superintendent Wade B. East said.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP

Mrs. Meta Wood Warden was recently presented an honorary life membership in The Women of the Church, by the Delhi Presbyterian Church. She received a certificate and pin.

Making the presentation was Lamar Bryant, elder of the church.

AT ABBEY

Beautiful Books Printed By Nuns

By ALAN WALKER

CALLOW END, England (AP) —"Printer's devil" is the common term for a press apprentice, but the title is never used at nearby Stanbrook Abbey. There gentle nuns work with ink and hot lead to produce some of the most beautiful books and broadsheets in Britain.

Before printing was invented, the "scriptorium" of an abbey was a busy place. Where manuscripts were copied, for distribution mainly among the clergy.

Now Standbrook's presses form the scriptorium's modern equivalent. books of a religious nature are printed with painstaking care on handmade paper. Many are finished by hand illumination in gold and brightly colored inks.

The abbey was founded in 1625 and its printing history dates from 1876, when Brother Laurence Shepherd of the Order of Saint Benedict bought a small press and employed a local printer to teach him how to run it.

PASSED ALONG

From then on, says the present printer, "We have passed the craft on from generation to generation, with occasional help from outside."

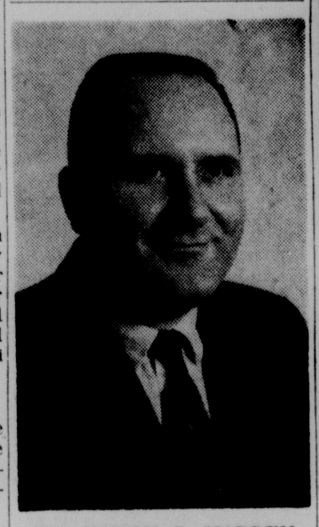
Now there are six presses, including the original one, and seven nuns running them. If anything serious goes wrong with mechanical equipment, expert workmen are allowed into the cloistered abbey to make repairs.

However, typographical advice is spoken to the printer through a grill because technically no men are allowed inside. No visitors may enter the press room except the essential workmen.

The spokesman's name cannot be revealed. "Our custom is to remain anonymous," a reporter was told. "We are strictly enclosed, behind grills — the strictest of all, known as Papal Enclosure."

The printer entered the Benedictine order in 1941. "I had never printed before and I didn't know anything about it," she said. "But I always loved books and collected first editions and beautiful bindings when I could afford them."

The press prints fine editions of poetry, medieval spiritual writings, histories of the church fathers and plainer editions of liturgical books.



DR. MYRON C. MADDEN

2 Alliances Co-Sponsor An Institute

A two - day institute on religion and healing is scheduled here Monday and Tuesday, October 26, 27, under the co-sponsorship of the Monroe and West Monroe Ministerial Alliances.

A supper at 7 p.m. on the first day of the institute will launch the program of activities to be held at Enaut Hall (the old Jewish Synagogue) of the St. Francis Hospital. The first session will get under way at 7:30 p.m. following the meal.

The event is intended for the participation of both ministers and doctors.

A feature of the first evening will be a five member discussion panel on which there will be a psychiatrist, a medical doctor, psychologist, chaplain from L. T. I., and Dr. Myron C. Madden, chaplain and director of the pastoral care department of the Southern Baptist Hospital, New Orleans, who will serve as institute leader.

The following day there will be four sessions beginning at 9 a.m. and going until around 4 p.m. A spokesman for the Ministerial Alliances said that this type of project is the first to be held in the area.

Dr. Madden was born at Heflin, La., and received an A.B. degree from Louisiana State University, and Th. M. and Th. D. degrees from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He studied at Harvard University Chaplain's School, served as chaplain of Kentucky State Hospital, Danville, served in the pastorates of several churches and was an Army chaplain in World War Two.

There will be a registration fee of $2.50 for each minister who is present for the meal, and $1.50 for those who wish to come after the meal. The doctors will be guests of the ministers.

Reservations for the event may be made by contacting Chaplain Don Weininger at Glenwood Hospital, West Monroe, or Chaplain Bill Hartley, Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe.

REV. JAMES THORN of Monroe, pastor of Creston, La., Baptist Church, will be evangelist in a revival opening today at Lone Pine Baptist Church, St. Landry Parish, and continuing through Sunday, October 25. Pastor of the church is the Rev. Sidney McMorris. Services will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Sanctuary, Church of God, 813 Montgomery St., West Monroe

CHURCH OF GOD, MONTGOMERY ST.

Evangelistic Campaigns Strengthen Organization

The Church of God, 813 Montgomery St., West Monroe, was organized in 1938 under the direction of the Rev. Clyde C. Cox, state superintendent at that time, and the Rev. J. P. Nolan, the church's first pastor.

Rev. Nolan served as pastor for 15 years, although not consecutively.

It had a very small beginning in a frame building, but the old eventually had to give away to the new, and under the leadership of the Rev. Dewey Herndon, the present sanctuary was constructed, and the small congregation had the honor of becoming the first one in the denomination in Louisiana, to have a brick structure.

OTHER PASTORS

Other pastors to serve the congregation were the Rev. W. P. Wilkins, Rev. Alfred Nicholson, Rev. Paul Schumaker, Rev. Earl Joplin, and Rev. W. D. Johnson. The present pastor is the Rev. Ed Denham.

The church places strong emphasis on evangelism through Sunday School and home visitation. In the 26 years the church has been organized, it has sponsored approximately 75 evangelistic campaigns. These meetings have been a source of spiritual strength to the church and have touched the lives of many people. The origin of the church was in revival fires which must be maintained to fulfill its rightful place as a church, officials said. The international headquarters of the Church of God is located in Cleveland, Tenn.

One of the outstanding features of the church is its music program. Two choirs serve the church. The adult choir, with 30 voices, is under the direction of Howard Williams. The children's choir, with 14 girls and 10 boys, is under the direction of Miss Judith Carol Denham. This choir is a source of inspiration to the congregation, since out of this group will come responsible leaders of the future.

FACILITIES

The present facilities include, in addition to the main auditorium, Sunday School rooms, supply room, and a social area. The all-purpose building, which was constructed last March, was made possible through the visionary efforts of the Young People's Endeavor, under the leadership of Mrs. Naomi Gibbons and Mrs. Audrey Richardson. At the completion of this structure there will be three additional Sunday School rooms and a modern kitchen. This new building was financed by sponsoring some of the nation's leading gospel quartets. These concerts have brought to this area some of the ranking artists in sacred music.

"Under the blessings of the Lord, the congregation has had a missionary zeal, and in recent months has contributed to the erection of two new churches in foreign lands, one in Tokyo, Japan, and the other in Bombay, India," said Rev. Denham. "In conjunction with many other responsibilities, the church helps support the Home For Dependent Children in Cleveland, Tennessee."

The present pastor, Rev. Denham, was educated in the public schools of Somerset, Kentucky, and attended the Church of God Bible College, Sevierville, Tennessee, which is now Lee College, Cleveland, Tennessee.

He is married to the former Anna Marie Webb of Hillsboro, Oregon. They have three children, one son, the Rev. Dale T. Denham, who is assistant pastor and music director of the Franklin Avenue Church of God in Winchester, Kentucky, and two daughters at home, Judith Carol, 18, and Lee Ann, 14. The family resides in the church manse at 205 Alpha Street. Before coming to West Monroe, Rev. Denham pastored in Richmond, Kentucky for 13 years.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENT

The officials of the church are in the process of brick veneering the new building, and are making plans for other improvements as soon as it is convenient.

Other officials of the Montgomery Street Church of God are Virgil Graves, chairman of the Board of Trustees; Jacob O. Strickland, secretary and treasurer; Arthur Davis, superintendent of the Sunday School; Mrs. Clarence Clark, president of the Young People's Endeavor, and Mrs. Ed Denham, president of the Ladies Willing Worker Band.

Rev. Denham said that he "sees a great future for the local congregation, as they are very progressive minded and have responded to almost every suggestion that will help bring about a continuous growth."

Rev. Denham, Pastor
Church of God,
Montgomery St., West Monroe

Resurrection is one of the greatest words in the Bible. It has power to stir the mind; it has beauty to quicken the imagination; and, it has magnetic power to draw the heart. "If ye then be risen with Jesus Christ, seek those things that are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above not on the earth."

The resurrection is more than a glorious event in the future. It is an experience in the present. Man's condition outside of Christ is not that he is sick, crippled, or paralyzed, but it is that he is dead. "And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins; Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience." Ephesians 2:1-2.

VICTORY

We do not need to wait until the graves are opened on the resurrection morning to realize that there is victory in the resurrection power. We may have this victory today. I believe St. Paul felt this victory as he sat in his Roman prison writing to his friends at Colosse. Worn, feeble, aged before his time, bound with chains and waiting for his trial before that mean and bloody Caesar. Paul knew that he was a risen man.

What does it mean to "seek those things which are above where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God?" It means to love and to study heavenly things. It means to let your heart be entirely engrossed by them. It also means to be as much in earnest for heavenly and eternal things as you formerly were for those that are earthly and perishing.

To "seek those things which are above" is to seek the things which belong to Him and to His kingdom. The above things will consist of what the apostle said in Philippians 4:8. "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

TO SEEK THESE

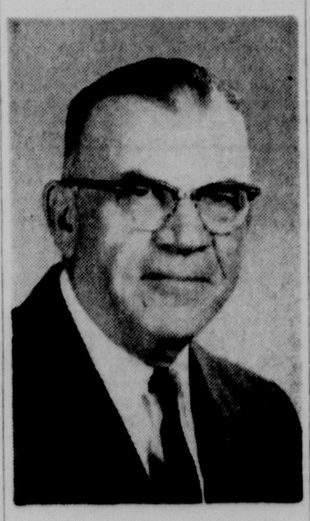
To "seek these things" means for us to turn away from that which drags us downward and follow after that which draws us upward toward the likeness of Christ. The resurrection life must be an upward life. Those who have risen must be ever rising.

Let us look at some of the things we will have to do if we live for the "things which are above." We will have to be careful about choosing our friends. There is a friendship that saves, and there is a friendship that ruins. The Bible says in Proverbs 18:24, "A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

In seeking "those things which are above" we will have to be careful in our selection of music. There is a worldly music that plays upon the strings of passion. You can be sure that this type of music is evil and burdensome to the person who would live for the "things which are above."

This division, between the "things which are above" and the things that are beneath or "on the earth," runs throughout our whole life. Even religion has a higher side and a lower side. Our choice between these two sides depends upon the influence which religion has on our lives. Inevitably, our religion will become a selfish and failing religion if we fail to "seek those things which are above." When we find that blessed and holy state of daily dependence upon God, we will have real fellowship with Christ.

The Christian life is an upward life through Christ, for Christ, and unto Christ.



REV. JESSE J. COODY

Rev. J. J. Coody Evangelist For Revival Series

The fall evangelistic campaign at the First Church of God, 1513 South 3rd St., Monroe, will open today and continue through Saturday, with the Rev. Jesse J. Coody, pastor of the First Church of God in Minden, as featured speaker.

The Rev. Carl R. Owens, pastor of the church, said services will be held daily at 7 p.m. in addition to the 10:50 a.m. service today. Rev. Coody formerly was pastor of the First Church of God in Oak Grove.

Music director for the revival will be Joe Bickford, minister of music for the church here. Special music, solos, duets, and quartet singing, will be presented at every service.

SEASONAL BAKE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Louisiana yams are in plentiful supply now. For a tasty treat, try making apple butter stuffed yams. Here's how:

Bake 4 medium yams in 350 degree (moderate) oven 1 hour, or until tender. Cut yams in half lengthwise; scoop out and reserve shells. Mash yams; mix in 1-3 cup apple butter and ½ cup chopped walnuts. Fill shells with mixture. Place in greased shallow baking dish and bake for 20 minutes. Serves four.

Junior League Luncheon Held In Harvest Setting

An autumn harvest theme was featured in background arrangements and table decor for a luncheon held Saturday, October 10 by the Junior Charity League at the Paragon Club.

Arrangements featured clever scarecrows set among a harvest of pumpkins, gourds and corn, combined with magnolia leaves. Decorating chairman, Mrs. Jack Files and her committee composed of Mrs. Warren Brennen, Mrs. Peter K. Harris, Mrs. J. G. Durrett Jr., Mrs. Lovell E. Hayden III and Mrs. James R. Brown used pine straw and an onion head to fashion the scarecrows, which were dressed in calico print and bright orange hats.

Mrs. Jesse McDonald, president, called the meeting to order and recognized the league's special guests for the day, Mrs. Cornelia Smith, Mrs. Christine Coleman, Mrs. Bess Burns and Mrs. Richard Taylor, teachers from the remedial reading school which the Junior Charity League sponsored during the summer. A fifth teacher, Mrs. Ione Hill, was unable to attend.

Invitations for the league's annual Christmas Ball planned for Saturday, December 5, were distributed to the membership. Tickets for the event which will feature Phares Corder's orchestra, can be purchased from any active or provisional member.

Those present included Mrs. Harley Bearden, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Taylor, guests and league members, Mrs. J. L. Adams III, Mrs. W. H. Anders Jr., Mrs. Harry M. Bell, Mrs. Sylvester Breard, Mrs. Lamar Buffington, Mrs. Donald B. Caldwell, Mrs. Ted Cash, Mrs. Edgar P. Chapman, Mrs. John R. Cole, Mrs. Thomas Dansby, Mrs. H. H. YUMMY DESSERT

Line a mold with lady fingers — widely available packaged, in large food markets. Fill the mold with chocolate pudding made with half milk and half cream. Refrigerate until set and ready to serve. If you line the mold with waxed paper leaving the ends overlapped, the dessert will be easy to remove.

DOLLS TO BE DRESSED by local civic and women's clubs and church groups for the Salvation Army Christmas Cheer program are shown by Captain Ronald C. Greene of the Salvation Army to Mrs. Anna Mae Sartor, chairman of the Christmas committee. Dolls displayed are part of the 26 dozen being distributed for the Christmas cheer program. All dolls must be returned to the Salvation Army by December 1.

MISS MARY DELOIS FAIRCLOTH

Friday Wedding Planned

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Mary DeLois Faircloth and James Edgar Brown, son of Mrs. Emmett Brown, 1511 Willis St., West Monroe, and the late Mr. Brown is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Faircloth of Lake Providence.

The wedding will be an event of Friday, October 23 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Brown, New Natchitoches Road, West Monroe. Rev. A. T. Mitchell will perform the ceremony.

Attending the bride will be Miss Ann Barry, maid of honor and Miss Charlotte Herzog, as bridesmaid, both of Lake Providence. Ken Wright will serve as best man for Mr. Brown and groomsman will be Tommy Lolley, West Monroe.

Miss Faircloth is a graduate of Lake Providence high school. Mr. Brown was graduated from West Monroe high school and from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and is presently associated with Ford Bacon and Davis in Monroe. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Rev. Littleton Gives Address At DAR Meeting

Miss Lucille McLeod was welcomed as a new member of Fort Miro Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution at the October meeting held in the Louis Locke Room of Ouachita Parish Public Library Saturday afternoon.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew, regent, conducted the business session, which opened with the Pledge of Allegiance, the Daughter's Pledge, the American's Creed and group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Drew reminded members that October commences an 18-month celebration of the diamond jubilee of the founding of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

The historical markers committee gave a reminder of the dedication of a marker on the Ouachita Parish Court House Square October 25, marking the first seat of justice in Ouachita Parish, as part of the 50th anniversary and founding of Fort Miro Chapter.

National Defense chairman, Mrs. D. A. Strickland, urged each member to do her part in defeating communism.

Members were reminded to bring clothing to the December meeting for the two D.A.R. sponsored schools.

Mrs. Pascal Norris, program chairman, introduced the Rev. Charles Littleton, pastor of Central Baptist Church, as guest speaker for the afternoon. Rev. Littleton's topic was "Our Nation Under God."

A social hour followed the program during which refreshments were served from a table covered with a green cloth. Central decor was an arangement of autumn flowers and leaves in a silver epergne presented to the group by Mrs. Lewis Slater. Presiding at the silver coffee service was Miss Drew.

Those present included Mrs. A. E. Rabun, Mrs. Frank Yelton, Mrs. Fred Preaus, Mrs. Henry Montgomery, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. Adelia N. Baylor, Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Mrs. S. S. Meek, Mrs. George Hemphill, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. B. A. Hynum, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. Charles Pepper.

Fur Is Biggest Fashion News For New Season

The dramatic appearance of fur, in every conceivable length and style, used solo or as luxurious trim, is the biggest fashion news for fall and winter!

First shown in the high-fashion collections, surprising values in fur-lined coats and suits are now also available at moderate prices, bringing this important trend within the budget price range.

Classic capes, stoles, jackets and coats lead with the new-season look apparent in the many and varied lengths; the stunning look of broadtail and chinchilla, Persian lamb and mink, and dozens of other contrasting furs combined for a glamourous effect in short and long coats and jackets.

As for trim, it ranges from fabulous fur linings to casual tie necklines of fur, that cascade like tuxedos down the front of a coat with a marvelously elegant air.

Carol J. Waller To Wed Joseph Ellis Ross III

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boyce Waller of Farmerville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Carol Joyce Waller to Joseph Ellis Ross III. He is the son of Mrs. Joseph Ellis Ross Jr., and the late Mr. Ross of West Monroe.

The wedding will be an event of November 28 in the First Baptist Church of Farmerville with Dr. Luther B. Hall officiating.

Miss Waller has chosen Miss Lou Ann Wright of Shreveport as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Lynwood Taylor of Crystal River, Florida; Mrs. Herbert Roy Black of Monroe, both sisters of the bride-elect; Mrs. Paul Edgar Bernard of Ruston and Miss Edwina Walls of Baton Rouge. Miss Lynette Taylor of Crystal River, niece of the bride-to-be, will be junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Ross has chosen Lynton Guy Cook of West Monroe, to serve as best man. Groomsmen will be John Burl Salley, Reginald Rupert Vaughn and Fred Blanks Cook of West Monroe and Claude Mahlen of Shreveport. Herbert Kenney Black of Monroe, nephew of the bride-elect, will be junior groomsman.

Miss Melody Anne Taylor of Crystal River, niece of the bride-elect will act as flower girl and ring bearers will be her nephews, James Herbert Taylor of Crystal River and Kerry Wayne Black of Monroe.

Serving as ushers will be Joel Scott Gibson of Shreveport, cousin of the bride-to-be; James Ray McCullen of West Monroe; John Rodney Pilgreen of Monroe and John Graham Norris Jr., of Farmerville. Candles will be lighted by Miss Donna Sue Green of Farmerville and Ronald Leo Spratt of Houston, Texas, cousin of the bride-elect.

Miss Waller is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edison Waller and the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Kennedy Jr. She is a graduate of Farmerville high school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and attended graduate school in library science at Louisiana State University. She is now employed at the Prescott Memorial Library of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston. A member of Phi Mu sorority and the American Association of University Women, Miss Waller is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Mr. Ross is the grandson of Mrs. Henry Lee and the late Mr. Lee of West Monroe and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellis Ross Sr. A graduate of West Monroe high school, he attended Northeast Louisiana State College and Louisiana State University where he was affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. He is now a senior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in Ruston.

Green Lips Latest Lure

ATLANTA (AP) — Men: when your wife or date pulls out a green lipstick for a touch-up, don't be shocked, it's the latest lure in makeup.

And it won't make her lips green. A touch of tender green will simply mist over her old lipstick.

Pistachio lip glace may not be a boon to romance, but it's a boon to tired lipsticks.

Most women have dozens of bits and pieces of lipstick, now outdated, which they hate to throw away.

Feminine Look Has Foothold On Shoes

Femininity has gained a new foothold on leather shoe fashions this fall. Gracefully styled leather footwear flatteringly underlines the season's prettiest and most elegant costumes.

From the flattie to the formal evening shoe, there is an increased feeling of delicacy in women's footwear, says Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America. A panorama of leathers — smooth, suede, grained, brushed, waxy, embossed, patent—bring textural beauty to the shape and detailing of fall shoes.

Fresher and truer than in years are fall's shoe colors. Shoes glow in leather shades like berry red, caramel, gold-digger, bright blue and woody brown. Also in the picture are paler tints such as taupe, fawn and pale gold. The natural leather colors and, of course, black continue important.

Shoes for daytime have their ups and downs. They are opened "up" at back or sides, or trimmed "down" for a shallower silhouette. After their successful revival this past spring, leather sling-backs are more popular than ever.

Buckles and bows help carry through the feminine look — tiny bows attached to the straps of a shoe at the side, larger flat bows or buckles at the front.

Even the walking shoe and the spectator have been softened for fall. Leather specs sport slimmer heels, trimmer soles, and more dramatic color contrasts in tips, stitching and perforations — all adding up to the prettiest spectator in seasons.

Walking shoes are perked up with small buckles tongues or kilties, and smart stitching effects.

Along the boot beat, lively leathers swing through fall and winter. Leg-hugging boots beguile in polished smooth leather, rugged grains and brushed leather, silky suede, and glistening patent leather.

Leather-lined, they come in heights from ankle to knee, and are at ease at park or parlor. For chilly sessions out of doors, boots with fleecy shearling linings keep toes frost-free.

For entertaining at home, it's chic to shoe up in something special — like a suede bootee in snow violet with gold leather piping, or a red and green printed leather mule with turned-up toes.

Fall, Winter Styles Hark Back To The 1930s

Fashion creators design styles for Fall and Winter that seem to hark back to the 1930's. They are slim, nonrestricting, supple and easy. They fit the shoulders and emphasize the waist. Some are tunics or feature tunic effects. The fluid, graceful look of a bygone era seems to have been inspired by Italy's recent television broadcasting of the films of Dietrich, Garbo, Harlow and Lombard. The essence of the 1930's has been captured and fitted into today's fashion tempo and was the characteristic which marked recent alta moda showings in Rome and at Florence's Pitti Palace.

For day, there are four schools of thought represented in four distinct lines: the arc—shell curved, very rounded shoulders contrasted with a small bust and slightly fitted front; the bulky — achieved with broad shoulders and double breasting teamed on a straight body; the tunic—most often seen in narrow-shouldered suits and coats; the fitted wand — hugging the ribcage and stretching the waist and gently fulled from the waist onward.

Skirts are straight, never narrow, and are made fluidly mobile by folds at the side, broad paneled pleats and apron overskirts.

Collars are mostly small and mannish, closed and curled over. Big open collars and bulky cuddlers as well as giant ring collars make important appearances.

Waistline treatment is new when belts are broad and high placed or welt seaming underscores hip-lowered waistlines.

The tunic line turns up everywhere in all its mathematical fractions from ¾ to 9-10 in suit jackets and top coats that reveal slim stalks of skirts underneath. Skirt lengths remain short but it's possible that the tunic line will bring longer skirts back. Perhaps Italian designers will slowly drop the length of the skirt underneath inch by inch. This movement is not yet underway but it could well be that Italian designers have prepared the ground.

Fabrics for day are as smooth as billiard table felt and appear in the Fall neutrals, grey and beige. Designers show strong preferences for velours, reversible wools, covert cloths and cavalry twills in conservative and plain colors. Bright reds, hot pinks and purples make vivid splashes of color through collections and there is a touch of yolk yellow and periwinkle blue. Especially smart, the sharp contrasts of black and white and brown and white worn 'round the clock.

Last year's "Robin Hood" look with its chunky tweeds and thigh-high boots has happily been replaced by a svelte city chic that showcases smooth tight-woven fabrics in slim and soft silhouettes.

Kidskin gaiters topping little-heeled pumps are the heaviest form of foot covering.

Afternoon shapes are supple and ladylike, long sleeved and boat necklined and hint at a high waist. Skirts are softly pleated. Favored fabrics are lambswool jerseys often Paisley printed, smooth crepes in silk and wool. The short, bouncy cocktail dress has been eclipsed.

For the theatre, there are stalk dresses teamed with straight coats of blistered silks and herringbone-patterned silvery matelasses. Fitted elongated jackets of matelasse are shawl collared and worn over black chiffon bias - flounced dresses. They are particularly smart and are destined to become Fall's important theatre ensembles.

From graceful late-day dresses we move into evening where the line is long, sweeping and sinuous. Fabrics are mat surfaced and colors either vibrant or black or white. Bright prints bloom at night only in hostess ensembles and palazzo pajamas. Evening dresses look like dinner dresses. Gala gowns are glamorized with fur and feather borders and get their sex appeal from deep decolletes that haven't decided just where to stop.

Collections' bead embroidery is limited but quality is superb and sparkle comes from crystal, silver sequins, steel bugle beads and jet. Shimmer and glimmer replaces multi - color glitter that has bedazzled for so long.

Watch Straps Convert To Match Costume

Convertibles are riding high in watch-fashions. Now there is a wristwatch combining five straps in different hues, straps with as many bezels which allow the wearer to display a total of 25 separate color and style combinations. These can be worn compatibly with almost any item of day or evening apparel.

The watch has 5 leather straps, in various autumn colors, with co-ordinating bezels. Watchface snaps easily into each bezel, and the straps are interchangeable by slipping through sidebrackets. And all under twenty dollars!

ENGAGEMENT of Miss Carole Lucille Taliaferro to Joseph Thomas Caprito, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caprito of Franklin is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Taliaferro of Harrisonburg. The wedding will take place in January, 1965 at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Ferriday.

Women Wise As Money Makers

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — A woman investment banker says that women are as capable as men of making wise monetary decisions — if they read and study to gain a knowledge of the stock market.

Julia Montgomery Walsh, general partner in Ferris & Co., Washington, D. C., so told a conference of women executives meeting here under sponsorship of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. "The most important point is not so much how to invest as how to accumulate capital . . . pay yourself first, invest wisely and build," she said.

TOOTLE 'N TOOT

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than two million new musical instruments were sold in 1962, the American Music Conference reports.

In the year, the per capita expenditure for musical instruments and the necessary accessories was $3.35. The 1950 per capita expenditure was less than $1.60.

Lake Providence Church Scene Of Couple's Vows

Miss Dorothy Mae Marsh became the bride of Alfred L. Schrempp of Dallas, Texas, Saturday, October 10 in a ceremony at 7 p.m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Lake Providence. The Rev. Patrick J. Murphy officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Marsh of Sondheimer and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Schrempp of Norfolk, Virginia.

Vows were exchanged in a setting of white gladioli and emerald fern in brass altar vases. Traditional nuptial music was provided by Miss LaDonna Dupree.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with overskirt of tulle. French Chantilly lace formed the moulded bodice which featured a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in lily points at the wrists. A self bow and full majestic chapel train created back interest. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a yellow throated white orchid.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Betty Marsh, who wore a short gown of pastel blue taffeta with brief lace jacket featuring a high neckline and long sleeves. Her headdress was a half hat of feathers and she wore short white gloves and carried an old fashioned nosegay of yellow carnations encircled by poufs of white satin ribbon.

S. G. Sanders of Dallas, Texas served as best man for the bridegroom and ushers were William and Jimmy Marsh, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marsh were hosts at a reception in their home at Sondheimer. For the occasion Mrs. Marsh wore a two-piece knit of royal blue with harmonizing accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a dark silk crepe model with matching hat and gloves. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

The reception rooms were decorated with fall flowers. Mrs. Paul Marsh registered guests at a table graced with the maid of honor's bouquet. Punch and cake were served from a table draped with white satin and tulle. Miss Joan Machen presided at the punch bowl and Miss Pat Maberry of Shreveport, served the tiered wedding cake. Presiding at the coffee service was Miss Martha Stockstill of Rayville and rice bags were distributed by Kathy and Ann Marsh.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a black and white pin check suit with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Dallas.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe and attended IBM School in Dallas. Mr. Schrempp was graduated from North Texas State College in Denton, Tex.

SERVE SPROUTS

Brussels sprouts are delicious in sweet - sour sauce. Bring to boil in saucepan ½ cup of vinegar, 1-3 cup of sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Add 2-3 cup of seedless raisins. Cover and cook about 10 minutes, until raisins are tender. Makes enough for two (10-ounce) packages of frozen brussels sprouts, cooked as label directs and drained. Serves 8.

Making drop cookies? Take up the dough with a teaspoon or tablespoon; use a teaspoon to drop it onto the baking sheet.

MISS MARILYNN SUE CHAPMAN

December Wedding Planned

A December 5 wedding is planned by Miss Marilynn Sue Chapman and Thomas Freddy Frazier, whose engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chapman of Delhi. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Frazier of Baton Rouge.

The wedding will take place at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Delhi with Rev. Connie Ward officiating.

Miss Chapman has chosen her sister, Mrs. Carole E. Jorstad as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Misses Jerryce Womack, Shreveport; Jane McKibben, Marylyn Calhoun and Carolyn York.

Mr. Frazier has been named by his son to serve as best man and ushers will include Hugh Frazier, Danny Chapman, Richard Frazier and Bobby Jones.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Chapman of Pleasant Hill and Mrs. T. A. Cook and the late Mr. Cook of Jamestown. She is a graduate of Delhi high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. Frazier graduated from Central high school at Baton Rouge and attended Northeast in Monroe. He is the grandson of Mrs. J. H. Frazier and the late Mr. Frazier of Kentwood.

Following their wedding the couple will reside in Baton Rouge where Mr. Frazier is employed.

Add a bouquet garnish to that soup! For the bouquet, tie together a bay leaf, a sprig of thyme, a parsley branch and some celery leaves.

Canned hominy served with crisp bacon rashers and scrambled eggs makes a great main course for brunch. Add fried tomato slices if you like.

Women Voters League Holds Annual Tea

The Monroe-West Monroe League of Women Voters held its annual tea at Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Sunday, October 11 from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m.

Guest were welcomed on arrival by Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, president, Mrs. R. W. Gibson, assisted by Mrs. Harold Roberts, registered the new members.

Alternating at the guest registry were Mrs. Lloyd Walters and Mrs. Billie Harrell. Miss Fannie Oxford presided at a table from which she distributed league literature.

A mass arrangement of red gladioli and white asters, interspersed with lighted blue tapers formed patriotic central decor for the tea table. Alternating at the large silver coffee urn from one end of the table were Mrs. A. L. Harrington and Mrs. Carl H. McHenry, while Mrs. James A. Noe and Mrs. Amie Cook served tea opposite.

Extending courtesies as floating hostesses throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Nita Golson, Mrs. Aline Banister, Mrs. Charles P. Chisholm, Mrs. H. S. Chilton, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale. Mrs. Louis Gruber served as general chairman for the affair.

Approximately 125 guests called during the appointed hours.

Several parties this week have honored NANCY HAMMONS, who moved to Houston, Texas, yesterday with her parents, the GARLAND HAMMONS. Last Saturday at noon, Nancy's first party was a luncheon on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Hostesses for this affair were LIZA SCHONLAU, MARY PRICE, MARY LYNN ROGERS, and CLAIRE SCHONLAU. Decorations carried out a fall theme, with pumpkins filled with pyracantha branches placed on low round tables at each end of the porch. Running the length of the luncheon table were pyracantha branches, with pumpkins and ornamental gourds placed at intervals. Thirty guests were served a luncheon of hamburgers with chocolate sundaes for dessert.

Tuesday afternoon CYNTHIA TERZIA honored Nancy at a conversational hour at her home. Bouquets of fall chrysanthemums decorated the living porch where about fifteen girls gathered for snacking and chatting. Refreshments included hot biscuits with ham, and assorted cookies, served with punch.

BETSY TAYLOR invited Nancy and hostesses of her farewell parties for supper at Bayou DeSiard country club Wednesday evening. The table in the bay window was covered with a yellow cloth and featured a parade of dolls dressed in foreign costumes. Banners said "Good-by", "Au Revoir", "Aloha", "Adios", and "Sayonara". The menu served to seven guests included fried chicken, French fried potatoes, green salad, and choice of desserts.

Meanwhile, Nancy's mother, JEAN HAMMONS, was entertained at luncheon by her bridge club Wednesday at Bayou DeSiard country club. The girls presented their departing member with a set of after dinner coffee spoons.

• • •

To welcome their new neighbor, DONNA WICKER, residents of the block were invited for coffee at CLARA MONTGOMERY's Wednesday morning. Donna has recently moved into her new home at 1804 Park Avenue. Clara centered her table with a brass basket filled with persimmons and grapes. With coffee, she served chicken salad sandwiches, pound cake, rotel cheese dip and pecans.

Another "new home" party was the surprise housewarming which honored SALLY and DAVID MARCHMAN at their new home on Gouville Drive Friday night. About sixty friends took part, bringing covered dishes for buffet supper. They presented the Marchmans with silver beakers engraved with their initials.

Bastrop residents HELEN and JAMES MADISON were named guests of honor when SANCY and HILLMAN MADISON, BETSY and JACK FILES were hosts at a dinner party Friday night at the Madison home on Sherwood Drive. A Mexican theme was carried out in appointments. A Mexican cloth covered the table, with the centerpiece being an arrangement of large Mexican paper flowers with a pair of metal fighting cocks. The menu served to thirty guests included hot tamale pie, green salad, cornbread sticks and tortillas with Chianti wine; tarts and coffee for dessert.

Clever invitations were in the mail this week for the dance planned Saturday, October 24, by Cotillion dance club members. The Hallowe'en theme noted on invitations is to be echoed in decorations at the Paragon ballroom. Casual attire is in order for the party, when the Red Tops will play from nine until one. New officers for the Cotillion are MARTHA UPSHAW, president; DONNA LEWIS, vice - president; SALLY MARTIN, treasurer; and CAMILLE DENNIS, membership.

Stockholder members of Bayou DeSiard country club are invited to the traditional complimentary buffet which is served preceeding the annual meeting. This year's meeting is to be this coming Tuesday, October 20, with the buffet to be served beginning at six p.m.

Patron members of Little Theatre, along with officers, board members, and trustees, opened the season at Strauss Playhouse with the Patrons' Preview performance Thursday evening. Gusts of gaiety, ranging from giggles to guffaws, swept the audience as the play "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" went its hilarious way. A matinee is set for this afternoon, and then the play closes to re-open Thursday night for four evening performances next week-end.

Strauss Playhouse will not be dark, however. During the recess of "Who Was That Lady?", try-outs will be held for the next production, "Sunday in New York." This, another gay comedy, is scheduled to open in late November.

Four leading parts, one woman and three men in their twenties; and one man and one woman somewhat older are needed in this cast. Try-outs are set for 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

In lieu of a poem, here are some wise and witty comments by America's great poet, Robert Frost:

I'll discuss anything. I like to go perhaps-ing around on all subjects.

People have got to think. Thinking isn't to agree or disagree — that's voting.

What is required is sight and insight — then you might add one more: excite.

You can be a rank insider as well as a rank outsider.

I own I never really warmed
To the reformer or reformed.

There's doing good — that's sociology. There's also doing well — that's art. It's the doing well that's important. My little granddaughter said, "I think I would like to do good well." I let her have that one.

As for rhyme and meter in poetry, I'd as soon write free verse as play tennis with the net down.

The greatest thing in family life is to take a hint when a hint is intended — and not to take a hint when a hint isn't intended.

If one by one we counted people out
For the least sin, it wouldn't take us long
To get so we had no one left a thing
To live with.
For to be social is to be forgiving.

Poets like Shakespeare knew more about psychiatry than any 25-dollar-an-hour man.

People keep saying it's not good to learn things by heart, but if you don't have things by heart, what are you going to have to think about when you lie awake and can't sleep at night? Pretty things that are well said — it's nice to have them in your head.

Love is an irresistible desire to be irresistibly desired.

Don't be an agnostic. Be something.

I'm like a modern car in religious matters. I may look convertible, but I'm a hardtop.

A recent Robert Frost Christmas card to his friends was a six-stanza verse with these closing lines:

And I may return
If dissatisfied
With what I learn
From having died.

All the fun's in how you say a thing.

Stretch Biggest Advance Since Wash And Wear

Cotton sportswear is now designed to "give" as well as take it. Heralded as the biggest advance since wash and wear, new all-cotton stretch fabrics are turning up in a variety of ready-to-wear styles for every member of the family.

These cottons look no different from any other and, if you pull them between your fingers, the "give" seems infinitesimal. But it's just enough to provide a new kind of comfort when the fabrics are made into slim slacks, back-spanning jackets, or narrow sheath skirts.

When shopping for stretch fashions, be sure the garment is labeled all-cotton stretch. This is your assurance it will have the added characteristics of coolness and launderability. Notice any other promises of service satisfaction on the label such as Sanforized, color-fastness, and seam strength. The garment manufacturer who makes the extra effort to provide these characteristisc is likely to give you good stretch quality, too.

EARLY RECORDS of the Pilot Club of Monroe are cause for reminiscing by four charter members still active in the club. They are pictured with the 1964 president, Mrs. Evelyn Chilton, seated left, making plans for Founders Day which will be celebrated Tuesday, October 20. Seated with Mrs. Chilton is Mrs. H. G. Thompson and standing left to right are Mrs. Ivy Smith, Miss Mona Martin and Mrs. Warren Harker.

Pilot Club To Observe 43rd Anniversary Here

Observance of the 43rd anniversary of the founding of Pilot International is planned by the Pilot club of Monroe at its program meeting Tuesday evening, October 20.

Now in its 24th year the Monroe club was chartered June 13, 1941 with 20 members and Mrs. Jewel McQuiller as the first president. Nonpartisan and nonsectarian, Pilot is one of the five international classified civic and service organizations for executive business and professional women.

Pilot International was founded in 1921 in Macon, Ga., where a headquarters office was established 18 years later. In honor of the 25th anniversary of Pilot headquarters, the mayor of Macon saluted the organization at its recent 43rd annual convention in New York.

Clubs now number more than 460 with approximately 13,400 membership in the United States and five foreign countries. The organization is administered through 19 districts, each with a governor and lieutenant governor. Miss Phebe Hopper of Corinth, Mississippi, is district governor of District III, with which the Monroe club is affiliated.

Locally, Pilots aim to further the objects of Pilot International towards friendship and service, to promote active participation in movements to improve the civic, social, industrial and commercial welfare of the community.

Each club selects and directs its own civic and service projects. Clubs cooperate with existing community agencies and national and international drives that benefit humanity. In the early days of the Monroe club its projects were many and varied, one of its first being to assist in improving living quarters for WACs stationed at Selman Field. Leading projects of the present day club are dental care for underprivileged children and work with the aged. The Monroe club also sponsors the Easter Sunrise service annually.

Pilot International cooperates with Salk Institute, the National Safety Council and Meals for Millions.

Dixieland Club Discusses Fall Daylily Care

October meeting of Dixieland Daylily Society was held Tuesday night in the Agriculture Building with Mrs. J. G. Haynes presiding.

Members participated in a round table discussion of dividing and transplanting daylilies in the fall and how to care for them during winter.

B. B. Gates, general chairman for the forthcoming regional meeting gave a brief talk on plans for the meeting to be held in the Twin Cities next June.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cobb and Mrs. Effie Horton, who served refreshments from a table decorated in the Halloween theme with a large witch jack o'lantern as the focal point. Those present in addition to the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clay, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Eaker, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates, B. B. Gates, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Mrs. Warren McGee, Miss Mary Frances Horton and Mrs. A. R. Robinson.

GAY PILLOWS

Throw pillows can be a pep pill for your decor. Buy pillows ready made or make your own with uncovered latex foam rubber cushions from an upholstering shop. Cover with felt, silk, cotton, or imitation fur.

EVENING COAT

The evening coat is an important contender for fashion favorite. Brocade and ottoman supplement the satins that have been so prominent in recent seasons. Interlinings, sometimes of fur, make the evening coat practical all winter long.

AFTER DARK

In after - five footwear and "the late late shoe," jewels, beading and important buckles highlight leathers of smooth, suede, and lustre texture. Other pumps and sandals use as their ornamentation only the beautiful leather and the sleek shape of the shoe.

Artiv Chambless Bride Of Carroll L. Rundell Jr.

Miss Artiv Chambless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Chambless of Tallulah became the bride of Carroll Lorenzo Rundell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lorenzo Rundell of Delhi, on Thursday, October 8.

The candlelight ceremony was performed at 7:30 p.m. in the Mission of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Houston Roberts officiated at the double ring vows following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Ronnie Kenredy.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, etched with pearls and long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. G. W. Kelly of Vicksburg, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a sheath gown of blue peau de soie with white accessories and carried a bouquet of blue carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Sandra Chambless, also a sister of the bride, wore a pink peau de soie gown with white accessories and flowers to match her dress.

Miss Dawn McCarty, flower girl, was dressed similar to the matron of honor. Scott Kelley acted as ring bearer.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Allen Ashley and groomsmen - ushers were Russell Antley, Ray Whittaker and Dan Rainwater.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church annex where the lace covered refreshment table was centered with a mass arrangement of white flowers. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. R. L. Antley, Mrs. Lee Gunn, Mrs. F. G. Copes, Mrs. Huey Garcin and Mrs. Doug Walker.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a blue wool sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will reside in Tallulah and Mr. Rundell will commute to Vicksburg, Miss., where he is employed.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Taste In Toothpaste No Basis For Romance

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl almost 16 and in love with a boy I've never met. We've been writing to each other for six months. Rollie is in the Navy. We started to correspond when my cousin who is his bunk-mate showed him my picture.

Please don't be like my mother and tell me I'm too young to be in love. I've read all about love and this is it.

Rollie and I agree on everything, right down to the brand of toothpaste we like best. The only thing we don't have in common is religion. We can solve this problem later.

Rollie gets his leave in a few months and he wants to come out here to make my acquaintance. We are thinking about getting married. I can finish school later. Please give me some encouragement. My mother goes wild when I bring up the subject. — WISHING AND HOPING

Dear W & H: Sorry, Toots, but I'm not going to encourage a kooky, mail order romance built on toothpaste.

It's rough enough these days to make a marriage work when two people KNOW each other. What chance would a couple of pen pals have? Stay in school and cool it.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago my wife and I told my friends we were planning a trip to London, Paris and Rome. Two weeks before our departure several friends came by the house to ask if we would do "a little shopping" for them.

We had requests for French kid gloves, woolen yard goods, perfume and wrist watches. A neighbor asked for whiskey "if we should stop at Shannon." My cousin brought over a list which covered three countries.

My wife is the type who can't say "no." Now she must devote several days of her vacation to shopping for friends.

Will you please say something in your column about this? Perhaps people who ask such favors aren't really aware that the customs allotment is $100 per person. Then there is the expense of excess weight on planes, not to mention the time and energy required to go hunt up the articles. Thank you. — ANNOYED

Dear Annoyed: The bold and brassy — ever ready to impose — will always be with us.

If your wife can't say "no" to these clods she gets no sympathy from me. Let her pay the excess weight, wear out her shoes and spend her vacation time shopping. Real friends don't ask such favors.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me how often the wife's father and mother should visit, and how long they should stay? My wife's parents lived in Washington State and have retired to Wyoming. We make our home in Florida.

They visit us for two weeks every six months. One visit is always at Christmas time. It seems to me that one visit a year, for about five or six days, should be just about right.

I'm sure others have this problem. Will you express your views? — HAD E. NUFF

Dear Had: Some in-laws are overdoing it, why not discuss with your wife the possibility of inviting them — specifically for five or six days — at Christmas. Period. I see no reason for people to have guests oftener or for longer periods than they want them.

When necking becomes petting watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BE AN AMERICAN IN PARIS via the Chanel Influence. Dalton of America's translation of that easy look that has become so popular in America includes a marvelously textured mohair tweed, knit in hues of green and blue. Punctuated with brass buttons and contrasting braid, the hip-length jacket opens gently over a cowl-necked pullover.

SUITED TO CAMPUS, a three-piece set hued in brilliant peacock blue. The brass-buttoned double-breasted jacket dips to a low V to reveal a darkly contrasting shell blouse. The flat wool knit suit by Dalton of America, will pass all fashion courses for coeds and young junior executives alike.

Fall Nod Goes To Knit Suits

Where's the action this Fall in fashion? In the knit suit!

An unsinkable style for ages, this season's suit is "Go-Go" from morning to night and shows up in a range of the hottest colors and textures to hit the market in many an Autumn.

The days of drab tones that marked the advent of cold weather have gone forever. Falling leaves are now a cue for women to step out in peacock blues, poppy reds and startling combinations of red with orange or turquoise with emerald.

Dalton of America and its James Kenrob line lead the field with their collections of brilliantly hued wools suits, knit from a variety of textures and effects that set off the sleek styling that has become so popular with American women.

Intricate hand knit looks, basket weaves and bold diagonal tweeds are illuminated with brass buttons, braid trim and Chanel pockets. Flat knits, leaders of every collection, show up in unusual color combinations that mark them as "musts" for every wardrobe.

Dalton's styling reflects the easy approach to the American way of fashion. Low slung jackets, hip-height double-breasted closings, straight-line cardigans and sleeveless tops open low at the neckline to reveal contrasting shells and softly draped or bowed blouses that complement the stricter lines of their suits.

Women Like Pants Suits For Stadium Wear

While few women have taken up the idea of the pants suit for town, many have grabbed it for such fall occasions as going to football games. Such sportswear designers as Ellen Brooke have taken up the pants suit with an enthusiasm matched only by the wearers who have at last something that can keep them warm in cold stadiums.

Since the straight cut of the pants and the good tailoring of the jackets make these outfits real costumes, not mere mismatches their look is one of neat fashion. They are worn with turtleneck pullovers in white, red or black, depending on the color of the pants suit.

Ski lodges will also see these pants suits, some in tweeds, for spectators, some in velvet for after - ski hours.

New Softer Shape, Lines Appear In Fall Dresses

The look is soft, softer, softest in fall's dress fashions. The gentle woman makes her bow, feminine, shapely, prettier than ever.

She'll be wearing curvier shapings, skirts that move and flutter as she walks, exciting new necklines. She'll have the "head-to-toe" look, in costumes or jacket dresses. She'll wear rich, vintage shades; lots of texture; tweeds galore. She'll have her choice of many different looks, all of them marvelous!

The soft feeling in new dresses is exemplified in the blouson. Blousing softly at the waist, or, even newer, at the hip, often fanning out into pleats, this is an important trend.

PLEATS ARE SEEN

Skinny coatdresses in men's wear fabrics or ropey, colorful tweeds skim the body, look wonderful for afternoon wear.

Pleats are everywhere, done in every way — box pleats, hanging from a fitted "tummy band"; unpressed pleats; knife pleats. The trend is toward the "living skirt," providing ease of movement and a breezy, feminine look.

Long sleeves, shoulder yokes and low, fitted hip bands are some details cropping up in many fall dress styles. Belled shoulder lines and high, concave fronts are trends to watch for in afternoon styles.

The costume look is one that all designers endorse. The dress with matching jacket or coat, the two-piece dress with the look of a suit, all convey a finished, coordinated look.

The season's colors read like a list of fine wines — burgundy, claret, all the plum tones from garnet to cerise and mauve are represented, as well as royal-navy, lilac, violet and all the blued reds.

Greens and blues are brighter. Bright sky - blue, kelly, cat's eye green are fresh and new. Rust and brown, earthy tones will be seen in a new tile shade, and svelte black-brown. Off-whites are shown for any time of day, in shades like celery and palest taupe.

Fabrics present a study in contrasts. One group features matted, rope-like tweeds in zingy color combinations. Another group is the men's wear fabrics — checks, herringbones, glen plaids, or subdued oxford gray, deep brown, blackened greens.

Double-knits and wool jerseys are favorites, and texture interest is important.

Putting a crown roast in the oven? Fold squares of aluminum foil over the ends of the chop bones to keep them from charring.

If you buy a club steak that weighs about a pound and is about 1½ inches thick, it will make two satisfying portions. Club steaks may be pan-fried.

Jewelry Should Be Keyed To Occasion, Costume

Carefully selected and tastefully worn costume jewelry can set the tone of any outfit. Today it is acceptable, it need not be expensive, and can be well designed and attractive.

To help you look your best when wearing jewelry, here are a few hints suggested by J. O. Vann, jewelry buyer.

Plan your selection for the time of day,and aim for individuality. A string of pearls is correct at all times going anywhere — to school, a party or to a formal affair. And bead necklaces make attractive, informal, daytime jewelry that can be used with great variety to match or contrast with colors in your dress. Generally, brilliant stones in elaborate settings such as diamonds, rhinestones, rubies, and sapphires are reserved for evening wear.

The flowing lines of pleats, flares, and ruffles are perfect foils for swinging pendants, long chains and looping ropes of beads. With casuals and sweaters a long gold chain with pendant is very smart. Pendants are very much in vogue with the increasing popularity of plunge necklines. They range from initial or heraldic gold-finish pendants to lacy filligree, or large-cut stones in amethyst, sapphire, amber, emerald or ruby.

With a simple dress, wear a rope of beads, a large bracelet, or dangling earrings. (However, if you want to minimize a long, narrow face avoid dangling earrings.) As an alternate, wear an elaborate broach. (The gold look is dramatizing the scene for fall. Tailored gold matching sets are very popular, particularly with suits.) Pins will "catch" on, gracing a hat, cuff, gloves or waistline. Take advantage of a slim waist with a pin at the midriff.

If your dress is feminine, with a delicate air, your jewelry should be severe — wear a pair of plan earrings, a bangle bracelet, a simple pin, or a pearl necklace. Remember that stone-studded elaborate jewelry is out when school is in, and should be reserved until after five.

The jeweled look adds to the excitement of social evenings. Shimmering stones come in many colors to match or blend with the many new fall fashion hues.

The way you wear your jewelry reflects your personality. Choose it with care, concludes Mr. Vann, and go forth to meet the florious fall season and the admiring expressions of approval!

Greenery Adds Decorative Note Indoors

Make generous use of potted plants in your home or apartment to add decorative beauty to your rooms and increase your enjoyment of everyday living, suggests the Society of American Florists.

With a built - in planter, you can supply a border of beauty at a large picture window divide a living and dining area, or partition an area for an entrance hall.

If you fill such planters with plants left in their clay pots, you can use plants with different watering needs, change or replace plants as you wish, and add a seasonal flowering plant for a colorful accent.

You can create essentially the same effect without a built-in planter by using a low table or cart that will accommodate an array of green plants.

Open-shelved room dividers may easily be converted into indoor gardens by adding a collection of interesting plants that can be changed at will.

Portable plants also are very popular. They range from large exotic plants placed on the floor as dramatic room accessories, to the little enchanting dish gardens planted in soil or water and used to decorate the top of a piece of furniture.

Large potted plants may be placed effectively, for instance, by the side of stairways. The small dish gardens, for example, may be hung from the ceilings of studies or bedrooms.

Womack-O'Brian Vows Read In Baton Rouge

The wedding of Miss Pat O'Brian and Jerry Don Womack was solemnized Saturday, October 3 at 2 p.m. in the University Methodist Church of Baton Rouge.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret O'Brian of Hammond and John T. O'Brian of Delhi. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Womack of New Orleans.

Mrs. Womack received her degree in journalism from Louisiana State University and is now employed at the university. The bridegroom received his B.A. degree from LSU and is employed in Baton Rouge where the couple will reside.

Chanel Casual Look Is Result Of Much Detail

Mlle. Gabrielle Chanel, whom many believe to be the most influential designer in the entire century, has attained her throne through one piece of luck, simple longevity, but beyond that lies her sharp-edged skill.

The world-renowned "Chanel look" appears so easy, so casual, yet it is the result of a hundred details, the art that conceals art.

"All is in the proportion" is one of her favorite statements, perhaps the reason why a Chanel suit looks well on women of any age and figure. Chanel suits are a miracle of fit through superior fabric, perfect cut, seams of her own invention. A gold chain is always sewed along the inner bottom edge of jackets to weight them evenly, keep their hang perfect.

Skirts are tailored to minimize the hips and flatten the back, with multiple back seams, hip yokes, ingeniously placed pleats. When the wearer sits, Chanel skirts don't bunch up across the middle in folds.

Colors and patterns have always been a Chanel strong point, the reason why women keep buying new Chanel suits even though the old ones will be good for years. Chanel began her look in the Twenties, when it was a revolution, and has lived to see it a classic of this century in the Sixties.

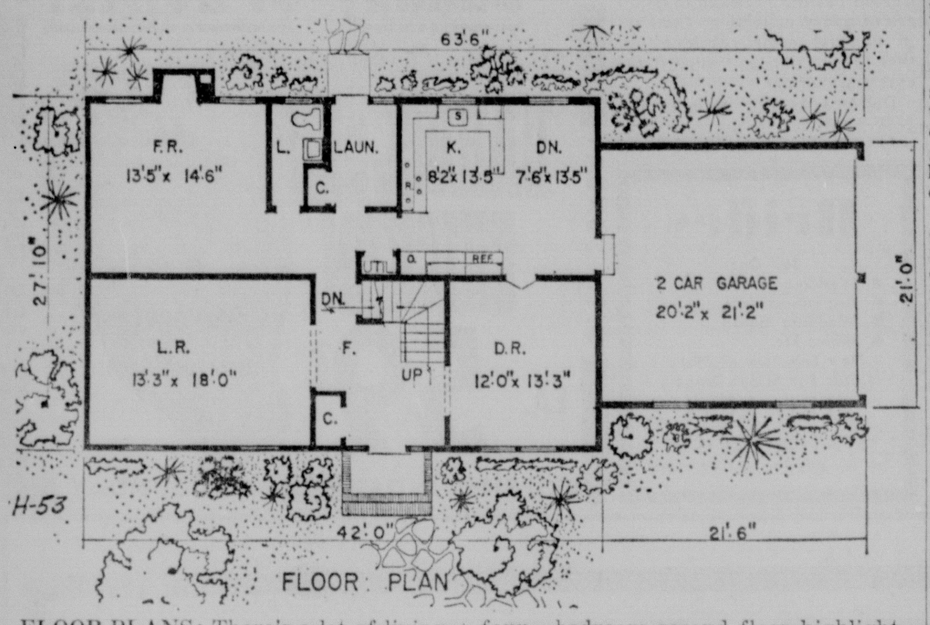
THE PLEASING exterior of this clapboard - cedar Colonial explains why this type of house always gets a second look from passerby. It seems to imply that the occupants are people of good taste.



FLOOR PLANS: There's a lot of living space — 2126 square feet of it — on the two floors of Design H-53, with the four - bedroom second floor highlighted by an open stairwell and two large bathrooms.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Four-Bedroom Colonial Combines Dignity, Charm

By ANDY LANG

Any public preference which lasts from generation to generation must be based on solid value. The continued popularity of the two-story Colonial house is a prime example of this truism. It ranks high in the estimation of home buyers because it presents a dignified but homey appearance and because it gives a large family a lot of house to fit a moderate budget.

The latest House of the Week fits into this concept. Designed by Architect William G. Chirgotis, the exterior exudes old-time charm, with its pleasing combination of narrow clapboards, red cedar shingles and low - pitched asphalt shingle roof. For the large family, it has a total of 2126 square feet of habitable area on two floors, yet the over-all dimensions are bedrooms and 2½ baths make it a home that would be hard to outgrow.

TRAFFIC LAYOUT

The traffic layout is excellent. It is possible to enter the front door and go directly to the family room and kitchen without crossing the living room or dining room. A large and impressive main foyer is the key to the efficient circulation, so that traffic is distributed effectively throughout the first floor areas and the second-floor bedrooms. All rooms have wall areas well suited to various furniture arrangements.

More than 15 feet of width across the back of the combined kitchen and dinette provide sufficient accomodations for the entire family. The U-shape of the kitchen work area is arranged for step-saving convenience, as well as providing a maximum of counter top room and cabinets in a minimum amount of space. The two windows provide plenty of natural light and air, besides affording a clear view of the backyard. Also, there is a connection between the kitchen - dinette and the two-car garage.

LAUNDRY ROOM

A few steps away is the laundry room, with a rear access for the children to get rid of mud and dirt that otherwise might be tracked throughout the house. A lavatory and a family room complete the back-of-the house layout. The modern lines of the fireplace, with its paneled walls, dominate the rear of the family room. Because of the size and location of this room, the formal areas of the house are free from traffic.

At the front, the living room and the dining room are at either side of the foyer; the living room with two separate windows, the dining room with a double window. An attractive staircase leads directly from the foyer to the bedrooms. Of special interest is the open, spacious stairwell which eliminates any feeling of congestion on the second floor.

CROSS VENTILATION

All four bedrooms have cross-ventilation and are liberally supplied with closets. The master bedroom has a private full bath with a stall shower and an angular, full - wall mirrored vanity. The other bathroom is split, with the lavatory in an outer section.

For cost - saving, Design H-53 is rectangular, characterized by maximum use of every square foot of floor space. There is a full basement which can be developed to the owner's taste for recreational purposes.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-53.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

At least twice a year, in the spring and the fall, the home owner should go on an inspection trip — around the outside of his house.

His purpose? To see what needs to be caulked. If he can find and repair small openings in the house while they are still small, he can prevent major trouble later on.

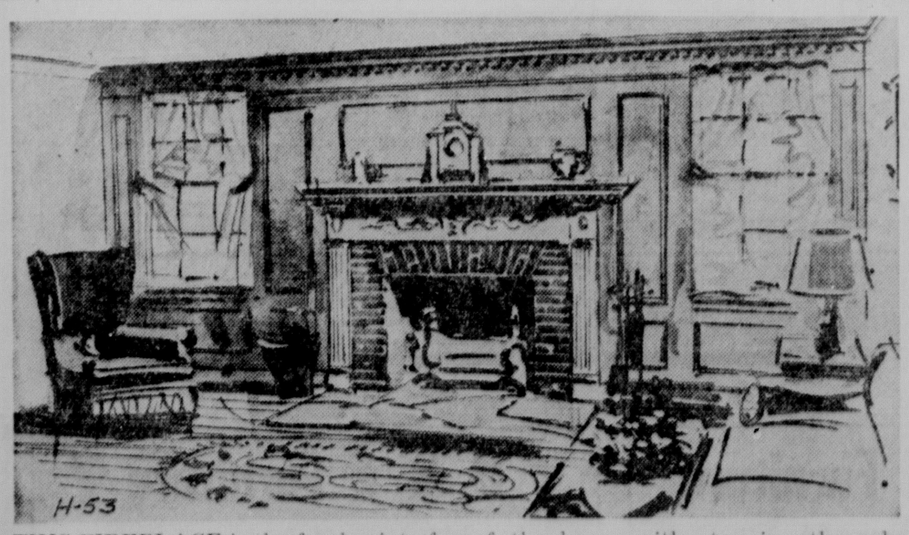
It isn't enough merely to walk around the house quickly, trying to spot openings from the ground. There are some tiny gaps, especially around windows in an upper story, which can't be seen except while standing on a ladder. Especially look for crevices which have developed between dissimilar materials, which do not contract and expand in the same manner.

Caulking compound can be applied from a tube, with a putty knife or with a professional-type caulking gun. The most popular form of application by the home owner, however, is with the small caulking gun, which can be purchased at a moderate price and into which tube-like cartridges are inserted. They are easy to use and they do a good job of filling most openings. Pulling the trigger not only pushes the compound out of the cartridge, it exerts enough pressure to force the material below the surface.

CRACKS

Cracks of various sizes occur in older houses, but sometimes occur even in a house a year or two old because of natural shrinkage. The new compound will not adhere properly if the opening is dirty or damp or loose particles are present. Joints should be cleaned out with a putty knife, chisel or old screwdriver, making certain small bits of old caulking compound are removed. Where the opening is large, use a coarse hemp or oakum to fill most of the gap, then apply the caulking compound.

White or gray compound generally is used for the sides of houses, black for the roof. The white or gray can be left as is, or painted over if desired. Black must be left the way it comes out of the tube, cartridge or container, since it usually contains a substance that will bleed through paint.



THIS FIREPLACE is the focal point of the large family room, which can be reached from either the front or rear of the house without going through any other rooms.

BROADWAY MADHOUSES

NEW YORK (AP)—As a locale for drama, the lunatic asylum is having a flurry of popularity among playwrights.

Two Broadway exhibits this season are set in mental institutions. Arriving first is "The Physicists" by Friedrich Duerrenmatt. Slated later is Peter Weiss' "The Persecution and Assassination of Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade."

Last season, the madhouse trend began with "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Candle Art Presented

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. A. L. Weeks, a member of the Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club, Jonesboro, presented the program for the club on the Fifth District Garden Center show last Wednesday. "The Art of Candle Making," was the subject of the program which was quite timely now since we have adequate time to make those glamorous holiday candles for the festive events just ahead of us.

The wonderful thing about making candles yourself is the saving of expense as well as the individual charm that we can give them. Mrs. Weeks gave such a clear detail of how to start. Melt the wax in a double boiler.

This may be wax from old candles saved or you can buy parrafin wax or regular candle wax. The secret of coloring is very important to know. Use colored crayons or candle coloring not cake coloring. It is important to know before making the candle whether or not you can get it out of the desired mold.

MOLDS

Jello molds are excellent to use, or cake cutters. Grease the inside with unused cooking oil. This makes them come out of the mold easily. Unusual shaped bottles make nice candles. There is an art to using these. Pour a little amount of the melted wax into the bottle then lower the candle wick into it and let it stand until it hardens. This anchors the wick in place. Now finish pouring the wax until the bottle is filled. Hold the wick at the top with a clothes pin.

By the way, pour the wax into a funnel so that none will spill on the outsides. After about four hours, or longer, depending on the size of the bottle, remove the candle from it's mold by wrapping the glass bottle with a wet towel and tapping it with a hammer. This safely brakes the glass and releases the candle. You can buy plastic molds in shapes of flowers or fruits from the paint stores. Pour colored wax into the molds and then let them cool. These may be fastened to the candles to decorate them or use in a decoration with the candle.

LONG LASTING

These burn with the candle as it burns and will last for a long time. Milk cartons are excellent molds for candles. A clever way to invent holes (resembling Swiss cheese) is to place ice cubes in the container, then pour the wax over them. A hole in the bottom of the carton holds the knotted end of the wick in place. When the cubes melt this leaves the irregular holes and crevices. When the candle burns down the light from the flame will gleam from these holes in fascinating flickers. If the candle is multicolored it is even more interesting.

A nice way to display the the festive candle is with the evergreens such as clipped pine or holly. Place the candle on styrafoam and anchor the evergreens around it. This will hold up without water throughout the holiday season.

WOODLAND SCENE

Mrs. Weeks displayed a woodland scene by using driftwood on a round mirror base. A collection of woods fungus and moss completed the scene. A large pillar type candle was placed to the back of the driftwood. This reflected a soft light that made the whole design look like a moonlight water scene. Just wonderful for a conversational design in the den.

Two large candles placed (tiered) on a masco tray finished in white, made a lovely design. Light green grapes placed at the base of the candles finished this design which would be lovely for the buffet table or hall table during Christmas holidays.

Do you have an old fashioned table in your attic or store room. The leg is quite valuable. When cut off it will make an elegant candle holder. Sometimes the finish of the wood needs very little polishing, but if the finish is pretty well gone, then you can use the new plastic paint that is on the market now. You can get the antique finish. This requires very little work — just one rubbing with sand paper, then apply. It is marvelous to see the effect. This type candle is nice to use in pairs or singly on either side of the fireplace or on a hall table to greet your guests as they enter your home.

STRESSES USE

Mrs. Weeks stresses the use of candles the whole year around. They always add a festive note or a cheerful atmosphere any day of the month. By adding candle perfume to them you can have something glamourous at meal time, especially when company calls.

We all hated to see this program end. Mrs. Weeks promises to come again.

Wednesday — Dr. John Wright, Louisiana Tech, will be back with us. Fifth District Judges Council meets Wednesday. All judges will be expected to attend.

Make a note of the important date — Oct. 24 - 25, Chrysanthemum Exposition at L. S. U., Baton Rouge. Please attend and bring horticulture specimens. LGCF president, Mrs. Frank Jordan, urges your help to make this first chrysanthemum show a beautiful success. All garden club members are invited to participate. This show is jointly sponsored by L. S. U. and Louisiana Garden Club Federation. It is open to all amateur and commercial growers of chrysanthemums. The deadline for entries is 9:30 A.M. Saturday, Oct. 24. The show is open to the public at 12 - noon until 8:30 P.M. Oct. 24, and 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. Oct. 25. "Around the World With Mums," is the theme of the design division which will feature 30 arrangers from throughout Louisiana. Other highlights of the show will be Japanese flower arrangements by chapters of Ikebana International and exhibits by schools and stations that grow mums. The L. S. U. gardens will be open to the public.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Valuable Old Specimens

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Mature plantings of trees and shrubs provide a restful atmosphere that is non-existent in new gardens and landscapes. Even a few grown shrubs can impart this quality to some degree. For this reason, one should think twice before removing all of the older shrubbery or trees from a landscape or foundation planting when revamping is under way.

The main reasons why we have to revamp foundation plantings lie in the fact that most of us planted unsuitable shrubs around our houses some time back or that we have failed to keep them properly pruned. If any feeling of maturity is to be kept when we begin to do such plantings over, some of the best pieces should be pruned back and kept in the planting at least until the new plants grow a bit.

ORNAMENTAL SHRUBS

Some of the city houses in Columbus, Georgia were built a century ago and planted with the ornamental shrubs of that day. Today, they look like peaceful havens of rest compared to the modern buildings whose foundation plants are only a few years old. There is not always room on the smaller properties of our day for bushes of sweet breath of spring and the larger quinces, but even a few of the larger shrubs can be allowed to grow to maturity to good effect.

A vist to some of the older gardens and cemeteries where the shrubs have been "neglected" will show you how magnificent the flowering quinces, pomegranates, vitex, azaleas and camellias can be when allowed to grow to their real maturity. This does not mean that they should never be pruned at all. Most of these oldsters were started off the right way in their youth. Chopping down the big shrubs to fit small places is the thing that should never be done. If they are too large, remove them and put in something suitable.

SHAPING

Older shrubs do not have to be left, untouched, in a new planting or landscape group. A little shaping and touching up is usually necessary when they have been neglected for several years. Long growths that are out of character for a shrub may be totally removed at ground level, but be sure that you do not destroy too many branches or eliminate an artistic effect. They can always be taken out later if they do not contribute anything to your picture.

Gardeners are more puzzled, perhaps, about how to re-shape old broadleaf evergreens than about any other pruning operation. As we have stated in the column before, even old ligustrums that have had an annual "haircut" type of pruning can often be remodeled.

Reach down into the bushes and remove about six to twelve inches of stem and a chunk of the thickest bushy growth here and there all over the surfaces. This will allow light and air to get in, and new growth will begin to arise from down inside.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Inspiration for the early Christmas shopper in the new product news.

A gift for the whole family — especially one with the photography bug — is a new 35mm color slide projector handsome enough to hold its own in the living room as a permanent piece of furniture. Encased in a grained walnut case, about the size of a silver chest or large jewelry case, it has swing - away doors front and rear, making it ready at a moment's notice. Fully automatic, it features a selftimer for changing slides at pre - selected intervals, electrically - powered remote control with pointer light. It takes up to 80 slides.

Also ideal for the family to give itself for Christmas, or anytime, a new Stereo Sound Center, incorporating stereo phonograph, AM - FM- FM stereo tuner and stereo tape deck. The tape deck will help the student improve his French accent; the thespian to rehearse by himself or hear the greats of the theater; let Mom send talking letters to family and friends away from home; help Dad rehearse speeches, get business ideas down while they are fresh. Transistorized, with an 8-speaker sound system, it comes in a handsome, long and low walnut veneered console.

For the advanced or professional skin diver, a watch to calculate the decompression pause required before surfacing would be most welcome under the Yule tree. At depths down to 149 feet, the watch tells a diver how long he's been submerged, whether or not he requires a decompression pause before surfacing, and how long this period should be. Although waterproof to 1,000 feet, it calculates only to the 149 - foot level, beyond which there is strong danger of "divers' narcosis."

The family golfer will appreciate a package of "Tee Whizzes" in the toe of his Christmas stocking. The new practice tee is said to prevent slicing and hooking and to encourage longer, straighter drives. In appearance it looks like an ordinary tee with one side of the cup extended upwards to the height of the ball. A bulls-eye shows the golfer where to hit and an arrow shows him where to aim.

It takes a teenager to appreciate the "Gonk" but they find him irresistable. The far-out stuffed dolls, created by British TV cartoonist Robert Benson, are designed to "make people happy." The selecton includes Mac - Gonk, a bag - piper; Eskimo-Gonk, the cool one; Kookie - Gonk, the clown; Gone-Gonk, the hepster; Fred-Gonk, the people's Gonk and Upside-down Gonk, who couldn't care less.

Wrap it in style — in newspaper, butcher paper, any old paper, with a new glamor wrap kit. Any paper can be sprayed red, gold or silver, in an endless array of patterns formed by household objects such as bottle tops, clothespins, straws, string used as stencils; ornaments such as pine cones, buttons and tapes, sequins, glitter and cutouts. It's easy to key the wrapping to the gift or occasion. The kit includes three 8-oz. spray cans, a teaching manual, drop cloth, masking tape and starter sheet of stencils.

New Insect Controls

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Some very unique materials are being used by our U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists to repel insect pests. One of these is aluminum foil. Strips of foil, placed between rows of plants and around borders of plots, reduce aphid infestations by 96 to 98 per cent in tests made at Beltsville, Maryland.

The scientists do not know, however, why the aluminum repelled the aphids. They are now looking into this and into the possible practical application of this technique.

Caladiums stop growing with the first frost and are usually harvested at that time. The tubers should not be left in the soil during the winter. Those that are left in the soil are likely to be injured by the cold and a great percentage of the tubers will decay.

TUBER LIFTING

Great care should be taken to lift the tubers with as little injury as possible. Each injury is a potential area where rot can attack the tuber. Remove enough soil with each tuber so that unnecessary mechanical injury will not occur. The tubers can then be washed to remove the excess soil. If there is a sign of thrips or aphids attacking the plants, the tubers should be dusted with DDT for thrips and nicotine dust for aphid control. Store tubers in a shady cool place. They may be put into old nylon stockings and hung from a ceiling in a storage room.

Seed that can be planted this fall are sweet alyssum, calendula, cornflower, larkspur, petunia, phlox, early sweet pea, sweet William, four o'clock, English daisy, shasta daisy.

NEW IN SHOPPING

Maybe you, Mrs. Homemaker, may have a new type grocery store in the future, a punch card type. Hugh Robinson, U.S. Agricultural Attache in Sweden reports a store in Stockholm now sells groceries by punch cards. He reported that when you go into the store, you don't find shelves stacked high with various foods as in American supermarkets. Instead, there are only samples of the products or dummy packages. Under the samples are trays of punch cards like those used in certain types of computer machines. The shopper picks up one of these cards for each item she buys and takes them to a check-out point. Here the cards are fed into a machine which produces a list of the goods selected, prices, tax and total cost. This list then goes to the stockroom where the order is filled. In the meantime, the shopper has paid her bill and is waiting for her groceries.

But would American shoppers like it? It's hard to say. Most homemakers would find it hard to give up the habit of shaking packages and thumping melons. But if prices were lower and service faster, many might find it appealing. The new system makes exact inventory control possible. Expensive display space is cut. Shopping carts aren't necessary and pilfering becomes difficult.

HINTS TO HOMEMAKER

If you are wise, Mrs. Homemaker, you will transfer a couple of pounds of baking soda from packages to canister, old oatmeal box or similar container that has an easily removable lid. Label the container "Fire" or baking soda in big bold letters. Please place it within arms reach of the range and reserve this soda for fires only.

If you have this ready, many a fat flare up in the skillet will be nipped in the bud. Baking soda is an excellent fat fire extinguisher. The soda releases carbon dioxide when heated and acts as a smothering agent.

Don't try to smother the fire with flour or other things. Baking soda is the chief ingredient of many commercial fire extinguishers. There's one big advantage to using soda as a fat fire extinguisher. It's a pure food product and can't harm whatever has been aflame. If the meat has not burned, simply rinse it and heat it up again and serve it.

CREDIT

How much do you pay for credit, Mrs. Homemaker. It's easy to figure how much you pay, simply add the down payment, and the total monthly payments. Subtract the cash price of the item. The difference is the price you pay for credit.

A THOUGHT

Homemade happiness costs less, lasts longer, and is worth more than any other kind of family joy.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: The wooden supports of our outside porch appear to be rotting slightly. When we built the porch some years ago, we set the supports on masonry bases 10 inches from the ground as a prevention against termites.

There are no signs of termites, yet the wood is rotting in several places — not very much, but enough to make us worry. I figure that I can patch up the damaged spots, but won't the trouble occur again?

ANSWER: When dry rot attacks wooden supports, it usually means that there is insufficient ventilation under the porch. To provide proper ventilation, cut openings in any enclosed portions of the porch between the ground and the floor and most especially in the sides of the porch steps. First place wooden strips in lattice patterns in the openings, then cover the slats with fine screening. Before patching the supports, be sure they are still in reasonably solid condition. If dry rot has spread too much, the porch will sag and new supports will be needed.

QUESTION: I spilled a can of paint on our concrete basement floor. How can the stain be removed?

ANSWER: It will be harder to remove now than if you had tackled it at once. Use a liquid paint remover, following the directions on the container. It may require two, three or even four applications. When you finally get the stain off, a slight, hardly perceptible discoloration may remain. If so, wipe it vigorously with a cloth saturated with turpentine.

PHOTOGENIC SWANS add graceful action and contrast to this scene at Valeria, Croton-on-the-Hudson, N.Y. One look at the negative revealed a wealth of detail which was appreciated in an enlargement with its full range of tones from pure white to rich blacks.

CAMERA ANGLES

Compare Prints And Negatives

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Too many people who take pictures judge their efforts solely by the prints which they receive from the drug store, camera shop or other commercial processor of films. They look at their results and often decide that they took "bad pictures."

In many cases, however, the "bad pictures" are only bad prints that got by due to machine automation, inadequate checking or the necessity of turning out quantity work rather than quality work.

CHECK PRINTS

A camera fan should always check his prints with his negatives. By doing so, he will eventually be able to "read" his negatives. It is a matter of experience, of studying each batch of negatives and matching prints side by side.

Sometimes obvious printing mistakes are made such as cutting off portions of a person's head or feet. When an important object is photographed too close to the edge of a picture, an automatic printing machine might easily trim part of it away.

However some snapshooters aim at a subject and their marksmanship is poor or the viewfinder sees something different from the lens which actually snaps the picture and as a result an amputation takes place.

Besides such obvious printing errors, some pictures are too dark or too light and it is only by knowing something about negatives that the fault can be pinned on the photographer or the printing machine. A perfectly good negative can be printed too light, too dark or out of focus. A good sharp print can not be made from a badly underexposed, badly overexposed or out-of-focus negative.

PROPER VIEWING

To view a negative properly, the shiny gelatine side is held facing the eye. If the dull, slightly embossed emulsion side faces the eye, the picture would be seen in reversed position. A negative is held at the very edges to prevent fingerprint marks on its surface. The quality of a negative is judged looking through it at a light or a white surface.

A negative may be described as thin, normal or heavy. A thin negative is transparent and indicates underexposure or possibly, underdevelopment. A heavy negative is dense or black and indicates too much exposure or overdevelopment. Thin negatives normally result in dark prints while heavy negatives usually result in light, washed-out-looking prints.

In addition, negatives may be contrasty or "soft." A contrasty negative has a combination of thin and dense areas with little range of tones between. A soft negative has little contrast range in its image area.

To compensate for the different types of negatives, printing paper comes in different grades of contrast. A contrasty negative when printed on a 'soft' paper makes a good quality print whereas a soft negative gets its sparkle by printing or a contrastly grade of paper.

CANNOT COPE

However, automatic printing machines cannot cope with some problem negatives of extreme contrast. They demand individual attention. By skillful manipulation, the dense portions of a negative can be "burned in" or exposed longer while the thin areas can be "dodged" or held back and the work is most easily done on an enlargement.

There is great satisfaction in store for the camera fan who gets a sparkling enlargement from a negative which first yielded a poor or washed-out print from a commercial finisher. It can happen to more camera fans if they study their negatives and learn how to "read" them.

STAMP NEWS

Many Issue Stamps On Olympics

The Olympic Games to be held in Tokyo are almost at hand and many countries have been issuing stamps honoring the occasion. The latest sets to be received here are from the African nations of Dahomey, Ghana, Nigeria and Togo.

Ghana's set contains seven designs. Depicted are: track, hurdles, boxing, broad jump, soccer, carrying the Olympic torch and the Olympic emblem and flags. Nigeria's stamps show a pair of boxing gloves and high jump action. Dahomey's set has three values featuring boxing and cycling. All three are diamond - shaped. Togo's Olympic stamps picture soccer, track, discus throwing and tennis.

The new edition of the 1965 U. S. - BNA (United States and British North America) catalog has just been released by the H. E. Harris Co. This authoritative book, containing 160 pages with nearly 2,000 illustrations, has over 3,600 price changes. Also featured is a special enlarged "Americana" section and the valuable U. S. stamp identifier. Virtually all U. S. issues are included: postage, airmails, postage dues, special delivery, revenues, envelopes, etc.

Priced at only 50 cents, the catalog is shipped post-free to any point in the United States. Write H. E. Harris & Co., Box "A," Boston 17, Mass.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced that a 5-cent postage stamp will be issued on Nov. 21 to commemorate the dedication of the Verrazano - Narrows Bridge connecting Staten Island and Brooklyn, N. Y. The bridge is the longest single suspension span in the world. Giovanni de Verrazano discovered New York Bay in 1524. First-day ceremonies for the new stamp will be held in conjunction with the celebration being planned for Nov. 21 to mark the opening of the bridge. Details on obtaining first day covers will be reported in this column as soon as they are received.

Polish Chieftain Not Astonished At Red Switches

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka said Saturday that ousted Soviet Premier Khrushchev had told him a year ago he thought of resigning.

"I was therefore not astonished by the news from Moscow," Gomulka told a rally in Warsaw.

"The main thing is that the policy of the Soviet Union will remain unchanged along the lines declared by the 20th and 22nd congresses of the Soviet Communist party," he declared.

At the 20th congress, Khrushchev denounced Stalin. At the 22nd he promised the people more consumer goods.

Gomulka spoke at a mass rally organized in Warsaw to meet Premier Janos Kadar and Hungarian leaders visiting Poland. He spoke about Polish-Hungarian trade and toward the end of his speech turned to the dramatic events in Moscow.

"Because of the position the Soviet Union has in the world, every change in Soviet leadership is more widely discussed than changes in Western governments," Gomulka said. "But every change has a reason. The changes in Soviet Union are an internal matter of that country.

"There were reasons why the Central Committee of the Soviet party accepted Khrushchev's resignation despite his great merits. But the Soviet Central Committee is the only one to weigh the importance of those grounds.

"Comrade Khrushchev told me last autumn he was then thinking of giving up his functions and therefore I was not greatly surprised learning of his resignation.

"Every Communist party is sovereign and responsible for decisions made for its country.

"For Poland and for all other nations the most important thing is that the general line of the Soviet policy will be continued along the lines set at the 20th and 22nd party congresses."

CURTAIN CALL

By JACQUE BIEGENWALD

Tickets still are available for the five remaining performances of "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With," the matinee this afternoon, and the evening performances on Oct. 22, 23, 24 and 25. If you haven't seen Little Theater's really funny opening comedy, plan to attend on one of these dates.

The best seats always go first, of course, as well as large blocks of seats, so don't wait too long to place your reservation. Come by the theater on Lamy Lane or call 323-1235 after 12 noon today.

Following a policy begun last year of playing two week - ends instead of a straight run, we now have three days mid-show when the theater is dark. Two of these nights are set aside for tryouts for the next play. In that way, Executive Director Lonny Fraze is already casting his next production before the last one has finished its run.

SECOND PLAY

"Sunday in New York," is the title of our second play, a comedy which concerns the involvements of a sweet young thing from Albany, who discover that she has exhausted the supply of eligible young men in her home town. She journeys to New York for a visit with her brother, looking for fresh worlds to conquer, and sets off a fascinating series of plots, sub-plots and subterfuges involving a Manhatten apartment, a bus, a city street, a movie theater, a Japanese restaurant and a low-slung Ferrari.

The untangling of this maze of loose ends will have our audiences in tears of laughter. It is wildly funny. But, at the climax, happily enough, love and the best man carry the day.

The cast list calls for three men and two women under 30 and one man and one woman a little over 30. Besides these major parts, there are two actors who not only double as scene shifters, but play 10 madly divergent cameo roles.

19 and 20 at Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane.

SUPPORTER

An ardent and talented supporter of Little Theater some 20 years ago was Polly Cole who later pursued a stage career in New York. Now Mrs. Gordon Lindskog, she has just subscribed to titles for her parts as Draycott in "Tea for Three," Emily Webb in our first production of "Our Town," and Mrs. deWinter in "Rebecca." She also appeared in "The Torch-Bearers," and "Town About Man," and writes that she recalls with warmth all her Little Theater activities.

After Norma Brandle finished lettering these tiles, there were just 52 blank spaces left on the Green Room wall. Since the current season is likely to demand this many, we are trying to figure out ways to expand the tile area. We certainly want to make room for the 57 earlier plays that so far lack even a single tile when other actors like Polly Cole want to subscribe.

JOINED CREW

Al Troy not only joined the crew of "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With," but also bought a Green Room tile for his role as Al Linden in last season's opener, "Auntie Mame."

Of the first 25 plays, only "Love is All," still needs a tile and of the last 25 plays, only "Mr. Roberts." The other 55 are all in the middle of our 33 year history and we hope the many fine actors of that period will in time fill all the gaps.

Last week's column ran a little over-long and we didn't have space to offer our congratulations to Grandpa Nobes on attaining his 86th birthday on Oct. 9th. Belatedly, but warmly, we wish him a happy year, and hope he has many more.

Weakened Isbell Chugs Leisurely Through Atlantic

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Winded and weary, the remnants of Hurricane Isbell left clearing skies on the Virginia mainland Saturday as she moved leisurely through the Atlantic.

From Florida to Virginia she left her soggy calling card in rain-swollen rivers and high tides. More than an inch of rain fell Friday night on parts of Virginia before Isbell moved off the coast.

Isbell — what's left of her — edged northeastward at about 18 miles an hour.

As she lost her punch, gale warnings came down on the Atlantic seaboard Saturday, but small craft warnings were still up from Cape May, N.J., to Provincetown, Mass.

Southward from Cape May, where Isbell still managed whip up a few whitecaps, small craft were advised to stay in port.

Heaviest flooding appeared to be in North Carolina, where rescue crews in Rutherford County searched for a man swept over a dam by high water.

Hustler Greene, 39, of Gaffney, S.C., was changing mooring lines on a barge at a dam near the Duke Power Co. steam plant at Cliffisde when his boat overturned and the rushing water carried him away.

Disguise Pays Off

LONDON (AP) — Five robbers, one dressed as a policeman and a second brandishing an antique dueling pistol, held up a jewel shop Saturday and made off with jewelry valued at more than $112,000.

DESPITE ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Your Presidential Vote Nov. 3 Vitally Important

WASHINGTON (AP) — American voters choose between President Johnson and Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater Nov. 3, but the next president won't really be elected until Dec. 14.

That's when the 538 presidential electors meet the 50 state capitals and in the Dist. of Columbia to cast official votes which will decide who will be chief executive.

But don't think that this means your vote Nov. 3 doesn't count. It decides whether electors of one party or another will cast your state's electoral votes.

The Constitution leaves up to the states the decision how electors are to be chosen. In the early years of the nation state legislatures picked them. But since the early 1800s the people have had the responsibility.

A GUIDE

Here is a guide to the Electoral College, a unique governmental institution which though criticized almost from the start, remains a strongly entrenched part of the U.S. system:

How are the electoral votes allocated among the states?

Each state has a number of electoral votes equal to the number of its U.S. senators and U.S. representatives. Thus california, with 38 representatives and 2 senators, has 40 electoral votes. The District of Columbia, which has no congressmen, was given three electoral votes by the 23rd Amendment to The Constitution, effective in this election for the first time. Overall, there are 538 electors, making 270 a majority.

How are electors picked?

Before election day Republicans, Democrats and minor parties in each state pick a slate of candidates for electors and alternates to represent their national tickets. The laws of most states provide that such candidates be chosen at a state party convention. In other states party committees pick them, or they are chosen at a primary election.

Who are the elector candidates?

Usually persons who have served their party long and loyally.

Do electors have to pledge support to the national ticket?

In 34 states including all of the large ones, the laws imply that electors are expected to support their national tickets: The presidential and vice presidential candidates are listed on the ballot. A similar assumption is found in about a dozen states where both presidential and elector candidates are listed on the ballot. Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi have laws providing for running unpledged slates. In Alabama last spring, Democrats decided in a primary to put unpledged elector candidates on the ballot, instead of a slate pledged to the national ticket.

Pledges that electors will support the national tickets are required in Alaska, Arizona, Oklahoma, Florida, Oregon and Pennsylvania. At least 17 other states have laws that specifically instruct the electors to support their national tickets or to abide by the popular vote in the state when they vote in the electoral college. Some states appear to have provisions that permit electors to vote for someone other then the party nominees. There has never been a legal test of whether pledges are binding on presidential electors.

What happens on election day?

Voters, in effect, pick a slate of electors for their state. The electors of the party that gets the most popular votes in the state are empowered to cast the state's vote for president and vice president in the electoral college.

When does the Electoral College meet?

On the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December, this year Dec. 14. Victorious electors in each state meet at the state capital.

How does the Electoral College vote?

Each elector casts one vote for president and one for vice president. The only restriction is that they may not vote for two persons from the same state. The official electoral votes are then sent to the president of the Senate, normally the vice president, but this year Senate President Pro Tempore Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

Have meetings of the Electoral College always been so routine?

The intent of the framers of the Constitution was that the electors would be the wisest men in the nation who would look over the field of presidential and vice presidential possibilities and then choose the men they deemed best. But the growth of the party system and the switch to popular election of electors changed this.

Have any electors in recent elections voted independently?

In 1948 a Tennessee Democratic elector, Preston Parks, voted for States Rights party nominee Strom Thurmond. In 1956, W.F. Turner, an Alabama Democratic elector, refused to vote for Adlai E. Stevenson and voted instead for Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones. In 1960 Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., received 15 electoral votes, 14 from unpledged Alabama and Mississippi electors and one from an Oklahoma Republican, Henry D. Irwin.

Can a presidential candidate get fewer popular votes than his opponent and still be elected?

Yes. For example, a combination of 11 large states and the District of Columbia could provide enough electoral votes to win the election. A candidate could win these states by small margins, lose the other 39 by big margins and have fewer popular votes than his opponent yet still win the election.

These 11 states and their electoral vote totals are: New York 43, California 40, Pennsylvania 29, Illinois 26, Ohio 26, Texas 25, Michigan 21, New Jersey 17, Massachusetts 14, Florida 14, Indiana 13 and the District of Columbia 3 — total 271.

Has the candidate with fewer popular votes ever been elected president?

It has happened three times. In 1824, John Quincy Adams finished second in a four-man field but finally won when the electoral college failed to provide a majority and the election was settled in the House of Representatives. In 1876 Samuel Tilden lost by one electoral vote to Rutherford B. Hayes after leading in popular votes.

KHRUSHCHEV'S RISE AND FALL

Background Reviewed

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Stanley Johnson has know Nikita Khrushchev since he went to Moscow as an American foreign correspondent shortly after the death of Stalin in 1953. He watched Khrushchev and talked with him over the years, not only in Moscow but on trips to the Soviet hinterland and abroad. This is Johnson's assessment of Khrushchev's rise and fall.)

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev was forced out of power this week by the very sort of painless purge he invented to replace the bloodbaths of Stalin's day.

For the past 10 years the world has read of Khrushchev's victims in his ruthless struggle for power. Now, after changing the structure of Communism beyond the imaginings of Lenin and Stalin, after dominating the headlines of the world, the potbellied, near-sighted, balding man of 70 has retreated into an obscurity so deep it may never be penetrated.

'MY FRIEND'

The man who once called President Dwight D. Eisenhower "my friend" and then reviled him; the man who chilled the late President John F. Kennedy at their Vienna meeting, the man who took tea with Queen Elizabeth II has fallen victim to a group of men who proved wilier than the old fox himself.

Just how a Kremlin cabal goes about toppling a man as Khrushchev is one of the chief questions fascinating students of Soviet affairs. They asked the same question when Khrushchev threw out Georgi M. Malenkov on Feb. 8, 1955.

Who is the first one to whisper "Nikita must go" when he knows the penalty is death or exile if overheard? How does he find others determined enough and wily enough to join the conspiracy?

Some but not all of the answers are clear.

First, Mikhail Suslov, the steely chief propagandist of the Soviet Union, presided at the meeting of the Central Committee at which Khrushchev's ouster was declared.

NO TRUST

He must have been the first to say "Khrushchev must go."

Although Suslov was his chief spokesman in the war of words with China, Khrushchev never really trusted him.

Suslov had been the guiding light when the "anti-party group" almost discarded Khrushchev in 1957. Nevertheless, the battered but surviving leader never dared attack him.

Suslov is almost certainly the directing force behind the Kremlin's two new front men — Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, 57, and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, 60.

Secondly, the conspirators bided their time.

Just about everything has been going wrong for the Soviet Union lately, so just about everybody was ready for a change and ready to blame everything on Khrushchev.

The agricultural situation — for which Khrushchev insisted on taking credit or blame — was so bad the country had to go to capitalist Canada and the United States for wheat to feed its people.

The people had gained just enough liberty under Khrushchev's destalinization programs to demand a lot more.

The downgrading of Stalin, in turn, had led to a bitter ideological and nationalistic quarrel with Red China and a loosening of Kremlin control over the East European satellites.

Word that Khrushchev's mortal enemies — the Chinese Communists — were about to explode an A-bomb probably signaled the end for the Soviet leader.

Another coffin nail was driven in by the hand of a dead man: Italian Red chief Palmiro Togliatti.

Togliatti's cohorts in Rome published, a few days after his death Aug. 21 during a health cure on the Soviet Crimea, a manifesto he had written just before. In it he proclaimed that there were quarrels in the Kremlin which should be publicly aired and declared the Italian party's independence of Moscow.

Togliatti also refused to go down the line in support of Khrushchev's world red summit conference to read the Chinese out of the Communist movement.

This was as nasty a shock as Khrushchev could have had: He, and those who followed him, always had counted on the total loyalty of the Italians.

This final stroke, however, was no sudden move. It had been perfectly obvious for months that Khrushchev, traveling abroad or frittering time away with peasants in the boondocks, was not in control of the highly centralized government in Moscow.

The now ousted Premier must have contributed to this situation himself, and he must have known that one of the unpleasant results would be denunciation in his old mouthpiece, Pravda, as a hairbrained braggert who sought dictatorship and refused to take into account current achievements in science and industry.

TO HARD

Although the Soviet Union's downward course during the past four years would have gotten any leader thrown out, it is true that Khrushchev suffers from a heart condition and high blood pressure — the first mentioned official excuse.

It is also true that Nina Petrovna Khrushcheva, whom he married in 1924, has been urging him to retire. Nina Petrovna, a red sharpshooter during the Bolshevik revolution who once almost singlehanded, drove Nikita to the top, never liked the Kremlin spot once she got it. She thought her husband worked too hard.

Her aim changed from rifle targets to top spots for her children and grandchildren. She pushed them forward at every chance.

That was one of the chief charges made by the Central Committee against Khrushchev — giving his relatives too many jobs.

The best known was son-in-law Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the government newspaper Izvestia. But granddaughter Julia had a job on the trade union newspaper Trud, a son-in-law was director of the Kiev opera and Khrushchev's brother-in-law Mikhail Sholokhov, author of "And Quiet Flows the Don", was singled out for more honors than any other Russian writer.

In late years Khrushchev has been pictured as the virtual dictator of Russia, a charge Pravda made against him Saturday. Western leaders all assumed nothing could be done unless they could talk with him personally.

Until 1957, however, Khrushchev pictured himself as the leading exponent of "collective leadership." He scoffed at Western correspondents — including this one — who told him in cocktail party conversations they thought he was an awfully lot more equal than the others.

It was while visiting Finland in June 1957 that the old infighter got word that the party Presidium had its knives aimed straight at his back.

He hurried to Moscow and, in one of the most dramatic last-act climaxes in history, twisted those knives right back into the chests of those who had been aiming them—the great surviving names of early day Communism. There thye were — V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich, Georgi M. Malenkov, Marshal Georgi Zhukov — foiled at the last minute by the Johnny-come-lately miner's son from the Ukraine border.

TOUGH MAN

Khrushchev was a tough, brilliant Communist leader who nevertheless made his biggest personal impact as the Kremlin caperer and playboy of the Presidium.

While plotting his power moves against party opponents or conniving against capitalist states, he kept them all off guard with parties, picnics and pithy peasant sayings.

If for nothing else, Khrushchev will go down in history as the man who stripped at least the surface mystery from the Kremlin.

I first met Khrushchev informally Nov. 29, 1954, when he bubbled into the Yugoslav Embassy arm-in-arm with then-Premier Malenkov and came right over to the small knot of Western correspondents at that time permitted in rigidly controlled Moscow.

It was his way of dramatizing the relatively relaxed post-Stalin era and getting maximum publicity, at the same time, for his plans to kiss and make up with Yugoslav President Tito whom Stalin had banished from Kremlin grace.

This was just the start and from then on if Khrushchev wasn't giving a party, he was going to one.

Talk Mounts Of Early Boost In Steel Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk of a possible steel price increase mounted the past week.

The speculation was heightened by a few small, selective boosts.

In some quarters the discussion centered on when — before or after election — not if an increase will come.

Meanwhile, the General Motors strike droned into its fourth week with its effects beginning to spread to other industries.

The steel price increase talk was spurred by a statement by Logan T. Johnson, president of Armco Steel Corp., that a need for a price increase exists now.

He told a news conference that even before the added cost of any new labor settlement "we have quite a few steel products on which our margin of profit isn't as good as it should be."

He mentioned some grades of plate, some grades of sheet and bar products. Products needing price increases cover more than half of Armco's line, he added.

Earlier, top executives of U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Inland Steel Co. had expressed dissatisfaction with profit margins.

Price increases on steel reinforcing bars were raised by four major producers, U.S. Steel, Armco, Inland and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Bars, which account for about 4 per cent of over-all steel product shipments, are used to strengthen concrete in construction work.

Crucible Steel Co. boosted by 5 to 10 per cent of the price of certain special steels sold to farm equipment manufacturers for use in plows and harrows.

Some major producers raised the price of zinc 1 cent a pound to 14½ cents a pound, East St. Louis. They included American Metal Climax, Inc., National Zinc Co. and U.S. Smelting, Refining and Mining Co.

This was the second boost in a year and the fifth in two years.

American Smelting & Refining Co. raised its price for lead 1 cent a pound to 15 cents at New York.

Gal 2 week in business adv for weekend editions

Elsewhere on the pricing front, International Paper Co. increased by about 5 per cent prices of bleached paper used for greeting cards, books, utility grades of offset and business papers, and Westinghouse Electric Co. raised prices for certain types of electrical equipment.

Steel production, already up to a 16-month high, posted a slight increase last week, totaling 2,571,000 tons against 2,563,000 the previous week.

Industry sources said demand for steel is likely to decline if the General Motors strike isn't settled quickly.

Efforts to settle local issues at GM plants plodded along at a pace indicating the strike could last another week or longer.

GM continued to shut down parts plants which had been permitted by the United Auto Workers to continue operating to supply competing Ford and Chrysler which already had reached contract agreements. GM was running out of storage space.

Some GM dealers exhausted their supply of 1965 models and were laying off employes. Others laid off included railroad workers on trains carrying autos and parts, auto carrier firms, food operations which service GM plants and the like.

The strike again cut into auto production, slicing estimated output this week to 82,840 passenger cars against 179,532 last year.

Sales fell sharply below a year earlier in the first 10 days of October. Dealers sold 210,132 American-made cars, off 20 per cent from 262,706 a year earlier. The strike was one reason and another was that this year new cars went on sale in late September while last year they went on sale in early October.

The Commerce Department reported that the gross national products — total of all goods and services — in the third quarter reached an annual rate of $627.5 billion. This was $43.5 billion above the 1963 rate.

The report showed that consumer purchases of goods and services rose $8.5 billion; fixed investments increased $2 billion; residential construction dropped $500 million, and inventory accumulation fell $2 billion.

Cotton Prices Score Gains In Futures Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices were mostly unchanged to higher in trading this week on the New York Cotton Exchange.

Domestic futures closed unchanged to up $1.25 a bale from a week earlier, and the No. 2 contracts ranged from 50 cents lower to $1.25 a bale higher.

Gains also were registered by most contracts in the preceding week.

Trading was confined mostly to the No. 1 contract until the final session on Friday.

Commission houses were on both sides of the market. Much activity was devoted to switching operations.

MONROE OIL, GAS

Week's Activity Continues High

Volume of activity was virtually unchanged last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, as seven wells were completed in the 15-parish northeast Louisiana area, compared with eight the preceding week.

Little change was noted in other forms of activity, with District Manager Duncan S. Cook reporting 26 active rigs in nine parishes, while 23 new locations were staked, also in nine parishes.

There was a single recompletion, in Richland Parish, the Big Creek Field. It was the Bering Company's R. W. Price No. 2, recompleted at 3,015 feet in section 5-16-8E.

Completions were widely scattered in six of the district's 15 parishes, with only one, Rapides Parish, accounting for as many as two. There were single completions in Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Madison and Tensas Parishes.

Center of most of the active rigs was LaSalle Parish which had nine, followed by Concordia with five drilling or testing. Others included three in Rapides Parish, two each in Grant, Ouachita and Catahoula, one each in Avoyelles, Richland and Union.

Five new locations were staked in each of Concordia and Franklin Parishes, four were staked in Catahoula Parish, three in Rapides, two in Tensas and one each in Ouachita, Avoyelles, Caldwell and Winn.

Applications have been filed for permit to drill at each location.

Four wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, which left 67 inactive sites in the district.

Cook's report included this information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations:

Business Briefs

ADDS PRODUCT LINE

A full line of cash registers has been added to the product line of the Monroe International branch office in Monroe, it was announced by T. W. Wood, branch manager. The office is located at 2400 Louisville Avenue.

The new line is known as Monroe-Sweda. Cash registers for retail data processing systems will also be handled by the Monroe office, Wood said.

The Monroe branch covers Union, Morehouse, West Carroll, East Carroll, Caldwell, Tensas, Lincoln, Ouachita, Richland, Madison, Franklin and Jackson Parishes in Louisiana.

Monroe and Monroe - Sweda are divisions of Litton Industries.

POWER LINE REBUILT

A 3½-mile electric distribution line, from the Ouachita River south to Cypress Street along 7th Street in West Monroe, has been rebuilt by Louisiana Power & Light Company.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in West Monroe, said the distribution facility was built with larger conductor in order to provide more line-carrying capability, and thus additional power for the growing area.

McConnell said the line, which is rated at 13,800 volts, is a key feeder in the West Monroe area, and will be important to future industrial development of the area.

Construction work on the project was completed by the W. S. Young Construction Company.

QUARTER CENTURY CLUB

VIDALIA, (Special) — A Vidalia resident has been admitted to membership in the Quarter Century Society of International Paper Company.

George Spurgeon Smith, a Foreman in the Finishing and Shipping Department of International's Natchez Mill recently became a member of the Quarter Century Society. His enrollment brought membership in the Natchez Chapter of the Society to 56.

The Quarter Century Society is made up of International Paper employees who have completed at least 25 years of service with the company. Along with their membership pin and certificate, they are presented a paid-up life insurance policy.

AWARDED CERTIFICATE

A Certificate of Achievement has been awarded to Joel E. Penton, special representative, in Winnsboro for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, for having completed the Company's Sales Training School in Life Insurance, held at the Home Office in Greensboro, N. C.

New Oil Area Is Designated Pisgah Field

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The recent discovery in Rankin County has been designated as the Pisgah Oil Field with the discovery well being George H. Jett Drilling Company's No. 1, west sec. 14-7n-4e. The new oiler was completed last week and is flowing at the rate of 113 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 10,165-75 feet.

Drill stem testing operations are being attempted at Skelly Oil Company's closely watched Scott County wildcat, the Miles No. 1, sec. 17-5n-7e, located near Pulaski. Operators are releasing no information on the well with reports that gas shows were encountered while coring operations were under way below 5,000 feet. The wildcat is approximately six miles west of Pan American Petroleum Corporation's recent Smackover lime discovery in Scott County.

Also in Scott County, two other interesting wildcat tests are drilling to explore the Smackover lime formation. State Exploration Company is below 11,700 feet in its Worrel No. 1, sec. 25-8n-7e, located near Harpersville. Pan American is below 8,500 feet in its U.S.A. Morton No. 1, sec. 26-6n-6e, near Morton.

In northern Smith County Pan American Petroleum Corp. is drilling below 15,300 feet in its deep wildcat the Thomas No. 1, sec. 13-4n-7e. The venture is scheduled to be drilled to 16,350 feet. Also in its wildcat the Unit No. 1, sec. 19-2n-9e, near Sylvarena. Contract depth is 12,000 feet.

Shell Oil Company is drilling below 14,100 feet in its wildcat the Brown's No. 1, sec. 27-2n-10e, located near Bay Spring's. Contract depth is 16,600 feet. In Simpson County Phillips Petroleum Company is drilling below 14,300 feet and nearing contract depth in its wildcat the Zellerbach No. 1, sec. 21-10n-19w, approximately three miles north of the Gwinville Field.

Triad Oil and McAlester Fuel Company have completed their old Kent Bank No. 1, sec. 23-7n-1w, in the Blackburn field of Jones County. The well is flowing at the rate of 288 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 12,822-30 feet. In the Knox field of Marion County, Texaco Inc. has completed its George Sellers No. 2, sec. 9-2n-12e, as a dual gas well. A sand at 12,380-90 feet flowed 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day and the second zone at 12,526-26 feet flowed of gas daily.

In Wayne County Union Producing Company is drilling below 9,100 feet in its wildcat, the Mozingo, No. 1, sec. 14-8n-8w, a 12,300 foot try.

Stock Market Losses Slight During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week was beset by an unusual assortment of unsettling news events but managed to come through with only a slight loss.

Prices were on a strong uptrend as the week ended.

Wall Street had to digest the following:

— The replacement of Nikita Khrushchev as the leader of Soviet Russia.

—The Labor Party victory in Britain.

— The scandal involving White House aide Walter Jenkins.

— The explosion of an atom bomb by Red China.

After routine movements for the first three trading days, the market broke sharply on Thursday under nervous uncertainty over the first three pieces of news.

Late Thursday afternoon, however, various brokerage houses advised clients to buy stock at the cheaper levels and the market began a turnabout which continued on Friday.

The list was rallying on Friday when the news of the Red Chinese bomb came over the wires. The stock list faltered, but only momentarily. Prices strengthened again and recouped a good deal of the losses taken in the previous session.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week declined 4.54 to 873.54.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week declined. 8 to 328.4.

The loss on average was quite little, and the week's trading ended on a strong note of optimism.

Volume was 25,896,020 shares compared with 25,183,790 the week before.

Bond prices sagged during the week as the major developments in international affairs injected new caution into an already wary market.

Want Ad Brings Unusual Sleeper Offer

When an executive of a Canadian railroad discovered they were urgently in need of more sleeping cars, he inserted the following advertisement in one of the trade journals:

"300 Sleepers Wanted At Once."

A short time later they received a letter from a minister of a church in Iowa offering his entire congregation.

COLONIAL BRICK HOME
Of Highest Quality Construction
In A Perfect
NATURE-BLESSED LOCATION

NORRIS PINECREST SUB., W. M.

Picturesque, high, well-drained land . . . "chock full" of beautiful trees! And that's just the beginning — for this is a restricted area where pride of ownership is evident, where home-value will never decrease! And for an extra bonus, it's convenient to schools, churches, shopping!

102 PINEWAY DRIVE

Directions: Go out Highway 80, W.M. Turn right onto Norris Lane (at blinker light). Go past Wellerman Road, turn onto Pineway Drive.

BEST FINANCING AVAILABLE

EQUALLY INVITING INTERIOR . . .

Other Tree-Covered Homesites In Norris Pinecrest Subdivision, W.M. Choose yours . . . we will build for you.

You will at first glance be impressed with the interior design, the quality materials and construction of this brick home! From the large foyer, enter the extra large living room, then to the warm ash paneled kitchen-family room with built-in oven and range, eat-on snack bar, and double sliding glass doors to the patio. There are 3 large bedrooms with bi-fold closet doors (one bedroom has built-in vanity), and 2 full ceramic tile baths, one with dressing table. Also central air conditioning and heating for year 'round weather control, double carport, and storage. And to make the picture complete, this home is set to perfection on its landscaped tree-studded lot!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a cute way to make party invitations for children:

Blow up balloons and write the invitation on them with a felt marker or crayon.

Let the balloon dry, deflate, then mail it to the children in an envelope.

I have used this balloon idea for several years and it is always a hit with the children, as they blow up the balloon to see what's written on it and find an invitation to a party.

Portia Cooper

CRYSTAL VASES

DEAR HELOISE:

When I use a crystal bowl for a flower container and do not want a water line to form in the bowl (which is almost impossible to remove), I coat the bowl lightly with shortening before filling with water.

The water can remain in the bowl until it has evaporated and it never will leave a water line.

Janelle George

KITCHEN AID

DEAR HELOISE:

This makes a convenient and steady table for wheelchair housewives. Pull out a drawer the right height and put a drawing board or cutting board on top of it. Saves many spills and is quite handy, as most drainboards are too high for us.

Jane Pock

GARDEN SPRAY MASK

DEAR HELOISE:

A swimmer's face mask may be worn over eyes and nose while spraying your plants or trees!

The mask keeps the spray or dust out of your eyes and nose!

Mrs. F. Rupor

BAKING AID

DEAR HELOISE:

Before you measure shortening, break your eggs into a measuring cup and tilt the cup so that the eggs almost pour out. Turn the cup around until the egg white has coated the entire inside of the cup.

Pour the eggs into a small dish and then measure your shortening. The shortening will not stick to the cup. It just slides out.

E. W.

FOIL THAT SMOKE

DEAR HELOISE:

When there is a large group smoking in your home, just empty all the ash trays into a big piece of foil.

When the party is over, close the foil tightly over the cigarette butts and ashes and throw it away. This prevents fires and controls odors.

H.

FRESH BREAD

DEAR HELOISE:

For those of you whose boys just will not close the end of the bread wrapper after taking out a piece of bread . . . keep a plastic bowl cover handy and show the boys how to place it over the open end of the loaf. They will then do this every time . . . I hope.

Mrs. L. J. T.

EMBROIDERY ADVICE

DEAR HELOISE:

Please let me tell all those friends who embroider that they can take their embroidery thread and wrap it around empty thread spools. Do this as soon as you bring it from the store. It will always be perfect, never tangle, and will be in fine shape when you get ready to thread your needle. I have never found a tangle after using this method.

Recently, just before winding all my new threads on these empty wooden spools, I dipped the spools in cold water for about one minute (not any longer because we don't want them to get too wet) then wound my embroidery thread around them loosely.

I set the spools on my kitchen window sill in the sunshine for two days. The little dampness which remained in the wood of the spool wetted the embroidery thread just enough so that it never tangled.

Embroiderer

UNMARKED GLOVES

DEAR HELOISE:

When drying a pair of gloves on an outdoor clothesline . . . instead of hanging them up with clothespins (which leave a mark), put a safety pin through the tip of a finger or in a buttonhole, and close the pin over the clothesline. You will have fresh, lovely gloves with no imprint of a clothespin. . .

Mrs. J. C. Tindillier

CANDLELIGHT TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:

Besides eliminating the odor of cigar smoke, burning candles also help reduce cigarette smoke in a room.

I cannot explain the reason, but the flame just seems to burn away the smoke. It is remarkable.

This is probably the reason candles are used in so many restaurants and clubs.

Patricia DeGroot

RIBBONS AND BOWS

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a little girl who has a hair ribbon and ties it differently every day . . . just put your kettle on to boil and hold the hair ribbon over the steam from the spout, letting the steam run up and down the ribbon. Then wind it around any glass or jelly jar you happen to have in your kitchen.

When it dries, all the wrinkles will be gone, and you don't have to iron it.

J. A. Kington

* * *

Ladies, we tried this and found that the best thing to hold the ribbons on the glass was a rubber band. It's a great idea.

Heloise

OPEN AND SHUT CASE

DEAR HELOISE:

To prevent zippers from rusting, I always run a little piece of bar soap over the teeth of the zipper while I am ironing.

This not only seems to retard the rust, but the zippers move more easily. I see no reason why paraffin wax wouldn't work just as well.

Mrs. David Langenback

It will!

"SOME BOLD ADVENTURERS DISDAIN THE LIMITS OF THEIR LITTLE REIGN, AND UNKNOWN REGIONS DARE DESCRY."
—THOMAS GRAY.

LET'S WORK AROUND A LITTLE CLOSER, SO WE CAN HEAR WHAT THEY'RE SAYIN' .... BLUP!

WHEW! THAT WAS CLOSE! I NEVER SAW THAT GORILLA COMIN'!

EASY DOES IT NOW; JUST FOLLOW ME!

WOW! I DIDN'T EVEN HEAR YOU COMIN' UP BEHIND ME! I MUST BE SLIPPIN'! HOW'D Y'GUESS I WAS HERE?

YOU LEFT TRACKS LIKE A TRACTOR!

NEVER GO INTO ENEMY COUNTRY, WHERE YOU DON'T KNOW THE TRAILS, AND EXPECT TO COME BACK ALIVE!

AW, SHUCKS! SHE WAS A WOMAN! SHE WOULDN'T HAVE LET 'EM HURT JUST SOME STRAY KID!

O.K.! HAVE YOUR DREAM WORLD; BUT YOU NEVER TANGLED WITH THAT OLD DRAGON! LET'S PRAY YOU NEVER DO!

YOU ... YOU KNOW HER?

VERY WELL INDEED! THAT'S MY STEPMOTHER, PORTIA; AND THAT FANCY DRESSER WITH HER IS CEDRIC!

YOUR HALF-BROTHER? I THOUGHT MAYBE SO!

WELL, YOU SHINNIED UP THE FACE OF THE CLIFF TO SEE THIS PLACE; I'LL BE YOUR GUIDE FOR A REAL TOUR! BUT WE'RE GOING TO FIND AN' EASIER WAY BACK TO OUR CAVE!

YEAH! I SURE HOPE SO! I WAS PLENTY SCARED CLIMBIN' UP HERE!

LATER.

NOW YOU'VE HAD THE TOUR: THE VAST OLD MANSION, OVERGROWN GARDENS, WHAT WERE GREENHOUSES, THE CARRIAGE HOUSE, LATER THE TEN-CAR GARAGE, SERVANT COTTAGES, SHOPS, STABLES, THE HIDDEN DRIVE-IN FROM THE ROAD! THE PERFECT HIDEOUT!

YEAH! IT SURE IS!

HEY! IT'S GETTIN' LATE! HADN'T WE BETTER START BACK, WHILE IT'S LIGHT ENOUGH TO SEE?

AND BE SEEN? HA! I'M NOT IN ENEMY COUNTRY! I KNOW THESE TRAILS BETTER THAN THE INVADERS! WE WAIT FOR DARK!

AND WHEN DARKNESS COMES!

O.K., NOW! HANG ONTO MY HAND, SO YOU DON'T GET LOST! WE'LL GO HOME THROUGH THE WINE CELLAR, IT'S SHORTER!

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! RIGHT THROUGH TH' HOUSE? YOU HAVE GOT NERVE!
